Angelo's Birthday.
Words, Turkish & Others.
Railroads Waking Up.
Chevrolet vs. Britain.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

ON March sixth, the world will or should, celebrate the birthday of Michael Angelo, greatest of artists, whose genius created men as far above Adam's strain as men are above the higher apes.

NEW YORK'S Episcopal Church of St. Mark's-in-the Bouwerie has planned a service of "scriptural oratorio," in Michael Angelo's honor.

Catholic churches owe him deepest gratitude. He created St. Peter's Cathedral, the glory of Rome and the world, and painted the walls and ceiling of the Sistine Chapel for Pope Julius II. His Pieta, a bronze statue of Mary with her dead son lying upon her knees, in St. Peter's, is at the same time the most perfect expression of a mother's grief and a most marvelous work of perfectly correct anatomy. His marble statue of Moses, in the Church of "St. Peter in Chains," is the finest statue ever made of a human being. It is well worth crossing the ocean twice to see it.

THE great artist fought against ignorance and prejudice, as when one of the cardinals compelled him to put more clothes on his picture of the Last Judgment, Michael Angelo in revenge painted that cardinal in hell in the picture.

The wise Julius, who thought more of Michael Angelo than of many cardinals, since he, the Pope, could create cardinals and only God could create Michael Angelo, refused to order the cardinal's picture removed from its unpleasant location.

"IF Michael Angelo had put you in Purgatory," the Pope said to the angry cardinal, "I might release you. But you know well that even I have not the power to take you out of Hell."

THE new Turkish dictionary, printed in our letters, instead of Arabic characters, contains 24,000 words, one quarter the number in a good dictionary of good English. The average Turkish peasant uses fewer than 800 words, and that is true of the average human being. Many Americans get along nicely with "Gee, Sure, Swell, I'll Tell The World," and very few more.

SHAKESPEARE uses more words by far than any writer in our literature. Maxim Gorky told this writer that certain Russian writers had used more words than Shakespeare and that the Russian language was richer than English in words and synonyms. Perhaps he was mistaken.

The ancient Hebrew language, you will remember, contained no words such as Greek and other philosophers used to express abstract ideas, until Maimonides created the Hebrew words for his translations of Greek authors.

The great synagogue in Spain excommunicated him for that, but the learned "Rambam," working for a Mohommedan and living in Egypt, did not worry.

BEAR in mind, as you read about India, that 5,000 years of that country's literature reveals no use of the world "Liberty." That helps to explain Britain's power, with a handful of men, to rule 300,000,000 Asiatics. To attain liberty you must think, talk and write about it.

RAILROADS are doing better than ever, financially, thanks to increased freights and liberal rates. But passenger traffic diminishes alarmingly. In 1928 rail passenger traffic was lowest in 23 years.

This is caused, not by less travel, but by more automobile and motor bus travel. In a light automobile a man with his wife and children can go from ocean to ocean for less than it would cost one to go by rail.

INTELLIGENT railroad men realize that they let the automobile situation get away from them, content at first to belittle it. Local freight and passenger traffic by automobile have taught a lesson. The same mistake will not be made with flying.

COL. LINDBERGH has been retained by Gen. Atterbury, of the Pennsylvania-Santa Fe railroad and air route from New York to California in 48 hours, starting in April.

The New York Central has entered the air-passenger field, and Mr. Carry, president of the Pullman Company, has long since put his engineers to work on the air-Pullman sleeper problem.

IT IS time for railroads to think of flying, and especially of small, less expensive passenger-carrying units, modified combination automobile trains, run on existing tracks. A passenger coach, carrying 5 per cent of its weight in passengers, to say nothing of the locomotive, cannot compete with a small automobile, carrying passengers weighing as much as the car.

AMERICAN corporations may sometimes be slow adopting new ideas, but the people are not slow. Statistics show that in all the world there are 31,929,952 automobiles, and in 1928 24,494,580 of them were in this country.

We have 8 per cent of the world's population and 75 per cent of the world's automobiles.

TOTAL British automobile manufacture for 1928 amounted to 215,000 cars, less than one-quarter the number turned out by Chevrolet, which is only one unit in General Motors.

A CATHOLIC, a Protestant and a Jew have been appointed to advise and encourage religious tendencies at Columbia University, New York.

A survey of religious affiliations among 1,595 students showed 41.4 Protestants 20.3 Catholics and 14.9 Jews.

MISSING PASTOR SOUGHT HERE

SOLD AUTO, HAD CASH; TRAILED TO TRAIN

City and county authorities and the Missing Persons Bureau today are conducting a search for the Rev. Harry H. Rutchel, 33, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Vandegrift, who disappeared after purchasing a ticket for his home town in the Pennsylvania Railroad Station here on Saturday.

Known to have more than $500 in cash and jewelry on his person, the missing pastor may have met with foul play, friends believe.

SOLD AUTO

On Thursday the clergyman sold his automobile and left his home in Vandergrift for Seward, Pa., near Johnstown. He left Seward Saturday at noon, telephoning his wife that he would go directly to Pittsburgh and from there to Vandergrift. Friends and relatives have determined that he arrived in the depot here and then purchased a ticket for Vandergrift.

AID ASKED HERE.

A search was started Sunday when Chief D. F. Johnston, of Vandergrift, was informed of the man's disappearance. This morning Chief Johnston enlisted the aid of Allegheny county authorities and the city police and missing person's bureau. Mrs. Rutchel told police her husband had been ill, and there is a possibility that he may be suffering from loss of memory.

Rev. Rutchel spent many years as an evangelist, coming to Vandergrift a year ago. He accepted the pastorate of the Baptist Church. His home is at 135 East Adams avenue. He has three daughters and one son. At the time of his disappearance the clergyman had the money obtained in the sale of his automobile.

Kin of Taft, Chief Justice, Loses Plea

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—(INS.)—Elizabeth C. Taft, of Detroit, a niece-in-law of Chief Justice Taft, today lost in the Supreme Court an appeal to escape a $2,040 tax upon her income in 1923. She contended the government erroneously taxed her upon increment in th value of Nash Motor stock before she acquired it by gift from her father. Chief Justice Taft took no part in the case.

William B. Leeds, Jr., Confined by Asthma

HONOLULU, Feb. 18. — (AP.)—William B. Leeds, Jr., of the wealthy "tin plate" family, has been confined to his bed for four days with a severe attack of asthma. Physicians said his condition was not serious but that he was extremely uncomfortable.

Leeds recently came to Honolulu from the mainland with his wife, the former Princess Xenia, of Russia, and several friends.

Beary, 60, Spends Birthday at Work

HARRISBURG, Feb. 18.—(AP.)—Adjt. Gen. Frank D. Beary, of Allentown, today celebrated his sixtieth birthday anniversary by being at his desk, as usual, hard at work on plans for Pennsylvania's participation in the inauguration of Herbert Hoover on March 4.

The office force presented the general with a basket of roses to mark the occasion.

Accusing words lisped by Helen, 3, found abandoned on a Bellefield doorstep, today caused her father, Fred Burton, 27, 344 Hemlock street, to be jailed by Magistrate Brandon, Morals Court. Mrs. Minnie Burton, mother, also jailed, had left the child and a note saying she sought to remove the child from its father's cruelty.

TAXES BURDEN FILM ACTORS

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 18.—"Taxation without representation is tyranny!" Those words have rung down the ages since the historical Boston Tea Party was the first stepping stone to America's glorious independence. Today these words have come to have an ironic meaning to some of our motion picture people in Hollywood who have been so flagrantly and unfairly treated by the income tax collectors.

The situation is almost as outrageous as it was in France when taxes were farmed out to collectors who took dastardly and unfair means to plunder the public. France's redress later was the revolutionary war which tore the country apart and brought about a terrific struggle between the aristocracy and the plundered classes.

BASED ON REPUTED PAY

Our own American Revolution was caused directly by taxation when King George failed to listen to the pleas of the long-suffering colonists. Injustice is bad enough in any class. But it is particularly outrageous in the case of motion picture people because the whole system of income taxation is an unjust one; and when the exactions of the tax collector are added to this injustice the situation is doubly unjust and intolerable.

The collectors sent out to exact taxation use as their unfair incen-

SLAYING OF SON BOWS DOHENY

International News Service.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 18.—Murdered by his closest companion, E. L. Doheny, Jr., was dead today in dramatic climax to his sensational connection with the Teapot Dome scandal.

Hugh Plunkett, his confidential secretary and most trusted friend, deranged by a nervous disorder, killed the only son of the oil magnate in his Beverly Hills home Saturday night and then ended his own life, police decided.

Meanwhile, the elder Doheny, aged 72, was reported in a state of nervous collapse, although Dr. E. C. Fishbaugh, the family physician, denied reports he was near death. Surrounded by guards and attendants, the sorrowing father remained in seclusion in the Beverly Hills mansion of his slain son, where the double shooting occurred.

Sunk in the depths of grief, the young multimillionaire's widow, the former Lucy Smith, daughter of a socially prominent Southern California family, also was suffering from a nervous breakdown. Her

American Sculptor Honored by Sweden

STOCKHOLM, Feb. 18.—(AP.)—King Gustave, of Sweden, has bestowed upon James E. Fraser, of New York, American sculptor, the order of vasa with the rank of knight, first class. Mr. Fraser executed the John Ericsson Memorial, which was unveiled in Potomac Park, Washington, in May, 1926, by the Swedish Crown Prince Gustavus Adolphus.

Fred Stone Gives Crutches for Golf

SEBRING, Fla., Feb. 18.—(AP.)—Fred Stone, comedian, has laid aside his crutches and gone back to golf clubs. He was injured in an airplane accident about a year ago. The news was given out today by Rex Beach, the novelist, at whose home here Stone is a guest. Beach said Stone played in a threesome yesterday with him and a local professional.

Archbishop Cancels Public Engagements

LONDON, Feb. 18.—(AP.)—Although the archbishop of Canterbury, the most Rev. WET DRYS SAFE, REED SAYS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—(INS.)—Before a crowd that jammed the Senate galleries, Senator James A. Reed, of Missouri, this afternoon made a second attack upon existing prohibition conditions and the Jones bill, increasing penalties for dry law violations.

Reed continued a speech, started Saturday, in which he charged the desire to provide heavy penalties for prohibition violators had turned temperance into persecution. He protested against "atrocious penalties."

A final vote on the bill was expected late in the afternoon, as an agreement has been made, limiting debate after 4 o'clock.

NOT TO NAME HYPOCRITES

Reed announced he would not make public the list, which he threatened Saturday to write, of those who "vote dry and drink wet."

"I would not violate the confidence of my friends who were merely seeking a bit of the sunshine of life," he said. "All these people may compose themselves, I

Home So Near and Yet So Far, With Pants Stolen

From Towley street, in the Hill district, to Broad street, in the East End, is a short journey normally. But it's a long way to go for a man who has been robbed of his trousers.

It was too long for Earl O'Neil, of 5915 Broad street, early today after two holdup men had taken his trousers, his overcoat and $18.

O'Neil appealed to Center Avenue police, but they had no barrels on hand. Then a charitable policeman gave him cab fare.

GOVERNOR FRAMES BILL

By WILLIAM I. GRUNDISH,
Staff Correspondent.

HARRISBURG, Feb. 18.—The Fisher administration plans to introduce legislation designed to curtail the powers and centralize the control of the coal and iron police, according to reports here today.

It is understood that Gov. Fisher last week conferred with Attorney General Cyrus E. Woods on the problem, which came to a head with the brutal killing of John Borkoski, Tyre miner.

STRIKE ECHOES

Complaints received by the Governor's office during the bituminous coal strike seem to have convinced the Governor, who always has expressed himself as opposed to the system as now operated, that the state must take some action.

When he made public his budget in January, Fisher explained that he asked an increase of the state police force to 421, its legal limit, as part of his program to curtail the activities of the coal and iron police.

BILL LIMITS POWERS

While the Governor would not discuss the legislation that is being prepared at his direction, it is understood that it will include more definite control over the activities of such police, frequent reports concerning their work as individuals and possibly a law restricting them to the property of the company to which they are assigned.

NEAR-ZERO ON WAY HERE

The spring-like weather of the last 24 hours will give way to a cold wave tonight and tomorrow, Forecaster W. S. Brotzman announced today. The mercury will fall to between 10 and 15 degrees tonight, a plunge of 30 degrees compared with today.

The cold will last two days, according to Brotzman, as low temperatures prevail throughout the Northwest and plains states today. Yesterday's peak here was 47.

Baltimore Publisher Lands at Marseilles

LE BOURGET, France, Feb. 18.—(AP.)—Van Lear Black, Baltimore publisher, hopped off this morning for Marseilles in continuation of his flight, begun last week, from Croydon, England, to South Africa. Adverse weather delayed his departure for several days.

Word came from Marseilles that Black's machine landed safely at Marignane airfield at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon.

Near death last night, the Rev. Dr. Hillis, pastor emeritus, Plymouth Church, Brooklyn, apparently has taken a slight turn for the better, his physician says. He suffered a stroke six weeks ago.

CORONER CALLS KILLING BRAWL

Coroner W. J. McGregor and Deputy Coroner Michael Horn visited Santiago and Imperial today to get information concerning the killing of John Borkoski. This is in preparation for the inquest, which will be held tomorrow.

McGregor interviewed several witnesses and upon his return described the affair as "a drunken brawl."

George W. Murren, chief of county detectives, said 14 witnesses had been subpenaed.

The three former Pittsburgh Coal Company policemen accused of the killing—Lieut. W. J. Lyster and Privates Harold P. Watts and Frank Slapakis—have not yet obtained legal counsel, it was said today at the county jail, where they are being detained.

The trigger guard bent so that it almost touches the trigger, a revolver taken from Pvt. H. P. Watts, one of the three Pittsburgh Coal Company policemen arrested in connection with the killing of John Borkoski, will be used as evidence

HOSPITAL REPORTS SUICIDE

Two official records, one a police station day book and the other a coroner's report, indicate a tragic story of tangled lives in the death by poisoning of Mrs. Evelyn Shilling, 27, of 1525 Grandin avenue, Dormont.

The coroner's office today will investigate the report that Mrs. Shilling's death in St. Joseph's Hospital early yesterday followed the swallowing of poison tablets.

TRAILED BY HUSBAND

A Mrs. Evelyn Shilling, police records show, was arrested early Sunday, February 10, at the behest of a husband who had trailed his wife to a rooming house in West North avenue.

In Morals Court, the same day, Mrs. Shilling and John J. Binder, who said he lived at the Kirkwood Hotel, were fined $10 each, and several others taken in the raid were discharged.

W. R. Shilling summoned a physician to his Grandin avenue home that night. Mrs. Evelyn Shilling, his wife, had swallowed poison tablets by mistake, he said, while seeking a headache remedy. She was removed to the hospital where she died yesterday, a suicide, according to the report to the coroner.

MARRIED THREE YEARS

Shilling, visibly affected by his wife's death, was reluctant to discuss the case. They had been married three years and their life had been happy, he said.

Mrs. Schilling's body was removed to the home of her father, F. C. Betts, 910 Mifflin street, Wilkinsburg. Funeral services are to be held tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in the parents' home. The body will be taken to Indiana, Pa., Wednesday and interment will be private at that place.

Rose Stokes Taken With Strike Pickets

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—(AP.)—More than 150 persons, including Rose Pastor Stokes and Adolph Wolff, well-known radicals, were arrested in the garment center today charged with mass picketing.

Before he was arrested, Charles Zimmerman, manager of the strike committee of the International Needle Trade Workers' Union, which called the strike, said 4,000 pickets were in the district this morning. Some shops have settled differences with employes, although peace has not yet been made with a number of others.

HAVANA, Feb. 18.—(AP.)—Alfred E. Smith and party of 12, including John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, will sail for Miami on the steamer Iroquois tonight. In his week's visit here the recent presidential candidate has been honor guest at a number of social functions and has played golf daily on the Havana Country Club links.

CHAPTER I.

THE Overland Limited was two days out of Chicago, and even the least friendly of its passengers were beginning to smile and nod to one another when they passed in the aisles or met in the dining or observation cars. The easy comradeship of the West had begun.

Perhaps the pretty girl who stayed by herself in Compartment A did not know that. Certainly the grave young man in Compartment B who spent most of his time playing solitaire, paid no attention to it.

The rest of the travelers, even the famous motion picture actress on the way to Hollywood, had become a family. Everyone knew that the frail little woman in brown was going to join her husband in Japan, that the girl with the red hair was to be married out in Washington, and that the pale boy with his mother was going to seek health in the dry desert country. They knew many facts of one another's lives and they resented, quite openly, the exclusiveness of the other two.

The girl, blonde, slender and fashionably dressed, moved as though an invisible veil protected her from contact with the world. They guessed her to be a countess—perhaps even a princess—traveling incognito. But guessing was all they could do. Something in her manner discouraged even ordinary friendliness.

The young man was equally puzzling. He was the sort who commands feminine interest—ruggedly good-looking, with broad shoulders and slender hands, the strength-and-tenderness sort of thing. But he certainly was unresponsive. The red-haired girl declared he was either a fugitive from justice or a broken-hearted Pierrot, going to the East to drink himself to death in approved romantic fashion.

"Traveling to the Orient?" she asked him one afternoon when he sought a breath of air on the observation platform. And, provocatively, when he shook his head, "I thought perhaps you were a missionary—going to the heathen!"

A strange look came into his eyes. "Perhaps I am going to the heathen!" he said, and turned away.

He moved through the cars, deep in thought, opened a compartment door and absently entered.

A girl sitting at the window looked up. Her startled blue eyes flashed a question.

"Oh, I'm sorry!" he apologized, "I thought it was my compartment . . . the doors look so all alike . . . I . . ."

The girl smiled—a shy smile, with something in

CALIFORNIA MOVING TO CRUSH DRUG TRAFFIC

STRIPS DOPE DOCTORS OF LICENSES

By A. M. ROCHLEN.

(Copyright, 1929, by Los Angeles Examiner and Universal Service.)

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 18.—California wants no compromise with "technical" murderers who crush bodies and souls with "minor violations" of dope addiction laws.

While Washington officials are busy explaining how and why more than 1,200 cases of Harrison Narcotic act violations were settled with the Federal government in 1928 for cash and without court trial, this state is preparing to enact a law making such compromises by physicians sufficient cause to revoke medical licenses.

Senate Bill No. 217, introduced by Senator John J. Crowley, of San Francisco, and Senator Sanford Young, of Los Gatos, chairman of the State Narcotic Committee, proposes changes of the Medical act, and will come up for action when the Legislature reconvenes today.

DOCTORS' BACK BILL

"Conviction of or cash compromise of a charge of violation of the Harrison act, regulating narcotics, shall be conclusive evidence upon which the State Medical Board may act to revoke the license of the physicians involved," the proposed law reads.

The Crowley-Young bill was introduced with the sanction of Dr. Charles B. Pinkham, secretary of the State Medical Board, and an old crusader against the system of cash compromises for law violators. The bill is the answer of the hundreds of professional men, educators and leaders of public opinion to the "assurances" of the Federal officials at Washington that cash compromises cover only cases of "technical violations" where no harm or intent is shown.

Just to make the state's crusade against the dope traffic more effective, another amendment to the present laws will be presented to the Legislature this session.

"TEETH" PUT IN LAWS

This bill, also supported by anti-narcotic workers and by Senator Frank Benson, state narcotic director, provides "teeth" for the present state laws governing supply of narcotics through physicians' prescriptions.

It provides jail sentences, from six months to six years, for altering or forging prescriptions, and fines and jail sentences for lesser violations.

The present state laws, applicable to physicians, are weak in that they omit certain penal provisions. It is because this situation exists that the state especially regrets the failure of Federal authorities to make the Harrison narcotic act 100 per cent effective, veteran law enforcement officials declare.

PEDDLER CALLED "VULTURE"

What the experts think of the drug peddler—be he a "bindle bootlegger" or a licensed physician dispensing his death-dealing wares under the guise of medicine and under the cloak of respectability—is forcefully expressed in a letter sent to the Los Angeles Examiner by the Narcotic Research Association of the Pacific Coast States.

"The dope peddler is civilization's greatest enemy. He is a vulture in human form, the most malignant foe the world has ever known," the association states.

And the organization which includes the leading legal, medical and educational minds in the country, deplores the policy of cash compromises for law violators, no matter how described or defended!

N. Y. PROSECUTOR ACTIVE

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—Cash compromises by violators of the Harrison narcotic drug act are not accepted in the southern district of New York, United States Attorney Charles H. Tuttle said last night. All reported violations are made the subject of criminal prosecution, Mr. Tuttle said.

It was recalled today that in most narcotic cases, even when prosecuted by Mr. Tuttle's assistants, he has appeared personally in court on the day of sentence to ask not only for the imposition of jail sentences, but for the infliction of the longest possible terms of imprisonment.

Transports Stolen Car, Gets 18 Months

Archie Lauer, 25, of California, pleaded guilty to transporting a stolen automobile from Pittsburgh to Seneca Falls, N. The car belonged to Attorney John H. Sorg. Lauer was arrested in Denver, Colo.

they had no especial religious convictions.

ONCE the Catholics, Protestants and Jews would have thought that all not of their own religion must go to hell.

Now, probably they think that only about the 25 per cent that have no religion.

And even that opinion may change. There is a growing suspicion that a being great enough to manage this universe would not burn any of his own creatures FOREVER.

Even "Dummy" Policemen Blow Up

SHARON, Pa., Feb. 18.—What is believed to be the first case on record of a traffic blinker exploding and injuring a man, has been reported here. John Frederickson, of the city street department, was repairing the blinker at Davis street and South Irvine avenue Saturday. When he attempted to light it an explosion followed and he was thrown to the pavement, sustaining slight body bruises. Firemen were called to extinguish the blaze which followed.

'RUM MENACING U. S.'—BRANDON

"The greatest problem facing the American people since the days of slavery is that of how to rid the country of poison moonshine liquor, and the crying need of the hour is for a second Lincoln who will hit this damnable condition and hit it hard," thundered Magistrate A. D. Brandon, of Morals Court, from the pulpit of the East End Christian Church, Highland avenue and Alder street, last night.

Judge Brandon occupied the pulpit of the Rev. Dr. John Ray Ewers in reciprocity for the latter's recent sitting on Morals Court bench.

"LIQUOR FILLING JAILS"

"This poisonous moonshine they are dispensing today is filling our jails, hospitals and almshouses to overflowing," Brandon said. "Out of over 8,000 family cases involving family relations, in at least 97 per cent the underlying cause is moonshine liquor."

Declaring the present law dealing with liquor violators is ineffective, due to the long delays involved in prosecuting violators, Judge Brandon suggested as a remedy a law which would make it possible for him to send violators to jail without the option of a fine.

"Give me a law like this, with enforcement officers doing their part and bringing these cases before me—and I can go a long way toward clearing up this poisonous liquor problem," he said. "You will never do it with a fine or with a jury system that fails to convict."

ASSAILS JURY SYSTEM

Speaking of the crime wave in general, the magistrate assailed the present jury system and criminal law.

"Public apathy, legal technicalities, quibbling of courts, unscrupulous lawyers, closely aligned with the underworld, and professional bondsmen are largely responsible for the crime wave that is sweeping our country today," he continued. "There are 22 ways in which our laws favor the criminal. What we need today is less law and more common sense in our criminal jurisprudence."

Judge Brandon declared himself in favor of abolishing the present grand jury system as an inquisitorial body and a tightening of the parole and probation system.

Enraged Man Kills Wife, Baby and Self

CHICAGO, Feb. 18.—(AP.)—Enranged because his wife, Georgianna, 20, refused his plea of reconciliation, Joseph Baumruk, shot and killed her and their 2-year-old son, Joseph, Jr., whom she was holding, then committed suicide. The shooting took place at the home of Mrs. Baumruk's father.

13 NATIONS AID FIGHT ON DRUG SMUGGLING

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—Negotiation of informal agreements with 13 countries for the direct exchange of information on international narcotic traffickers with a view to suppressing smuggling has just been announced by the State Department.

Col. L. G. Nutt

With some nations the arrangement already has been in effect and has produced helpful results, said Col. L. G. Nutt, chief of the Federal Narcotic Bureau. He hopes later the plan will be extended to all countries signatory to The Hague opium convention, which provided for limitation of drug production.

The agreement seeks chiefly to cut through diplomatic red tape to enable foreign police departments to communicate directly to Col. Nutt any suspected activities of known drug smugglers. Heretofore, such tips had to go through such slow channels that they were useless.

Three purposes are set forth in the agreement.

1—The direct exchange between the Treasury Department and the corresponding office in the foreign country of information and evidence with reference to persons engaged in the illicit traffic. This would include such information as photographs, criminal records, finger prints, Bertillon measurements, descriptions of the methods which the persons in question have been found to use, the places from which they have operated, the partners they have worked with, etc.

2—The immediate direct forwarding of information by letter or cable as to the suspected movements of narcotic drugs, or of those involved in smuggling drugs, if such movements might concern the other country. Unless such information as this reaches its destination directly and speedily it is useless.

3—Mutual co-operation in detective and investigating work.

Nations accepting the plan are Belgium, Czechoslovakia, Denmark, France, Germany, Great Britain, Greece, Italy, Japan, the Netherlands, Spain, Turkey and Poland (for the free city of Danzig).

Col. Nutt has estimated that between 95 to 98 per cent of the illicit dope in America is smuggled from abroad. In an effort to stem this tide, the State Department initiated the negotiations. All but Switzerland of the countries in which drug factories were charged by the League of Nations opium committee with supplying large quantities of dope to the illegal traffic fell into line. The committee specifically named factories also in Holland, Germany and France.

Another step may follow shortly in the effort to bring about stricter control of smuggling operations. It is the proposal, sponsored in the House by Representative Fish, Republican, of New York, to organize an American intelligence force abroad to spy on dope traffickers. The narcotic bureau wants this done. State Department officials approve the bill, conditioned, of course, on whether any objections are raised by foreign powers. Sentiment of the various governments to be sounded out.

Correspondence between America and the powers on the new agreement revealed one jarring note. Turkey stipulated the arrangement must not interfere with its commerce in crude opium.

CLEARED ONCE, DEFENSE IN RUM TRIAL

A fight of defense counsel to establish former acquittal as a bar to further prosecution of groups of alleged North Side liquor conspirators, including police and politicians, was the opening gun fired today in United States Court when the first of the trials was started.

The government won this first skirmish when Judge Nelson McVicar instructed the jury to deny the defense plea. The trial, on the plea of not guilty, then proceeded.

The Twenty-third Ward case, with Fred Stratman, alleged ward concessionaire, and Oscar Reister, as defendants, was the first of the five North Side cases called for trial. This morning was devoted to selecting a jury and when the trial opened this afternoon the plea of former acquittal, recorded with a plea of not guilty on general arraignment day two weeks ago, was raised by defense counsel.

BASED ON ACQUITTAL

This plea, one rarely heard in the United States Court here, was based on the verdict of acquittal directed by Judge R. M. Gibson when all North Side defendants were tried in a group on charges of conspiracy. Judge Gibson held that the general conspiracy had not been proved, and indicated that ward conspiracies had been established by the testimony. Reindictment by wards followed.

THREE SCORE THERE

More than three score defendants from the North Side and South Side and 600 government witnesses thronged the corridors of the Federal Building today, in response to summonses.

All defendants of the South Side group were dismissed before court opened, and instructed to return Wednesday. North Side defendants were held and it was considered likely that others besides the Twenty-third Ward group would be called for trial today.

Most North Side defendants were acquitted in December on blanket charges and were reindicted last month by ward groups.

have never sunk to the level of an informer."

Reed declared prohibitionists were seeking to "substitute force for reason, penalties for persuasion and cruelties for charity."

"Where they once sought to rescue the perishing they now send him to jail," said Reed. "They abandon the Bible, the church book and the temperance tract for the lash, the prison, the gun and the bludgeon."

Calling attention to the recent Durant test for a new method of enforcing prohibition, Reed pointed out that 187 contestants had recommended the death penalty for prohibition violations.

The Missourian lit into the undercover agents, characterizing the men who act as spies "the lowest form of animal life."

"Whenever a man will engage in a business, knowing in advance he must peep through keyholes, pull aside curtains, lurk in the shadows like some wild beast, must be prepared to lie and betray—a man of that kind will do anything his cowardly soul will permit," he said.

"You can't get men to do this work. Hence it goes into the hands of those who are criminals or near-criminals.

"They set their traps in hotels and spend government money to induce some poor devil, a bellboy probably, to bring in a little liquor that he may be arrested.

"And all this is sanctified by the glory of law."

against him, District Attorney Gardner declared today.

Constable Ross Schaffer told Gardner, the latter said, that Watts had admitted to him that he used the revolver to "subdue" Borkoski.

Gardner also has the poker with which Lieut. Lyster is alleged to have beaten Borkoski, a blackjack said to belong to Watts and two brass knucklers, one said to be Lyster's and the other Watts'.

The district attorney repeated today, with vehemence, that he will seek to send the accused policemen to the electric chair.

"It was a brutal murder, and a premeditated one," said Gardner. "I base my contention that the man was deliberately murdered on the fact that Dr. J. M. Patterson told the police that if they did not stop beating him they would kill him, and they continued to beat him, nevertheless."

Indignation over the killing of Borkoski has led to the introduction in the Legislature by Representative M. A. Musmanno of a bill calling for abolition of the system.

The Carnegie Steel Company, largest single employer of coal and iron police, with more than 300 on its payroll, will not oppose abolition of the system, Vice President L. H. Burnett said today.

The Slovak League of America has passed a resolution calling for a change in the coal and iron police system. The league draws its membership largely from coal miners.

The resolution, in the form of a petition to Gov. John S. Fisher and the Legislature, calls upon them to:

Revoke all the existing commissions for coal and iron police officers, replenish the regular State Constabulary to its full strength, or if necessary increase its number.

If coal and iron police are retained, re-issue commissions only after careful investigation as to fitness and character of applicant;

Limit the power of function of such coal and iron police to the guarding and protecting of company property exclusively.

Pass an Act of Assembly, strictly defining the duties and rights of such coal and iron police.

Regulate by Act of Assembly the use of uniforms for such coal and iron police, different in every essential from that of the regular State Constabulary.

Petitions for the removal of Ross Schaffer as constable of Glenfield because of his alleged failure to interfere when Borkoski was being killed are being held in abeyance pending the inquest, Burgess George W. Sebolt said today. Schaffer was present in the police barracks at Imperial when Borkoski was beaten, but claimed he was sleeping in another room and was unaware of what was going on.

Sebolt said he would attend the inquest, that Schaffer might be given a fair chance. Unless the evidence clearly indicates that the constable was in no way to blame, he said, the petitions for his removal will be circulated for signatures and presented in court.

Although elected by the people of Glenfield, Schaffer spent little time there on his duties, the burgess said, working mostly out of the office of Justice of the Peace Margaret Morgan, of Sewickley.

Steers Tangle North Side Traffic

Pedestrians fled to cover and vehicular traffic was stopped today, when two steers, being unloaded at the meat packing concern of Frank J. Kuhn Company, 2117 East street, escaped and ran riot through North Side streets.

One of the steers ran down North avenue to Cedar street, to East Ohio street, where it wheeled around and ran back to and down Cedar street to Canal street. It was captured by Patrolman A. J. Judas, who lassoed it and tied it to a telephone pole until a truck arrived to transport it back to Kuhn's.

The other steer fled to a field at the end of Rockridge street, Spring Hill, and late today had not been captured.

BOY GETS RUM; SOURCE SOUGHT

Representatives of the Children's Service Bureau and city police today are probing for source of the "moonshine" responsible for the intoxication of Michael Hutnick, 14, Thaddeus Stevens School pupil.

Meanwhile Hutnick, who lives with a stepfather in the rear of 1760 West Carson street, West End, who recovered consciousness in the South Side Hospital early today, refused to divulge where he bought the liquor.

He admitted to Police Lieut. Charles Cahill that he purchased one pint for 50 cents, but refused to say where.

David J. Terry, executive secretary of the Children's Service Bureau, declared today that his investigators would co-operate with the police and the prohibition department in the investigation.

At the hospital it was stated that the boy would be released from the hospital today.

Co. I Leader to Be Vets' Honor Guest

State Senator Henry Parkman, Jr., of Boston, who during the World War served as captain of Company I, Three Hundred and Twentieth Infantry, Eightieth Division, will be the guest of honor of Company I, at their tenth annual reunion and banquet to be held in the Fort Pitt Hotel Saturday night. Lieuts. Edward Titus, of New York, and Edward Lukias, of Philadelphia, also will be present.

The committee in charge of the affair includes Sabin Bolton, I. K. Featner, Jack Rhea, Ched Johnston, Ralph Thomas, Joseph Dessell, N. J. Bogus and Jack Sugden.

Film Director Killed As Cars Crash, Burn

BURBANK, Cal., Feb. 18.—(AP.)—Frank Gallagher, motion picture director, was burned to death in his automobile here after a collision on the highway. Gallagher's car was driven by Jack Leaverton, 17, high school student, and the other automobile figuring in the accident was driven by Byron Harner, North Hollywood fireman. Both cars turned over and burned. Harner was arrested on suspicion of manslaughter.

Home Robbers Take Auto to Haul Loot

Thieves broke into the home of J. L. Elsner, 1234 Murdoch street, Squirrel Hill, early today, according to a report made to detectives, and stole two fur coats valued at $550, another coat valued at $80 and $2 in cash. The articles were placed in the family automobile which had been left in a driveway and the thieves drove off.

Life Term for Drug Peddlers Favored by Association; Hearst Expose Praised

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 18.—Hearty appreciation of the Los Angeles Examiner's efforts in exposing the pernicious methods of the federal government in compromising for cash cases against narcotic law violators was expressed last night in a letter by the Narcotic Research Association of the Pacific Coast States.

Capital punishment would not be too severe for drug peddlers, the association points out. This group of public-spirited citizens, battling the great dope menace, comprises many of the leading persons in the Pacific Coast States.

Following is the letter in full:

"Editor, Los Angeles Examiner,

"Los Angeles, Cal.

"Dear Sir: Am writing to express on behalf of the Narcotic Research Association of the Pacific Coast States our hearty appreciation of the very fine co-operation your paper is manifesting in getting the narcotic question before the public. It is appalling how little the people know of the actual narcotic question and problem. We cannot fight a menace of which so little is known.

"We wish especially to express our appreciation for exposing the pernicious compromise methods of the federal government under the Harrison Act. Few people know that this act is primarily a revenue act.

"The Narcotic Research Association, of which Superior Judge Charles W. Ficke, of Los Angeles, is the president, has enlisted a large number of outstanding persons in a movement to work out some of the many problems we are facing on this coast, namely, to put more teeth into our state laws and make them uniform in all states.

"We believe a drug peddler who has been making a business of selling drugs should be sent to the penitentiary for life. Even capital punishment would not be too severe. The dope peddler is civilization's greatest enemy, forcing his detestable self upon the weakness of humanity, showing no favoritism. He is a vulture in human form, the most malignant foe the world has ever known.

"We also are endeavoring to secure the deportation of every alien who violates our narcotic laws. A large percentage of drug peddlers are not citizens of the United States, and if the federal government would immediately deport every alien upon conviction of violation of the narcotic laws, it would have a very wholesome effect upon the narcotic situation.

"The Narcotic Research Association has enlisted some 5,000 organizations on this coast to study the narcotic problem, and we are gratified in the response we are getting. It is our plan to utilize Narcotic Education Week in creating and organizing public sentiment into a sane and effective movement against the narcotic evil on this coast.

"Again thanking you, we will remain,

"Very sincerely,

"W. J. HERWIG,

"General Superintendent."

FIRE, POLICE PAY RAISER ADVANCES

Special Telegram to the Sun-Telegraph.

HARRISBURG, Feb. 18.—The Mansfield bill that would permit the people of Pittsburgh an opportunity to vote upon the proposal to increase the pay of policemen and firemen may pass the House this week and go to the Governor.

The measure is on second reading on the House calendar. A similar bill was passed last year but vetoed by Gov. John S. Fisher. The present measure was approved by the Senate without a dissenting vote.

Another bill introduced by Senator W. D. Mansfield, McKeesport, is on the third reading calendar in the Senate. It would enable all of the members of Pittsburgh Council to get the pay increase voted by the last Legislature. At present five members get $6,500, while four others are paid $8,500.

MARCUS BILL IN SENATE

The Marcus bill, increasing the pay and number of assistant district attorneys in Allegheny County, is on second reading in the Senate today. It already has passed the House.

The measure, introduced by Representative George F. Howe, Clairton, which would prohibit a water company from levying a ready to serve or meter charge, is on second reading calendar in the House. This bill, it was said here today, is aimed principally at the South Pittsburgh Water Company.

Those are the only Allegheny County bills of general importance on the calendars, which are the heaviest since this session began. County bills of general importance. The House calendar lists 85 bills and the Senate 34. Of the total, 30 are repealers sponsored by the Salary Survey Commission. Chief interest lies in bills that are being held in committee or have not yet been introduced.

GAS TAX BILL HELD

To name just a few of the measures that are being held in various committees, the list includes the Harris, Davis and Schantz voting machine bills, the Huffman and Howe bills prohibiting one-man cars, the bill boosting the gasoline tax to 4 cents, the administration measure creating the new Department of Revenue, the Wettach, Musmanno and other bills designed to modify the blue laws of 1794, and the resolution providing a $15,000,000 bond issue for adjusted compensation to war veterans.

Chief among the bills that have not yet been introduced is the Pittsburgh metropolitan district charter. According to reports here today it is not likely to appear here until early next month. According to present plans it will be handled by State Senator M. G. Leslie.

Japanese Premier Invites Stimson

TOKIO, Feb. 18.—(AP.)—Baron Tanaka, prime minister, today cabled Col. Henry L. Stimson at Manila at invitation to take dinner with him March 4, when he is expected to be in Japan en route to the United States.

The Japanese press assumes the appointment of Col. Stimson as secretary of state in Mr. Hoover's cabinet is assured and says Baron Tanaka will seize the opportunity to discuss naval limitation.

Jail Sentence for Ex-Cabaret Owner

John Sibillia, former proprietor of Castle Garden cabaret in Wylie avenue, was sentenced to 60 days in the county jail when he pleaded guilty in Federal Court today to selling liquor.

Agent J. B. Lewis testified that while the place was crowded at 5 a. m. with young women and men, he bought whisky.

GANG MASSACRE AUTO'S TRAIL PICKED UP

CHICAGO, Feb. 18.—(INS.)—Trail of the St. Valentine's Day massacre squad, which shot down seven members of the "Bugs" Moran gang in a North Clark street garage, assumed definite direction today with a description of the slayers' automobile furnished to police by President H. Wallace Caldwell, of the Board of Education, and Elmer R. Lewis, employe of the Beaver Paper Company.

Caldwell said he saw a car which he took for a detective bureau vehicle, run past a red light going north near the scene of the slaughter. So close was the educator to the automobile that he noticed one of the occupants lacked one of his front teeth.

TELLS OF COLLISION

Lewis told police his truck had a collision with an automobile such as described by Caldwell. Caldwell says such a collision occurred between Webster and Center avenues.

In the colliding car, according to both Lewis and President Caldwell, were three men in civilian clothes and two in police uniforms.

So similar to the usual detective bureau car was the gangster death car that Caldwell paid no particular attention to its violation of the traffic regulations, he said. Reports that two of the slayers were policemen led him to take his information to State's Attorney Swanson and Police Chief Russell, the educator declared.

BLEEDING NOSE BRINGS ARREST

A bleeding nose which attracted the attention of a policeman resulted in Harry Evans, 21, of 600 Suismon street, and John Naughton, 18, of 2216 Wilson avenue, North Side, being held for court by Magistrate A. D. Brandon in Morals Court today, charged with an attempted robbery.

A policeman testified he saw the two youths hurrying into Smithfield street from Strawberry way Saturday night and he stopped them when he noticed Evans' nose covered with blood. A moment later James Edwin, 55, a coal miner of Youngstown ran out of the alley and told the policeman the two youths had fought with him and attempted to rob him, according to testimony.

Fanny Ward Hurt In Chance Leap From Stage

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—(INS.)—Fanny Ward, the 62-year-old flapper, today was nursing a bruised leg suffered when she leaped, by accident, from the stage into the orchestra pit of Proctor's Fifty-eighth street theater.

The young-looking grandmother tumbled into the pit when she attempted to jump lightly from the top of a piano on which she was singing a song to a stool. Some one had inadvertently pushed the stool under the piano and forgot to tell the actress about it. Fanny was unperturbed by the mishap and resumed her song after climbing back to the stage.

BANDITS TIE UP NORTH SIDER

His legs and arms bound in rope, F. H. McDowell, manager of the Dixie shoe store at 611 East Ohio street, North Side, hopped and crawled to the store's entrance today and called for help. Unbound, he told of two holdup men robbing the store of $82 and leaving him helpless in the rear office.

Mrs. D. P. G. Lowell, of 841 East Ohio street, was passing when she heard McDowell's pleas. She summoned two men who untied McDowell.

McDowell was alone in the store when the first bandit entered and asked for a pair of shoes. McDowell was selecting the shoes from the shelves when he heard this command:

"Never mind the shoes. Stick 'em up."

The second bandit entered and while his confederate was binding up McDowell in the rear office he emptied the cash register and an open safe.

Gruber, Veteran Writer, Heads Murder Jury

John Gruber, veteran sporting editor and official scorer of the Pittsburgh Baseball Club, was chosen as foreman of the jury in a murder case today.

Gruber was given a testimonial dinner last week by Pittsburgh chapter of the Baseball Writers' Association of America.

The case is that of Jack Metalko, accused of killing John Albert. They are said to have had a fight at Harwick, where both lived, on November 29.

Albert died the next day in the Citizens' General Hospital, New Kensington, of stab wounds which Metalko is said to have inflicted.

LINDY TO LEAVE CAPITAL TODAY FOR N. Y.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—(INS.)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, burned red by a tropic sun, was to take off from here for New York today in the Curtiss Falcon plane which brought him from Miami in six hops.

Bad weather put Lindbergh 48 hours behind schedule and he arrived here at 3:32 p. m. yesterday from Hatteras Inlet, N. C., where he was forced to spend the night in the Cape Henry Coast Guard Station. He made a stop for fuel at Langley Field, Va.

Lindbergh said he was not lost and was in no danger during his flight on Saturday from Charleston, S. C., to Cape Henry. He decided to come down on the beach near the Coast Guard station, he said, when the fog became milky thick.

RETICENT ON WEDDING

He talked about the trip and about the flight from Miami to Panama with the first air mail, but about two points Lindbergh refused to talk.

"Is there anything else, gentlemen?" Lindbergh said when asked to comment on the announcement of his engagement to Anne Morrow, daughter of the American ambassador to Mexico.

"Is it true that you may be married in Washington?" he was asked.

"Is there any other point you wish cleared up, gentlemen?" Lindbergh parried.

SURVEY PLANS TOLD

Lindbergh also refused to talk about reports that he may have an undersecretary's position in Hoover's administration. Asked if he would accept the post as assistant secretary of commerce in charge of the Bureau of Aeronautics, Lindbergh said:

"There is no authority for the statement. Please do not misquote me."

Lindbergh told about the survey he will make shortly across the country for transcontinental air transport. He said he will visit Columbus, O., Indianapolis, St. Louis, Kansas City, Wichita, Kan., and other cities between New York and Los Angeles to inspect airport facilities.

Graf's Egypt Flight Opposed by Britain

BERLIN, Feb. 18.—(AP.)—The Lokal Anzeiger says that the English government, in answer to an informal inquiry of the foreign office, said the proposed flight of the Graf Zeppelin to Egypt would be considered inopportune.

The newspaper criticized the German government for not making an official request of England, which it says would hardly have been refused out of consideration of the sporting sense of the English public. It adds that it is reliably informed that the Egyptian government would have the greatest pleasure in granting permission for the flight but that the British do not find it to their interests to have German prestige enhanced in that quarter.

TRAIN RUNS DOWN DEER, HOSPITAL TO GET VENISON

North Side police today turned over to Deputy Game Warden W. L. Shaffer a buck deer, injured when run down by a Baltimore and Ohio Railroad freight train at Harding Station last night.

Shaffer planned to shoot the animal, which was suffering from two crushed legs, and to turn the carcass over to a hospital.

The deer was struck after the headlight of the locomotive had blinded it. Trainmen put it aboard the freight caboose, brought it to the Corey street roundhouse of the Baltimore and Ohio, where it was turned over to police.

Shot by Officer He Beat, Gangster Dies

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 18.—(AP.)—Shot by the policeman he had helped to beat, Daniel Dorgan, 23, alleged gangster, died of his wounds today. His companion, Joseph Stenko, 23, lies in a hospital critically wounded. The two were shot early yesterday by Patrolman Charles Lantcott, whom they had severely beaten with his own club after he had been called to a restaurant to quell a disturbance. Leaving him for unconscious Dorgan and Stenko left and Lantcott followed. When his assailants rushed toward him again he fired. Lantcott's arrest has been ordered pending an investigation.

Gift to Build New $200,000 Library

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—(AP.)—A gift of funds for the construction of a new $200,000 library building at Woodstock College, the Jesuit seminary for higher studies, at Woodstock, Md., was announced here yesterday as having been contributed by Mr and Mrs. Francis P. Garvan, of New York City.

The library of the college is one of the most valuable collections of books in the United States, containing many manuscripts and rare volumes brought by Italian Jesuits from ancient European libraries in the middle of the last century.

Two Hurt as Auto Skids Into Pole

John Wassel, 24, 1304 Breed street, South Side, and William Dunczynik, 26, Twentieth street and Fox way, South Side, are in a serious condition in the Homestead Hospital today as the result of an automobile accident in West Homestead. Both are thought to have suffered fractured skulls.

They were returning to Pittsburgh in Dunczyak's car Sunday night. In Eighth avenue, near Perry avenue, the machine skidded on the icy street and crashed into a telephone pole. They were taken to the hospital by West Homestead police.

7 IN ELECTION TRIAL FREED

Seven Homestead defendants, accused of cheating in an election, were found not guilty in a verdict directed by Judge Joseph M. Swearingen in Criminal Court today.

After the jury was selected and the trial was to proceed, Assistant District Attorney Roy T. Clunk explained that three important commonwealth witnesses were missing. Judge Swearingen then ordered the acquittal.

The defendants were accused of importing wholesale groups of voters at the November (1925) election and arranging for their vote.

The court also ordered that the county pay the costs of prosecuting the seven defendants, who were Patrick Lacey, Jacob Hepps, Albert Pryel, Hobart Rhey, S. M. Posey, James Barbour and William M. Barbour.

Clunk said the missing witnesses were Joseph Smith, F. Bader and George Jackson.

LOCAL GIRL IN POISON COMA

STEUBENVILLE, O., Feb. 18.—Thelma Murray, 20 and pretty, was in Ohio Valley Hospital here today in a serious condition from poison, police said, she had swallowed as the climax to a "lover's quarrel."

Her home is in Pittsburgh, the girl told police just before she lapsed into a coma last night. They were unable to learn her address or why she had committed the act except that—

"We had a quarrel."

The girl was found by her landlady in a rooming house here, where she had been staying several months. Police said they had learned that the girl's mother resided in the Oakland district of Pittsburgh.

BOY WRITER ASKS PRIVACY, ENDS LIFE AS FATHER GOES

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—(AP.)—Wallace Rogers, 18-year-old son of Bruce Rogers, economist and contributing editor of "The Nation," was found dead yesterday in a Greenwich Village apartment, he shared with his father. Gas was flowing from three burners of a range and from a light jet. Police said he had committed suicide.

Rogers, his son, Wallace, and another son, Robert, who is 23 and married, returned from Europe six months ago after a tour of the continent. Wallace, whom Rogers described as "a serious youth, alternately in high spirits and in melancholy mood," had been interested in economics, the father said, and had written a number of economic tracts, nine of which had been published.

The father told police he and his son had an agreement that when one wished privacy, the other would stay elsewhere for the night. After dinner Saturday night, he said, Wallace asked that he be left alone for the night and the father went to the apartment of Hartwell S. Shippey, on the floor below.

Unable to gain entrance to the apartment yesterday morning, the father told Shippey the door was secured. Shippey climbed the fire escape, from which he saw the boy's body in the bed. The two men then forced the door and an ambulance surgeon said the youth had been dead several hours.

The boy left no notes and the father told police his son never had spoken of suicide. He told police the boy was "high strung and neurasthenic," but could give no other reason for the suicide. Mrs. Rogers is in California.

20 Forced to Flee Flames at Dunbar

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Feb. 18.—Fire, believed of incendiary origin, yesterday drove 14 children and six adults from two double frame dwellings at Dunbar. Mr. and Mrs. William Wilson escaped with seven children and Mrs. Harry Bradley with her family of seven. Jack Beatty, who occupied another part of one of the houses with his housekeeper, Mrs. Margaret Cole, and her daughter, also fled.

Oil Pump Afire, No Damage Done

Firemen were called out this morning when an oil pump in the garage of the city asphalt plant, Dallas and Hamilton avenues, ignited. There was no damage, the blaze being extinguished by city employes who smothered the fire with sand.

4 YOUTHS HELD IN CAR THEFT

Four young men who were captured by Patrolman James McGuire who fired at them when they attempted, he said, to drive off in a stolen automobile, were held for court in Morals Court today, charged with larceny of the automobile.

Early this morning McGuire said he noticed Walter Maloski, 19, of Indiana, Pa.; "Brownie" Morris, 18, of 179 South Seventeenth street; John Shalla, 18, 1707 Edlis street, and Steve Kieler, 20, of 113 South Eighteenth street, in a stolen automobile in South Twelfth street. They attempted to drive off when he approached, but they stopped when the officer fired at them.

Bedford's Airport On Pittsburgh Line

BEDFORD, Pa., Feb. 18.—Bedford has been made an airport on the route from New York and Philadelphia to Pittsburgh, Wheeling and Cincinnati. Lieut. Robert Martin, World War ace, selected what roofs here should be marked with the name of the city. He will also choose the landing field.

All Men Barred From Markets In Morning

ALMERIA, Spain, Feb. 18.—(AP.)—All males have been forbidden to enter the markets in the public square during the mornings.

A man wishing to make a purchase or to verify one already made, must obtain a special permit which is good only on the day of issue.

The governor said he took the precaution to prevent women from being molested while in the pursuit of their domestic duties. The measure provides fines for violators.

SUNDAY NIGHT SOCIALS HELD BY CHURCH

"Blue Law" Sundays are being made less blue at the East End Christian Church, Highland avenue and Alder street, by the innovation of an after-church social gathering at which men may smoke, young men are given an opportunity to get acquainted with members of the fair sex, and young and old may abandon themselves to an evening of pleasant social diversion.

The Rev. Dr. John Ray Ewers and Mrs. Ewers preside over the social gathering. Members of the church choir and others dispense refreshments, sandwiches, cake and coffee. Church board members see to it that everybody becomes acquainted. Sunday school teachers and heads of various church societies tell newcomers a thing or two about the activities of their respective organizations.

"We want people to enjoy themselves at our Sunday socials," explained Dr. Ewers. "As long as the lid is tight on all Sunday amusements, it is up to the churches to provide harmless social recreation. This is just as important as preaching the Word of God."

Dr. Ewers also expressed the belief that preaching the Gospel at only one Sunday service is sufficient and that the evening service should be devoted to frank discussions of vital social problems of the hour. In line with this belief, he recently inaugurated such Sunday evening services, followed by a question period.

Four Die, Two Hurt In Tenement Fire

HAMMOND, Ind., Feb. 18.—(AP.)—Four Negroes were burned to death, another was probably fatally injured and a Negro woman suffered a broken leg in jumping from a window when fire today burned a Negro tenement building a block from the Central fire department here.

The victims, trapped while asleep, apparently had been overcome by smoke before the fire reached them. Firemen were unable to determine the origin of the fire.

Those killed were Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Johnson, 31 and 30; a 3 months' old son and Mrs. William Brown, 22.

THIEVES RAID CLARK'S CHURCH AND ANOTHER

Thieves visited the Point Breeze Presbyterian Church, Fifth and Penn avenues—Public Safety Director James M. Clarks church—during services yesterday, and took three overcoats, according to a police report.

O. S. McCurdy, of 6800 Thomas boulevard; F. F. Roherer, Sr., and F. F. Roherer, Jr., of 6909 Meade street, complained to Squirrel Hill police that the coats were taken. The coats are valued at $225.

The Shadyside Presbyterian Church, Shady avenue and Aurelia street, also was visited by the robbers, it was reported. The scarf and gloves of W. J. Smith, 5410 Kincaid street, and the overcoat of E. T. Howley, 6335 Shakespeare street, were stolen from the Shadyside edifice during services last night.

Municipal Gas Tank Explodes in Berlin

BERLIN, Feb. 18.—(AP.)—A municipal tank with a capacity of 37,000 cubic inches of gas exploded with a terrific reverberation and wrecked its immediate surroundings yesterday.

Only five pedestrians were injured by being thrown against walls and the ground because the streets were almost deserted at the time. Window panes within a radius of 200 yards were smashed and a wall nine feet high and 300 feet long was crumbled.

REVOLVER WITH BENT TRIGGER GUARD, KNUCKLERS, BLACKJACK, POKER HELD AS EVIDENCE

District Attorney Gardner holds these weapons as evidence in the fatal beating of John Borkoski, miner-farmer. The revolver, taken from Coal and Iron Policeman B. P. Watts, one of the three arrested, has its trigger guard bent so that it almost touches the trigger and Gardner said that Constable Ross-Schaeffer told him Watts had admitted using the revolver to "subdue" Borkoski. It is said the poker was used by Lieut. W. J. Lyster to beat Borkoski, the blackjack to have belonged to Watts and the knucklers, one of which is broken, to Watts and Lyster. The arrow points to the bent guard.

CHURCH TEMPERANCE SOCIETY URGES DRY MODIFICATION

EPISCOPALIANS AID HEARST CONTEST

Denouncing the effect of prohibition of the nation in deliberate and measured terms, the Church Temperance Society, important institution of the Episcopal Church, though not an official adjunct, has made public the text of a statement of more than 5,000 words to be published shortly in the Churchman, an Episcopal periodical.

In a series of carefully prepared declarations, an appeal is made finally to the lay and clerical members of the church, based on facts and figures published in the Society's book, "Prohibition as We See It," that they inform by letter the signers, the venerable archdeacon, J. H. Dodshon, president, and the Rev. William P. Taylor, secretary, at 15 Central Park West, whether their views conform.

The document, entitled "The Truth About the Church Temperance Society," a statement officially adopted at the society's annual meeting, is in four sections, the first of which clarifies the unofficial relationship of the organization to the Episcopal Church. It tells how in 1917 the society "violated its constitution and compromised the whole Church by entering upon a campaign for prohibition." It adds:

"This was putting politics into the church, and in justice to itself the general convention might well have repudiated the society at that time. Moreover, legacies and other funds given to teach temperance should not have been diverted to propaganda for prohibition.

"Clergy throughout the nation raised their voices against this betrayal of trust. . . . So the presiding bishops and council sent a check to the treasurer of the C. T. S. with an explanation that no more funds would be paid by the national church while our society continued to violate its constitution."

The purposes of the society are explained; the teaching of temperance in all things; the reformation of the intemperate. The constitution of the society does not mention prohibition.

"Some individual members have been in favor of that policy, some strongly opposed, but the organization itself stands for temperance in all things."

Dry Evils Cited

The statement after showing that the organization in 1925 returned, as the bishops had formerly desired, to its original constitution, says:

"We had come at length to realize that temperance in legislation forms an important part of our principle 'temperance in all things' The majority of the board had become convinced of the failure of present laws in communities where sentiment is opposed. To the evils of intemperance were added the evils of wholesale law violation and corruption.

". . . To meet this situation it was impossible for the society merely to resume its temperance propaganda. Obviously the law and its violation could not be ignored, and for that matter it is now actually illegal to practice temperance! So it was decided to undertake a non-controversial campaign of education on the whole problem . . ."

After discovering the sentiment of 3,000 clergymen by a poll the society summarized the consensus in its book on prohibition.

"Thus the society may claim to have acted as a mouthpiece for the majority of Episcopal opinion, for certainly no one supposes that the laity is better satisfied with the present laws than the clergy."

The statement next explains:

"It should be noted here that the church has not spoken officially either for or against modification of the prohibition laws, so that this activity on the part of the C. T. S. in no wise brings us into conflict with the presiding bishop and council, or the general convention.

"It is, perhaps, better that these official bodies should not take any position on prohibition, since it is strictly speaking a political question, and also because they speak for the whole church, not merely for a majority.

'Most Pressing Problem'

"The same reasons which caused the council of bishops to disassociate themselves from our prohibition propaganda, at a time when a majority in the church probably favored it, now prompts them to hold aloof from a movement in favor of modification. But since this must be the case, there is all the more need for an unofficial organization like the C. T. S. to discover and express the opinion among Episcopalians on this the most pressing of all our moral problems.

"While there are different points of view on certain theoretical aspects of the problem, such as the relative moral value of temperance achieved by education or compulsory total abstinence, on the following practical questions the majority are agreed:

"1. That the Volstead act is not an honest or a scientific attempt to define an intoxicant.

"2. That the prohibition laws cannot be enforced in states where a majority, or even a large influential minority of public opinion opposes it, without resorting to methods of the most extreme oppression. Among such measures would be:

"The imposition of prison sentences only, since a fine means less to a bootlegger than a saloonkeepers' license; the elimination of trial by jury in liquor cases as the only means of getting such sentences imposed or even of dealing with the cases fast enough; the institution of an army of agents, spies and informers, highly paid, to improve the personnel, and to reduce the temptation to graft; together with the building of innumerable new courts and prisons, and all this at a vast cost which would involve a great increase of taxation rather than tax reduction, and render impossible such vital social measures as farm relief.

"To cite two states only: Last November Massachusetts voted by a 284,000 majority in favor of repealing the Eighteenth Amendment. Two years ago New York state voted by 1,100,000 majority in favor of drastically modifying the Volstead act. Such is the overwhelming sentiment in certain states against the law.

Modification Urged

"3. Faced with these facts the C. T. S. unhesitatingly chooses modification, and we challenge our opponents to tell the American people that they choose real enforcement. We, therefore, advocate modification of the Volstead act as the first step toward obtaining that measure of public support without which no law in a democracy can ever be enforced.

"If this is not enough it will ultimately be necessary to amend the Eighteenth Amendment so as to permit the introduction of the Canadian system of government control in those states which desire it. For in Canada, at least, they have eliminated the saloon, while we have merely changed its name to the 'speakeasy' and done away with beer, the one harmless thing it sold.

"4. Whether or not it may be justifiable to disobey a law believed to be unjust, while doing everything possible to have the unjust law repealed, there can be no excuse for the complacent violation of the law by millions of people who are too indifferent to make any attempt to change it. We especially condemn the selfishness of those wealthy law violators who give neither time nor money to change the law which they willingly pay fantastic sums to break.

"5 There are only two honorable courses open to us—either modify the law or squarely face the sacrifices above described in its enforcement The third course is the policy we as a nation are pursuing, namely, to keep the law regardless of whether it is enforced or not. This is the policy of nullification.

"Moderate prohibitionists, and even some bishops and clergy of the Episcopal Church opposed to prohibition, say, 'Give the experiment time. It has had 10 years already. We believe this plea for more time springs from a desire to put off the unpleasant but inevitable choice between modification and drastic enforcement. To wait longer is simply to follow the line of least resistance.

Fails in Courts

"Yet the enforcement of every law depends on the willingness of all honest citizens to supply evidence and information to the state. But where tens of millions break the law, and half of those who don't break it are friends and relatives of those who do, is it any wonder that juries will not convict in prohibition cases?

"Mrs. Willebrandt announced January 23 that she had to abandon the conspiracy charge in prohibition cases because she was unable to obtain a single conviction

"And even if they would convict, it is impossible under the jury system to handle the cases fast enough.

"For, according to Secretary Mellon, there are 21,000 liquor cases now pending in the Federal courts, even with the present farcically inadequate number of prosecutions.

"When this is the case, it is useless, as Mr. Mellon points out, to increase the appropriations for prohibition enforcement; in fact, worse than useless, because though the new agents cannot enforce the law they can take part in the general corruption.

"We are driven inevitably to the conclusion that in order to enforce this law we would have to repeal the Fifth Amendment and abandon our whole tradition of freedom and system of justice—accept conditions, in other words, like those of martial law. Is there the remotest possible chance of pursuading the American people to adopt such measures?

"And if there were, is this policy of ruthless force one which we could sanction as Christians even if we would as Americans?

"If so, there would be many cases in America like that one in Michigan, where they have condemned the widowed mother of a poverty-stricken family to life imprisonment for her fourth violation of the state enforcement law.

Danger in Nullification

"For every month this experiment in law violation on a national scale continues, the danger of our becoming too indifferent to change increases, until nullification wins, and the Eighteenth Amendment goes the way the Fourteenth and Fifteenth went before it. Will even the American Constitution be able to survive with three such mill stones about its neck?

"The present situation has been well described by Senator Gore as a compromise which gives liquor to the wets and law to the drys! Against the intolerable hypocrisy of fake prohibition, that is undermining not only our moral standards but constitutional government itself, the C. T. S. appeals to patriotic prohibitionists and anti-prohibitionists alike.

"After the evidence of some of their own leaders, the drys can no longer delude themselves with the belief that we have prohibition now. Let them tell us whether they want the measures we have described, and if they do, squarely demand those measures from the country.

"Instead, we have witnessed in Washington the spectacle of the dry leaders quarrelling among themselves as to whether an extra $14,000,000 should be appropriated by Congress, when it is made clear by Secretary Mellon and Prohibition Commissioner Doran that this additional sum would be perfectly useless. The appropriation decided on is one-tenth of the $500,000,000, which Prohibition Commissioner Doran admitted was necessary.

Action Urged as Duty

"But even this figure does not solve the difficulty, which is how to obtain a sufficient number of convictions, with sentences of the requisite severity, and both with the necessary rapidity. When it comes to prohibition enforcement the drys offer us less than one-half of 1 per cent!

"As for the wets, if they care for their country, they must abandon their inaction. It is the duty of every one who believes that the Volstead act either should not or cannot be enforced to write to his senators and congressmen urging modification. We are told that it is impossible to change the law. The same thing was universally said about the efforts of the drys to have federal prohibition laws adopted. Is it as impossible to change the law as it is to enforce it, or can we acquiesce in leaving things permanently as they are?

"Even if the effort seems foredoomed to failure, to fight against our difficulties instead of supinely accepting them would be a victory in itself. But though the modification movement is certain to fail at first, just as surely it can win in the end if we do not shirk the task.

"The latest election was not a referendum on the prohibition issue. Apart from the wet victories in Montana and Massachusetts referendums, it is only necessary to point out that the five states of New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Wisconsin and Maryland are so strongly opposed to prohibition that not one of their 10 senators is a dry—yet they voted for Mr. Hoover.

"But it is not only on the present inactive opponents of the Volstead law that our hopes for the future are founded. We believe also that when a majority of the drys in the country realize what enforcement would really mean, they will not approve of it themselves, let alone believe that they can force the country as a whole to accept it.

Clergy Offer Aid

"When this time comes, all but a few fanatical extremists (who would rather brand any drinking a crime than reduce the actual amount of drunkenness) will prefer the honorable course of modification to the towardly hypocrisy of nullification.

"Fifteen hundred Episcopal clergy have offered to co-operate with the C. T. S. in a campaign to obtain more practical legislation in the interest of temperance. This campaign has only just begun. If the American people are once aroused from their lethargy, they will end the present orgy of anarchy and corruption; and in order to arouse them, it is only necessary for our religious and civic leaders to abandon the silence which most of them have hitherto maintained

"The issue between modification and ruthless enforcement, with all that it implies, must be fought out in the forum of public opinion, until either a sufficient number of drys or of wets have been converted to get a decisive majority of the people behind the law, whatever it may be. We do not entertain a shadow of a doubt that the answer will be in favor of some form of modification.

"But, whatever the result, this great debate must be conducted in a spirit of fair-mindedness and scientific search for the facts, not fanaticism and abuse. In this spirit the C. T. S. will play its part, and we hope that our opponents will do likewise. For prohibition is a means, not an end; the end is temperance.

Educators Agree

"We are delighted to see that since this statement was written and adopted, President Lowell of Harvard, an Episcopalian, has independently arrived at very much the same position, and for almost exactly the same reasons, in an article published in the February Atlantic Monthly. It is to be hoped that our other educational leaders will follow the courageous examples of President Butler of Columbia and President Lowell.

"We also commend the efforts of Mr. Hearst to combat nullification by offering a prize for the most constructive plan of modification.

"As our opponents, in spite of the evidence of our book, may seek to deny that the above outline does reflect the majority of opinion within the church, we request members of the clergy and laity who read this statement to inform us whether or not in the main it conforms with their views. Please address communications to the Rev. William P. Taylor, secretary, 15 Central Park West, New York, N. Y.

"(Signed)

7 Rules of $25,000 Temperance Contest

The purpose of the contest is to obtain a practicable plan, as a substitute for prohibition, which will secure better actual temperance conditions, which will be more easily possible of enforcement by state and Federal authorities, which will offer less encouragement to crime and tend less to debauch the public service, and which will not so outrage and violate the fundamental rights and personal liberties of American citizens.

The rules and conditions of the contest are simple and are as follows:

1—Every person is entitled to enter the contest, but no one person may submit more than one plan.

2—The practicable plan proposed as a substitute for prohibition must be set forth in an article containing not more than 1,000 words.

3—This contest will close on April 30, 1929, and no plan which has not been mailed and postmarked on or before that date will be considered.

4—The articles submitted in the contest will be judged by a committee of eminent Americans, the personnel of the committee to be announced at a later date.

5—The full prize of $25,000 will be awarded to the contestant submitting the best plan as a practical temperance substitute for prohibition.

6—If other plans not awarded the first prize shall still be considered worthy of some compensation by the committee, a second prize of $5,000 and other prizes of $1,000 each may be awarded.

7—Articles submitting a plan to be considered in this contest may be sent to the temperance contest committee, care of the editor of any one of the following Hearst newspapers: Albany Times-Union, Atlanta Georgian, Baltimore News, Boston Evening American, Chicago Herald and Examiner, Detroit Times, Los Angeles Examiner, New York American, Omaha Bee-News, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Rochester Journal, San Antonio Light, San Francisco Examiner, Syracuse Journal, Seattle Post-Intelligencer, Washington Herald, Wisconsin News (Milwaukee).

Methodist Bishop's Territory Extended

The Pittsburgh area of Methodism has been enlarged since the recent death of Bishop S. Henderson, of Cincinnati, O., until it is now one of the largest in the country.

This became known Saturday when Bishop Herbert Welch, of the Pittsburgh area, announced that his territory also would include the Northeast Ohio Conference—from Columbus, O., eastwardly—at least until the semi-annual bishops' meeting in Lincoln, Neb., May 2. At that time he said, a different plan might be formulated, but no action might be taken until the Methodist conference three years from now.

Girl 17, Overcome By Gas, Life Saved

Lillian Roe, 17, of 7245 Finance street, was overcome by carbon monoxide gas in her home yesterday. She was revived by J. M. Lewis and C. A. Wedge, of the Mine Safety Appliance Company. Members of the family found her unconscious from fumes from a gas stove. Her condition was not serious.

3 HOLDUPS, SAFE ROBBERY, 7 BURGLARIES REPORTED

Safecrackers, highwaymen and purse-snatchers reaped a harvest in the city over the week-end. Three holdups, a safe robbery and seven burglaries were reported to police.

A checkup is being made today to determine the amount of money obtained by thieves who cracked a safe in the office of the Aetna Life Insurance Company, Chamber of Commerce Building. The combination knob was knocked off, and the doors of the vault forced open. The office of the Pan-American Life Insurance Company, which adjoins the Aetna office, also was visited. A cash drawer was jimmied, and $53 stolen. The robbers apparently had gained entrance with a key.

Bandits held up the stores of A. Levinson, 1737 Chislett street, and N. E. Eisenstatt, 2727 Webster avenue, and obtained a total of $17.

Two armed thugs robbed D. W. Evans, 4815 Ellsworth avenue, at Amberson and Ellsworth avenues, early yesterday, and escaped with $10.

$20,000,000 Soviet Job for U. S. Utilities

MOSCOW, Feb. 18.—(AP.)—Chairman Ksandrov of the concessions committee has announced that negotiations are being conducted with several American firms for the construction of utilities such as water, electric light and street railways, totaling $20,000,000. He said the field of building and improving municipal utilities in Russia was virtually limitless and offers tremendous opportunities for foreign investment.

FAMILY BEATEN WITH HAMMER

Because a hammer head was insecurely attached to the haft, a dual slaying was prevented in the home of Vincent Dusek, 44, of 129 Larkspur street, Munhall, Saturday night, Munhall police believed today. The hammer-head and haft parted during a quarrel in the Dusek home.

Dusek was held in the Munhall police station. His wife, Rose, 40, was reported to have sufffered a fracture of the skull, and his daughter, Josephine, 21, numerous bruises and contusions. Munhall police allege that Dusek used the hammer on his wife and daughter to emphasize his right to drink the product of a 30-gallon still which they confiscated after a raid on the Dusek home. Neighbors complained of noise incidental to the quarrel.

Weather Conditions.

The high that covered the Canadian Northwest on Saturday morning advanced into the northern plains by Sunday morning, but moved much more rapidly during the last 24 hours. This morning it stretches from Alberta and Saskatchewan southeastward to the central valleys. It is attended by extremely cold weather over the northern plains and the Canadian Northwest, temperatures 20 to 36 degrees below zero and zero weather as far south as Central Kansas and Missouri and eastward to near Chicago. The high is moving rapidly eastward, and will cause cold weather over this section Tuesday and Tuesday night.

Low pressure overlies the St. Lawrence valley, and the Southwest, but with little precipitation. Light snow is falling in Colorado, Wyoming, Western Kansas and Nebraska.

River Conditions.

The rivers continue at low stages. Stage at Pittsburgh is 10.9 feet; Dam No. 2, S.I. and Dam No. 6, S.I. The dams are up.

UNJUST TAXES BURDEN FILM ACTORS

tive the amount of money the motion picture player is reputed to earn. Dazzled by the sound of all these dollars, the collectors make it just as hard as is humanly possible for the film player.

He fails to take into consideration that the screen life of the player is painfully short. The big money lasts for a pathetically brief period. Today the names that were known all over the world, and were electric-lighted wherever their pictures played, are gradually passing. We might mention Blanche Sweet, Viola Dana, Raymond Griffith, Harry Langdon and others as illustrations.

SCREEN LIFE SHORT

The fate of these four may be the fate of other big stars of today, and still the government insists upon making them pay outrageous sums in proportion to their earned incomes. The screen players are taxed on these earned incomes as heavily as property owners with an established and permanent business.

The longest period a player can hope to earn big money is 10 years, and few of them are able to retain their popularity for that length of time. While they may make $2,000 or $3,000 a week it is only temporary. The same is true of other screen players with smaller incomes. All the motion picture folk are taxed on their big incomes and no provision is allowed for the lean years.

A case in point is that of a certain motion picture actor who has been paid a good salary for some years and has been taxed $400,000 recently in back taxes. He hasn't been able to accumulate this amount of money, what with sickness, family responsibilities and his duties as a citizen. He made out his income tax in good faith each year, and had no intention of defrauding the government. He is not that type of man.

PATRIOTISM RECALLED

The tax collectors have treated him so abominably, and nagged him so unmercifully, that he has broken down in health and is unable to work. This naturally jeopardizes his position with the film company to whom he is under contract.

To treat people of this caliber like criminals is not only the height of injustice but the height of absurdity and shows a complete lack of discrimination.

Everyone has an innate love for his country, and certainly no one more than the motion picture players. The first profession to rally to the cause when Uncle Sam declared war against Germany was the motion picture industry. Mary Pickford, Douglas Fairbanks and Charlie Chaplin dropped their work and made a tour of the country selling Liberty bonds. The motion picture screens were opened to propaganda. The division of films was formed so that the right messages might be disseminated to the people. Can Uncle Sam so soon forget?

COMPUTATION PUZZLE

The average actor knows nothing about computing his income tax and for that matter, does anybody? the technical ramifications are so involved that only an expert can possibly hope to understand what it is all about. Bankers, lawyers, doctors and other professional men have trained persons in their employ who understand all the details of their business, trained accountants who check up on every penny of expenditure. That is a part of their business and their salaries are allowed in the income tax report.

The motion picture folk are unfamiliar with such matters and, furthermore, the artistic temperament is not the kind which adapts itself to financial complications. Most actors, after contributing to the enjoyment of the public for years, die poor, and now unjust taxation is hastening the day of poverty and adding unbearable burdens to the actor's life.

SLAIN DOHENY'S FATHER AND WIDOW PROSTRATED

five small children were under the care of friends of the family.

FUNERAL TOMORROW

Funeral services for Doheny will be held here tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock at St. Vincent's Church and will be conducted by the Rt. Rev. John J. Cantwell, bishop of the Los Angeles-San Diego diocese of the Roman Catholic Church. Burial will be strictly private.

The tragedy occurred almost within an arm's length of Doheny's wife and Dr. Fishbaugh. The guest bedroom on the first floor of the $500,000 Doheny mansion was the scene of the shooting. Plunkett's body was found near that of the man he had slain. A single bullet through the head ended Doheny's life.

"MURDER, SUICIDE"

District Attorney Buron Fitts declared he was thoroughly convinced that the double tragedy was an irrefutable case of murder and suicide.

Late Saturday night Dr. Fishbaugh was urgently summoned to the Doheny home. He and Mrs. Doheny approached the guest bedroom. Plunkett, clothed, darted into the hallway—saw them, ordered them away, closed the door and sent a bullet through his head. Doheny was dead on the bedroom floor. He had been shot by Plunkett only a few minutes before the physician's arrival, but Mrs. Doheny had not heard the shot.

The elder Doheny collapsed when his gaze fell upon the body of his only son. At his home today, the family stated that though the oil king's heart was broken over the loss of his boy he was "holding his own" over the blow of the tragedy.

AUTOPSY TODAY

Today an autopsy will be held over the bodies of the two men.

All Doheny's children were asleep in the Doheny home at the time of the shooting. Lucye Estelle, 14, is the oldest, and Timothy, 2, is the baby. The others are Patrick, 5; Billy, 9, and Edward Laurence III, 10.

It was about a year ago that Plunkett, for 16 years a trusted employe of young Doheny and his father, began to "crack." He became highly nervous. He was a man of about 35 years—divorced several years ago; childless, living apart from his own parents and brother and sister. He had an apartment not far from the Doheny home.

SECRETARY VERY NERVOUS

"I had been treating him for about a year," Dr. Fishbaugh said today. "He was intensely nervous. Around Christmas time, he suffered a complete breakdown, since then, he has been very nervous—but never irrational. However, Doheny several times asked me to pay particular attention to Plunkett. Never before had there been any indication of violence on Plunkett's part, nor any threat toward Doheny."

In the Teapot Dome trials the younger Doheny was named as the man who carried the "little black satchel" containing $100,000 to Albert Fall, former secretary of the interior.

He was indicted with his father, and Fall on charges of bribery.

Girl Bandit, Pals Kidnap 2 at Gas Station

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., Feb. 18.—Three bandits, one a girl, held up the Midway Oil Company's River road gasoline station here today and stole $50 from the cash register.

Then at the point of guns they kidnaped Robert Farrell and Clarence Machin, station attendants.

Fleeing in an automobile, they carried their captives to Baden, Pa., where they ordered them out of the car.

AGENT CHARGED WITH MURDER IN KLINK CASE

HARRISBURG, Feb. 18.—(AP.)—State police this morning formally accused Harry B. Bowman, perfume salesman, of the murder of Miss Verna Klink, 31-year-old confectionery manager, who disappeared here last January 25 and whose body was recovered from the Susquehanna River yesterday morning.

Alderman John Hallman, before whom the information was made against Bowman, ordered a preliminary hearing on the murder charge Wednesday morning, immediately following the inquest which Coroner J. H. Kreider announced he would hold at 9:30 o'clock.

Bowman was arrested last January 28 in connection with the disappearance of Miss Klink and was held on charges of robbery, conspiracy to rob, larceny by bailee, and two serious charges based on his alleged relationship with Mrs. Ethel Miller, upon whom police say Bowman spent the money he admitted he obtained from Miss Klink.

Mrs. Miller has been charged with carrying a concealed weapon and in addition faces two serious charges concerning her relationship with Bowman, a married man.

Mrs. Miller says her husband deserted her five years ago.

Started in 1897, N. Y. May Finish Grant's Tomb

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—(AP.)—Grant's tomb on Riverside Drive, dedicated in 1897 and mecca of tourists, is finally to be completed and embellished with an appropriate architectural setting if a drive for $400,000, launched by the Grant Monument Association, is successful.

The association wants to provide a suitable base for the monument, enlarge the plaza surrounding it, erect a sculptured pediment above the doric portico on the south front and place an equestrian statue of the Civil War general and President of the United States in the plaza.

Tern Fledgling Dies in Record Flight

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—(AP.)—The longest flight ever recorded for a banded bird, marked by the United States Biological Survey, was made by a fledgling Arctic tern from Turnevik Bay, Labrador, to Margate, 15 miles southwest of Port Shepstone, Natal, South Africa.

The bird was marked by a cooperator of the bureau at Turnvik Bay on July 23, 1928, and was found dead at Margate on November 14, 1928. Not only was the distance of the flight remarkable, but the time element also, as the bird was only about four months old when found. It suggests, the survey said, that these birds, which are rarely seen on the South Atlantic coast of the United States, may cross the ocean to Europe and then proceed south.

Darrow Condemns Capital Punishment

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—(AP.)—Capital punishment was branded as medieval and barbarous vengeance by Clarence Darrow, Chicago lawyer, and Kathleen Norris, California author, in an open meeting of the League to Abolish Capital Punishment last night.

The Company maintains on deposit with United States Trustees approved securities in excess of the net liability to American policyholders.

Total investments in United States' securities exceed $225,000,000.

EXTRACTS FROM DIRECTORS' REPORT

. . . After deducting amounts re-assured, the total assurances in force now amount to $1,896,915,934.57, an increase of $408,925,254.48. Policies in force number 633,240, and in addition, 136,293 certificates of assurance are held by employees of corporations and firms under the group plan.

While every field of operation contributed its full share to these impressive advances, the rapid development of our business in Great Britain and the United States is especially noteworthy. The generous reception of our Company in countries served by powerful domestic institutions is particularly gratifying, as testifying to widespread appreciation of our record and services.

. . . The amount paid to policyholders since organization, together with the amount at present held for their security or benefit, exceeds the total amount received from them in premiums by $111,370,229,10.

The strength and resources of the Company have been still further enhanced.

The net rate of interest earned on the mean invested assets, after making provision for investment expenses, has risen to 6.58 per cent. Dividend increases, bonuses, and stock privileges, accruing on many of the Company's holdings, contributed substantially to this gratifying result.

A net profit of $11,028,854.59 has been realized from the redemption or sale of securities which had risen to high premiums.

The securities listed in the assets have been valued at figures substantially below the values placed on them by the Government. This undervaluation of our securities represents an important safeguard against possible adverse market fluctuations, additional to the reserves specifically provided against that contingency.

We are again able to report that on the bonds and preferred stocks listed in the assets not one dollar, due either as interest or as dividend, is in arrear for a single day; while the dividends accruing to common stocks exceeded by several million dollars those payable on the same stocks at the time of purchase.

The surplus earned during the year, based on the values given in the accounts, amounted to $40,264,088.52.

$10,000,000. has been deducted from the already heavily marked-down value of securities, as additional provision against possible fluctuations, increasing the amount so set aside to $20,000,000.

The special amount set aside as a liability to provide for unforeseen contingencies has been maintained at $12,500,000.

$15,822,339.65 has been paid or allotted as profits to policyholders during the year.

After making all deductions and allocations, $9,157,966.34 has been added to the undivided surplus, bringing the total over liabilities, contingency accounts, and capital stock to $54,438,862.48.

The continued prosperity of the Company enables your Directors to announce, for the ninth successive year, a substantial increase in the scale of profits to be distributed to participating policy-holders during the ensuing year.

In addition, your Directors have inaugurated the principle of granting a Special Dividend on participating policies maturing after having been in force ten years or longer. This new bonus will enable policyholders or beneficiaries whose withdrawal is occasioned by the maturity of policy contracts, to participate in the accumulated surplus which it has not as yet been considered prudent to divide.

The effort to provide life assurance at the lowest net cost obtainable has been increasingly appreciated. Our policyholders will be gratified by this further evidence of our desire that the Company's prosperity shall be fully shared by its members.

We now "irradiate" this hot breakfast food

Ultra-Violet Rays give it the health vitamin of sunlight that children need

Only summer sunlight offers this way of getting Vitamin "D"

THE health secret of sunshine! Only recently investigators have learned what it is. And now a great scientist has gone a step further. He passes it on to you by "irradiating" a famous hot breakfast food—Quaker Farina—with Ultra-Violet Light.

Vitamin "D," scientists call the secret of the sun's friendly rays. This vitamin enables the body to build strong bones and hard teeth.

Children "make progress" when they have Vitamin "D" in abundance. Bones and teeth develop as they should. Their appetite is good because they make good use of the food they eat. Lacking Vitamin "D," children are apt to have soft, undeveloped bones. Teeth are poor. Often appetite is poor. They are "always having colds." "Sun starvation," this condition is called. Authorities say 90% of children in cities suffer from it. Thus health leaders have greeted with joy the news of a new source of the sun vitamin.

Quaker Farina, irradiated with Ultra-Violet Light under the Steenbock Process, is this new source. By irradiation, it is made to contain and can pass on to you the needed Vitamin "D."

Won't you try it, please, for your children's sake? Quaker Farina is the creamy white heart of the wheat. Full of energy . . an ideal hot breakfast. The new kind tastes and looks the same. But now it has an added health factor that no other hot cereal can claim! Any grocer can supply you. The price is unchanged. NOTE: All Quaker Farina is irradiated although some packages are not so marked.

IRRADIATED Quaker Farina

J. D. BELIEVED FOR SEUBERT

CHICAGO, Feb. 18.—(A.P.)—A copyrighted story in today's Herald and Examiner said the newspaper had reliable information that Edward G. Seubert, president of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, would become chairman of the board, in the event Col. Robert W. Stewart is defeated for re-election March 7.

Seubert, as well as other directors, is backing Col. Stewart in the contest for proxies being conducted by Stewart on the one hand and John D. Rockefeller, Jr., on the other.

The newspaper said Mr. Rockefeller's support of Seubert would be a move to disprove statements that Rockefeller, in opposing Col. Stewart, was seeking to cripple the Indiana company to the advantage of the Standard Oils of New York and New Jersey.

It is pointed out by the newspaper that Mr. Rockefeller wrote stockholders January 10 as follows:

"Under the loyal and devoted leadership of the president of the company, E. G. Seubert, the interests of the company will be fully protected and its business well handled without Col. Stewart."

MINNIEHOKUS GOSSIPS ABOUT ANGRY MR. DE MILLE AND "DUNKING" BILL POWELL

By DOROTHY HERZOG

(Copyright, 1929, Premier Syndicate.)

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 18.

Foreword: Because of a heavy bridge date this afternoon, your correspondent induced Minniehokus, our lil' Indian guide, to pen today's colyum. Minniehokus was in something of a dither when she arrived. It seemed a casting director had mistaken her for a foreigner and suggested she take out citizenship papers.

"And what did you say to that, Minniehokus?" I grinned.

"Humph. Say plenty. No can veritum. Too hot."

I left her to the typewriter and her huff, figuring no mortal need help that poor Injun on a day like this!

HEAR ha-ha yarn. One time Michael Arlen here. He "Green Hat" brave. Go dinner. Edna Ferber there. She heap big writer. He stare. Say: "Miss Ferber, you look like man." She look him. Say, quick like flash: "You do too."

Harold Lloyd.

See Harold Lloyd. Harold got Chinaman in fillum. Forget name. Bebbe Chow Mein. Mebbe Gong Gong. Swell guy. Work in "Speedy" too. No want work any more. Say he got plenty do-re-me. Harold start new fillum. Bime by Chinaman come studio. Say he ready to work. Harold say how kum Chinaman say: "Me got relatives. All wanter go see 'Speedy.' Buy many ticket. Clean me out. Heap broke. Gotter work." So he go work. Chinaman like Injun. Love relative. Love ancestor. Got plenty. All same help reduce income tax.

Ruth Elder in Airplane Film

SEE Ruth Elder. She live Beverly Wilshire. Finish fillum Hoot Gibson. Big airplane fillum. Mebbe make next fillum Hoot. Hoot think she hey hey. One time Ruth fly Atlantic. That big name for water. Something happen. Pretty soon she in Atlantic. Plenty cold. Get rescued. Come Hollywood. Gotta know how to swim to be Hollywood success. Ruth know.

One time go supper. See Bill Powell. He like bread and gravy. Somebody say no refined put bread in gravy. Injun call this dunk. Bill wise. He drop bread. It land in gravy. He so sorry.

"Dynamite" New De Mille Picture

CECIL DEMILLE makum "Dynamite." Makum dynamite two way. One, fillum. Other, hit roof. "Dynamite" all talky. Plenty bodies scared Mr. DeMille. Big brave. One time ball out Julia Faye when she make mistake. Get plenty het-up. One time papooses got something to "mike." Get voice pitched high. Mr. DeMille mad. Say takum away. Bring new papooses. New one come. Mebbe you no think they scared! Bime by Mr. DeMille get real quiet. Papooses get confidence. Makum good swell.

Julia Faye

Me crazy for Mr. DeMille. Swell guy. One time go see him. Give me gold piece. Mebbe some day work his fillum. Me hotsy totsy actress. Plenty time somebody discover. PLAY VARIETY IN BILLS TODAY

"Indiscretion," new comedy drama by Myron C. Fagan, who also is the producer of the play, opens tonight in the Nixon with Minna Gombell at the head of the cast. Matinees will be given Wednesday and Saturday.

Ann Codee, from Parisian music halls, who is also well known to American vaudeville patrons, dispenses her humor and songs in the Davis this week. Art Landry's Orchestra and Culen Landis, movie star, in person, are headliners.

"My Maryland" comes to the Alvin opening with the Wednesday matinee. The engagement is for one week only.

George Arliss is to appear in the Pitt next Monday in "The Merchant of Venice." Shylock is the second Jewish character he has acted, the first being Disraeli. Arliss made his debut on the stage as a "super" with a minor stock company in London. Most of his career has been devoted to the American stage.

Next week the Alvin will have as its attraction "White Lilacs," a romance with music, coming to Pittsburgh folowing a run of four months in Jolson's Theater, New York. Odette Myrtil, Guy Robertson and De Wolf Hopper appear in the play, based on the life of Chopin.

Civic Playhouse Offers O'Neill Drama

Dorothy Cohen is to play "Anna" in the "Y" Civic Playhouse production of "Anna Christie" Wednesday and Thursday evenings, February 20 and 21, in the Y. M. & W. H. A., Bellefield avenue. Miss Cohen numbers among her roles some notorious women of the drama.

While at Carnegie Tech, Miss Cohen played Hedda in Ibsen's "Hedda Gabbler." Another of her roles was that of the witch in "Anna Peltersdotter." Those who saw Chester Wallace's production of "Spires" at Tech also will remember Miss Cohen as Joan, the minister's daughter, who had lived out her principles of freedom in love. To these and other checkered careers, Miss Cohen is now adding that of Anna Christie, street walker, of Eugene O'Neill's play of the sea.

Glee Club Contest Listed for Friday

College men from Western Pennsylvania will meet in Carnegie Music Hall Friday evening, February 22, in the third annual intercollegiate glee club contest. The winner of this contest will be sent to New York in March to compete in Carnegie Hall with the other sectional winners. The Chamber of Commerce Chorus, under the direction of Harvey Gaul, also will give three numbers of Friday's program. The colleges represented are: Pitt, Tech, Juniata, State, Bucknell, W. & J. and Allegheny.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

TORNADO

By H. LOUIS RAYBOLD

HENRY CUNNINGHAM closed his magazine with a sigh and, folding his glasses, slipped them into their worn leather case.

"It must be wonderful down in those South Seas," he said wistfully. "Having adventures and living among folks so different from what you are."

"I guess likely," said his wife from the opposite side of the sitting room table. "Will Flanders came while you were in Bowdleville."

"Again?" Henry was instantly alert.

"He wants his money, Henry. Or else to buy the wheat as it stands."

Her husband got out of his chair and began to walk nervously around the little room. "Did you tell him I was figuring to pay him when the crop is in?"

"I did, and he said how did he know there'd be any crop. He's right, too. Why don't you sell the wheat as it stands, pay our debts, and go back East. We Vermonters weren't meant for dry farmers."

Henry stopped short by the swell-bodied stove, now neatly topped with fluted shelf paper but ready in due season to render bearable the sub zero temperatures of a Nebraskan winter. "Abbie," he said sadly, "you don't understand. I gotter take a chance. I'm—why, I'm nearly 50. If I don't make good this time I'm done for. Besides, think of Marty!"

"That's just who I am thinking of, Henry. Do you think Marty wants to marry Roger MacCloud with her family owing everybody in Dry Brook? And owe them we will if anything happens to the wheat."

"Well—what's going to happen to the wheat?"

But Abbie shook her head without replying. Any child in Dry Brook could have told what can happen to wheat. Too much rain, too little rain, too much wind, an hour of hail—

Henry Cunningham and his wife and children had been eking out a poor living on a hillside farm in Vermont when news came of a small legacy from a Nebraskan aunt in the shape of the old homestead and its acres.

Immediately there stirred within Henry a sudden wanderlust.

Against the wishes of his family, his friends, his neighbors, who urged him to sell his inheritance and apply the money to his present home, he leased his farm to a French Canadian tenant.

The second summer of his venture was now drawing to a close. There still remained a chance to break even by selling his magnificent stand of wheat and letting the other fellow play the gambler. Flanders stood ready to be that man. And to Flanders Henry owed money for farm equipment, interest on the mortgage inherited with the homestead, as well as a large sum for groceries purchased at the general store of which Flanders was owner.

Furthermore, Henry wanted money for his daughter Marty. When she married young Roger MacLeod, engineer on the Dry Brook County irrigation project, he wanted his girl to have a proper trousseau as fathers do for their daughters. And a proper wedding.

What made it doubly hard was having Abbie, his wife, pulling against him. To feel that if he gambled and lost he would have to face her reproaches as well as financial ruin.

One August day succeeded another. Blazing suns rose and set in cloudless skies. Hot winds sent curling waves across the wheat fields. A neighbor's grain caught fire and burned to the very edge of the ploughed strip that separated his quarter section from that of Henry's. Henry, who had engaged the labor and reaper of the Becker boys for the harvesting of his wheat, could hardly sleep at night waiting for his turn at them.

At last the day came on which would start the gathering of his crop. Like a nervous old hen, Henry fluttered from barn to kitchen, from kitchen to front porch where one could stand and follow for several checkerboard miles the level road along which the Becker boys would come, hauling the reaping machine by tractor.

It was while standing there that Henry saw a funny cloud in the southwest. A very funny cloud indeed. Shaped like a funnel that ended in an elephant's trunk.

At first he was merely curious. Then, suddenly, horribly, its significance came to him. He, who had never seen a tornado, was now looking upon the approach of one. And directly in the path of this sinister, this appalling thing, stood his beautiful, golden, ripened wheat.

His heart turned over within him but he stepped to the door and called calmly enough. "Abbie! Marty! Get into the cyclone cellar. It's one of those twisters coming. Yes, I'll be there in a minute!"

They rushed past him with white faces, trying to pull him along with them.

"I will—I will!" he promised. But after he had watched them crawl into the earthen roofed mound that stood a few feet from the house, he made no move.

The cloud had widened and become frightening. A lurid, dusky purple. Bowdleville must be in the thick of it and Bowdleville was only 10 miles away. Yet he felt no impulse to seek safety, no emotion other than that of a terrible grief for his doomed grain.

Doomed? It seemed so to Henry. Yet a tornado, devastating manifestation of nature that it is, is also one of her freaks. On drove the storm. Then, with a swoop, it turned and swung to the north. Henry was safe. His wife and daughter were safe. And his wheat.

He had beaten his enemy, battled with the opposition of his wife, who never did and never would quite understand him, faced a titanic force beyond his power or any man's to avert or control, had escaped death by a hairsbreadth.

He closed his book with a sigh and removed his reading glasses. "It must be great," he said wistfully, "adventuring in those South Seas."

KONJOLA

The Konjola Man would be pleased to meet the users of the famous new compound, Konjola. Anyone who has obtained beneficial results may call at the Dow Drug Store, Penn Avenue and Sixth Street. A worthwhile message awaits you.

AFTER ONE WEEK KONJOLA BROUGHT SPLENDID HEALTH

Relates How Two Years of Ill Health Yielded to Merits of Famous Medicine — Pays Glowing Tribute to New Remedy.

Remarkable, indeed, are many of the surprising recoveries that Konjola, the new medicine, has brought about; cases that have yielded to this super-remedy after having resisted every other medicine and treatment tried. Not a day passes but that the records of this master medicine are enriched by the reports from those who have found in this compound of 32 ingredients the only remedy that touched their cases. How Konjola does this; how it works so quickly in the obstinate cases, is being explained daily by the Konjola Man, who is at the Dow Drug Company, formerly McCulloch's, Penn Ave. and Sixth St., this city. Daily, throngs call to learn what this amazing medicine means to them. There the Konjola Man is pointing out verified instances of Konjola's triumphs. He does not deal in promises; Konjola's record of success is its recommendation; therein lies the bright hope for all who suffer. How interesting is the experience of Mr. William J. McDonald, 827 Merchant Street, Pittsburgh, who said to the Konjola Man a few days ago:

MR. WILLIAM J. McDONALD

"Konjola worked in such a speedy manner that I was absolutely amazed. I had taken but one bottle when my health troubles vanished. Two years ago I got into a terribly rundown state. My system was weak and my organs functioned sluggishly. I suffered a great deal with my stomach. Pains centered in my lower bowels. Gas bloating, a sour stomach and indigestion pains occurred after each meal. My appetite was entirely gone and I was unable to rest well at night. I was inclined to be nervous and had but little energy or pep. I tried many medicines and treatments but failed to get any relief.

"I was inclined to scoff at the idea of Konjola benefiting me. I failed to see how this one medicine could accomplish all that the others failed to do. But when my case got worse, I was willing to take one more chance for betterment. Well, Konjola turned out to be all that is claimed for it. After just one week, a remarkable change came over my system. My stomach was cleansed and strengthened—food digested better than in two years and the after-eating distress vanished. I gained strength and energy—felt almost like a different person and was sleeping soundly at night. My nerves are calm and settled. In every way I have been benefited. I can only say that Konjola richly deserves all the praise and more than it receives."

Just another splendid chapter in the astounding history of this master medicine; just another reason why Konjola is known as the medicine with more than a million friends.

The Konjola Man is at the Dow Drug Company, formerly McCulloch's, Penn Ave. and Sixth St., this city, where he is meeting the public daily, introducing and explaining the merits of this master medicine.

ZEP'S FLIGHT IN TALK FILM

The three-reel dialogue and sound motion picture, "Across the Atlantic via Zeppelin," will be seen for the first time in Pittsburgh theaters, commencing Monday, February 25, in the Aldine. Later it will be seen at another leading theater in this vicinity.

"Across the Continent via Zeppelin," which was produced by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer in conjunction with Hearst newspapers, very fittingly had its world's premier in Washington, where it was splendidly received. During the Washington engagement, Army, Navy and other government aeronautic experts saw and heard the picture with intense interest. Washington theater-goers declared it to be one of the most thrilling sound motion pictures so far produced. In New York it is being shown at more than 50 leading theaters, where it has been acclaimed by the critics.

"Across the Atlantic via Zeppelin" features Lady Drummond Hay, the beautiful English writer for Hearst newspapers, and Dr. Hugo Eckener, the intrepid commander of the Zeppelin, both of whom are seen and heard.

U. S. DRAMAS GOING TO PARIS

By Robert W. Thompson.

(International News Service.)

PARIS, Feb. 18.—Al Woods, New York theatrical producer, has decided to further the Americanization of Paris by bringing Broadway to the boulevards.

This city has a Franco-American baseball league, continuous movie shows a-la-United States, broad-toed shoes, button-down-the-front men's shirts, cocktails and even a cafeteria.

Meanwhile Woods, who has watched "Rose Marie" blossom into a second "Abie's Irish Rose" for longevity, realized that French actors have proved their ability to conduct themselves like gun-toting bootleggers without discarding the language of Moliere, and concluded that Parisians are crying for a regular diet of American stage hits.

"I am arranging to establish a playhouse in Paris this year exclusively for productions that have gone over big at home," Woods said. "Hollywood movies have taught the French to comprehend our drama, even if it be translated literally without modifying what, to Americans, are intense situations.

"We expect to open with the 'Shanghai Gesture'."

Woods said, also, that he is helping the East to West movement of the drama by taking home one of last year's boulevard successes.

He had an eye upon Sacha Guitry's "Lindbergh," but feared the young colonel himself might object.

"So that is one Lindbergh that will not make a non-stop journey over the Atlantic so far as I am concerned," concluded Woods.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.

COMMISSION REFUSED IN $1,000,000 OIL DEAL

Federal Judge E. P. Schoonmaker handed down an opinion Saturday dismissing the suit of R. F. L. Smith, of Dallas, Tex., against the acting trustees for stockholders of the Penn-Cities Oil Company, Graham, Tex., in which the plaintiff sought to recover $50,000 as a commission through sale of a $1,000,000 oil and gas property of the oil company.

The court ordered judgment entered for the defendants, S. R. Smith, O. T. Sullivan, C. S. Sanford and the Franklin Trust Company, executor of the estate of J. H. Vandivesser, all of Franklin, Pa. The property involved was 321 acres of land at Herron City, Tex., which was sold by the oil company to the Seaboard Oil and Gas Company.

The court held there was no evidence to show that the plaintiff was solicited by the trustees to find purchasers, as the property had been listed for sale with J. H. Montgomery, of Oklahoma City, Okla.

Smith contended he had been retained by Montgomery, and he entered into negotiations with the Seaboard Oil and Gas Company, which made an offer of $1,000,000, with a $250,000 cash payment. The offer was rejected by the trustees, who demanded a cash payment of $500,000. Later a deal was consummated between the two companies and demands of Smith for a 5 per cent commission were refused.

Today when a close-up is being taken, new and even stronger incandescent "sun-spot" lights beat down on a star. Film is so sensitive that in this glare the tiniest skin defect would be registered. The screen stars must have flawless complexions! For without lovely smooth skin they cannot hope to win success, and hold it.

MARY PHILBIN, Universal star, in the bathroom whose quaintness makes it one of the most charming seen in Hollywood. She says: "Whether a star's skin is creamy, olive, or pink and white, it must have the marvelous smoothness we call 'studio skin.' I entrust mine to Lux Toilet Soap—a delightful soap!"

9 out of 10 screen stars use Lux Toilet Soap for smooth skin

39 directors say lovely skin is the first requisite for charm . .

EVELYN BRENT, Paramount star, says "A star simply must have satin-smooth skin. Lux Toilet Soap is so pleasing and soothing!"

EVERY GIRL is conscious of how attractive she is when her skin is really lovely.

The discerning movie directors and screen stars found out long ago that an exquisite skin gets an immediate response from people the world over.

As Paul Leni, director for Universal, puts it: "Smooth skin is the first essential for charm. One thing a girl must have to become, and remain, a popular screen star—a skin so flawlessly smooth that even in the glare of the close-up its exquisite perfection is unspoiled."

Of the 451 important actresses in Hollywood, including all stars, 442 are devoted to Lux Toilet Soap. And every great film studio has made it the official soap for all dressing rooms.

It lathers generously, even in hard water, for it is made by the famous French method. You'll be delighted with this fragrant white soap—used by 9 out of 10 screen stars. Do get several cakes.

INTIMATE PAPERS OF COLONEL HOUSE

Balfour Discloses Secret Treaties to House And Wilson

CHAPTER II.

IMMEDIATELY following President Wilson's speech asking for a war declaration, the British government considered the advisability of sending to the United States a special mission, the obvious purpose of which should be put at the disposal of our government the experience gained by Great Britain in nearly three years of war and which might also bring the British into closer touch with the situation in America. The importance of the mission was indicated by the choice of Mr. Balfour, secretary for foreign affairs, as its chief.

Within a week the Balfour Mission was on the Atlantic, and on April 21 they landed at Halifax, whence they came by train through New York to Washington. A few days later arrived the French Mission led by Viviani and Joffre, to be followed shortly by the Italians and Belgians.

Whatever the outcome of the conferences that followed, the despatch of these missions was of itself significant, a gesture symbolic of co-operative effort by which alone Germany could be defeated.

We had taken up arms against Germany, according to Wilson's speech on April 2, both because Germany had already made war upon us through the submarine and because of our desire to achieve a lasting and just settlement. We were tacitly pledged to the defeat of Germany. If we did not come to agreement with the Allies as to the sort of peace to be imposed upon her, there was danger that we might be fighting for Allied war aims, perhaps as crystallized in the secret treaties. On the other hand if, after learning the terms of the secret treaties, we refused our approval, what then? We could hardly state that we would not continue to fight Germany, since we had our own quarrel with her. It would be futile to announce that because of our disapproval of the purposes of the Allies we would make war by ourselves. If we stated that we would fight with the Allies but reserved the right later to dispute the application of the secret treaties, the only effect would be to cause irritation and to injure the chances of effective co-operative action against the enemy.

In view of the later controversy regarding American knowledge of the secret treaties, Col. House's record of the following conversation with Balfour is of the utmost historical importance.

"April 28, 1917. My most important conference today was with Mr Balfour. . . . No one else was present and we talked for an hour and a half without interruption.

"We came to no conclusion as to Trieste. I did not consider it best or desirable to shut Austria from the Adriatic. Balfour argued that Italy claimed she should have protection for her east coast by having Dalmatia. She has no seaport from Venice to Bendisi, and she claims she must have the coast opposite in order to protect herself."

The mention of the aspirations of Italy gave to House the opening for which he had been waiting and permitted him to put the pertinent question as to the secret obligations which the Allies had assumed towards each other for the fulfillment of their war aims.

Knew of Secret Treaties

"This led me to ask," House continued, "what treaties were out between the Allies as to the division of spoils after the war. He said they had treaties with me and other, and that when Italy came in they made one with her in which they had promised pretty much what she demanded.

"Balfour spoke with regret at the spectacle of great nations sitting down and dividing the spoils of war or, as he termed it, 'dividing up the bearskin before the bear was killed.' I asked him if he did not think it proper for the Allies to give copies of these treaties to the President for his confidential information. He thought such a request entirely reasonable and said he would have copies made for that purpose. He was not certain they had brought them over, but if not, he would send for them.

"It is all bad and I told Balfour so. They are making it a breeding place for future war. I asked what the spheres of influence included. Balfour was hazy concerning this, whether it meant permanent occupation, or whether it meant that each nation had the exclusive right to develop the resources within their own sphere, he was not altogether clear.

On the following evening, April 29, the intimate conference between Wilson and Balfour took place in the White House, preceded by the family dinner which the President insisted upon and which proved conducive to the sort of informal discussion of war aims that was desired.

"We took our coffee in the oval sitting room and when it was finished we went to the President's study and began a conference, the importance of which cannot be overestimated. The President continued to do most of the talking. It was evident to me that he was keyed up for this conference, as he had been resting most of the afternoon, not taking his usual exercise.

"The ground we covered was exactly the same as Balfour and I had covered in our conference Saturday. I tried to steer the conversation so as to embrace what Balfour had said to me and what the President and I had agreed upon in former conferences.

"When we touched upon the internationalization of Constantinople I suggested that it might lead to trouble. It was with some difficulty that I made them understand that I thoroughly agreed with the general idea, but desired to point out that it would inevitably lead to an attempt to internationalize the straits between Sweden and Norway and continental Europe, and the Suez and Panama canals. They did not agree with me that the two questions had much in common.

"The discussion ran from shortly before 8 o'clock until 10.30, when the President was due at a reception given by the Secretary of State to the members of Congress to meet the British and French missions.

"I asked Balfour again about the Allies' treaties with each other and the desirability of his giving copies to the President. He again agreed to do so.

"When the conference broke up I walked downstairs with Mr. Balfour and asked if he felt that his mind and that of the President had touched at all points. He was quite enthusiastic and said he had never had a more interesting interview. He spoke of the President as having a wonderful combination of human philosophy and political sagacity.

"The President and Mr Balfour went to the reception together and I went to my room to prepare for the train. Before I left, the President had returned and we had a few minutes further conversation. He was delighted at Balfour's comments, and seemed happy over the result of the evening's work.'

Some months later, at the time of the drafting of the Fourteen Points, President Wilson expressed concern over the promises made in the secret treaties, particularly in the Treaty of London. Aware of his misgivings, Sir William Wiseman informed Mr. Balfour, who wrote at some length to the President regarding Allied obligations.

Balfour to Wilson

London, January 20, 1918.

Mr. Dear Mr. President,

I gather from a message sent by Wiseman that you would like to know my thoughts on the Italian territorial claims under the Treaty of London concluded in 1915.

That treaty (arranged of course long before I was at the foreign office) bears on the face of it evident proof of the anxiety of the Allies to get Italy into the war, and of the use to which that anxiety was put by the Italian negotiators. But a treaty is a treaty; and we—I mean England and France (of Russia I say nothing)—are bound to uphold it in letter and in spirit. The objections to it (indeed are obvious enough: It assigns to Italy territories on the Adriatic which are not Italian but Slav; and the arrangement is justified not on grounds of nationality but on grounds of strategy.

Now I do not suggest that we should rule out such arguments with a pedantic consistency. Strong frontiers make for peace; and though great crimes against the principle of nationality have been committed in the name of "strategic necessity," still if a particular boundary adds to the stability of international relations, and if the populations concerned be numerically insignificant, I would not reject it in deference to some a priori principle. Each case must be considered on its merits.

Personally, however, I am in doubt whether Italy would really be strengthened by the acquisition of all her Adriatic claims; and in any case it does not seem probable that she will endeavor to prolong the war in order to obtain them. Of the three west-European belligerents she is certainly the most war-weary; and if she could secure peace and "Italia Irredenta" she would, I believe, not be ill satisfied. . .

Yours very sincerely,
ARTHUR JAMES BALFOUR.

P. S. I shall always be delighted to answer with complete frankness any question you care to put to me. But this I think you know already.

Wilson's Intention

It is thus quite certain that the President was informed of the character of the secret treaties and was entirely aware of the difference between his own peace program and that of the Allies. At the time of the Balfour mission he may have expected that in the end American influence of the Peace Conference would be sufficient to eliminate the treaties as practical factors in the settlement. Writing to Col. House, a few weeks later, President Wilson intimated strongly that American economic power would be such that the Allies must perforce yield to American pressure and accept the American peace program; England and France, he wrote, have not the same views with regard to peace that we have by any means. When the war is over we can force them to our way of thinking.

The draft statement of policy agreed upon by Sir Eric and Col. House, which, according to a note of Col. House on May 23, was approved by Mr. Balfour, began by declaring that the United States and the Allies were determined to carry on the struggle until the aims set out by President Wilson were secured. America would spare neither treasure nor life, no matter how long the war continued. In 1918 there would be a million and a half American soldiers on the Western front. (It is important to note that as early as May, 1917, as here indicated, President Wilson determined to send over so large an American expeditionary force.) But, although the Allies would never abandon the cause of democracy and civilization, and Germany could never hope for a favorable decision by force of arms, the Allies were ready to declare, as before, that they had no quarrel with the German people, no desire to dismember Germany.

The points outlined in the House-Drummond memorandum deserve careful appraisal, since they formed the basis for the public statements of President Wilson during the remainder of the war: Peace to the German people, endless war on German militarism. Unquestionably the attempt to differentiate between the Germans and their government, unpopular as it was and fruitless as it seemed at the time, served finally to weaken German morale, the collapse of which, according to Ludendorff, explains the sudden character of the final surrender. The possibilities of this policy were perceived by Lord Northcliffe, who in the following spring organized at Crewe House the most effective scheme of propaganda known to modern history. Ceaselessly he poured into Germany the idea that unless the people repudiated the old regime, their own ruin would be linked with that of the Hohenzollerns. It acted as a subtle corrosive which ultimately ate away the German "will to destroy."

Did Wilson Lie?

The problem of the extent to which officials of the United States knew of the existence and the content of the secret treaties has always been one of a controversial nature. President Wilson in his testimony before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee on August 19, 1919, stated that he had no knowledge of the secret treaties as a whole before he reached Paris: "The whole series of understandings were disclosed to me for the first time then." He further stated that he was not informed of the Treaty of London. Senator Johnson recited the list of various treaties, including the Treaty of London, the agreement with Rumania, the various agreements with reference to Asia Minor, and asked: "Did you have any knowledge prior to the conference?" To which the President replied: "No, sir, I can confidently answer that 'No' in regard to myself."

It is difficult to reconcile this statement with available evidence. On March 4, 1918, Mr. Balfour, in reply to a question in the House of Commons as to whether copies of the secret treaties had been sent to the President, replied "that President Wilson is kept fully informed by the Allies." On May 16, 1918, Mr. Balfour stated in the House of Commons: "I have no secrets from President Wilson. Every thought that I have in the way of diplomacy connected with the war is absolutely open to President Wilson." Furthermore, in a private letter to Col. House, written July 17, 1922, permission to publish which is now authorized, he states in reference to a discussion of the secret treaties by Mr. R. S. Baker: "He (Mr. Baker) was certainly wrong in his statement that Mr Wilson was kept in ignorance by me of the secret treaties, an error which I feel the more acutely, because it is a calumny which, if I remember rightly, I have already publicly contradicted." The clearest evidence of Mr. Balfour's frankness with President Wilson is to be found in his letter of January 30, 1918, above quoted; this shows that, upon receiving information from Sir William Wiseman to the effect that President Wilson was disturbed by the content of the Treaty of London, Mr. Balfour immediately wrote him regarding it.

"There are those," said House in a letter of April 9, 1928, to C. S., "who believe the President laid too little stress upon the treaties and that he should have had some understanding with the Allies regarding them before he committed the United States to war. This was not practicable. We had our own quarrel with Germany, and if he had waited until he could have gotten a satisfactory understanding regarding the secret treaties the war would have been over, before we entered the lists. England and France might have come to a quick decision, but, of necessity they would have had first to reach an agreement with Japan, Italy, and Russia. Could any satisfactory agreement have been reached with them? I doubt it. Meanwhile, Germany would have sunk our ships and we should have been standing idly by, waiting for a termination of negotiations regarding the secret treaties.

"As it was, the United States entered the war promptly and efficiently, but as an associate power, uncommitted to any agreements made between the Allies. Our hands were untied and we were free to do as we would at the peace table. If any criticism is to be made, should it not be of what we failed to do there, and not what we failed to do before we entered the war?"

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Spring-Like Weather Stirs Thoughts to Social Activity

NO matter how much one is entrenched behind a mask of ennui, it's almost impossible to escape that permutation of the spirit when the first suggestion of spring creeps into the wind. Yesterday surely seemed a harbinger of spring, even though I know this week and next week must pass before February ends. Then there is March.

Site the sky was downcast at the desertion of the sun, it was easy, didn't you think, to submit to the eventlessness of the season? But the faintest hint of spring seems to stir all of us to activity, or the desire for it. I daresay we shall be reminded rudely before long that winter still holds sway, but one has hopes that spring is just a little way off.

And by next month folks will begin returning from the South, and by Easter, which falls on March 31 this year, society will once more be in the city. Next month we shall all be on the qui vive for plans for spring weddings, which will be numerous this year, I prophesy.

In the meantime, if it weren't for news of entertainments from Winter resorts, one might think the age had become so puritanical as to frown on such levity as balls and brilliant dinners and smart weddings.

UNTIL spring comes to release us from the leaden sk and spirit of the lenten season, social news will be confined almost entirely to news of our travelers.

Mrs. William Feew, of Devon road, who has been spending a few days at the Barclay, sailed for Europe Friday night on the Paris, and the Samuel Harden Churches, are in New York, I've heard. They are stopping at the Barclay.

New York is ever a magnet for Pittsburgh society folk. The William B. Schillers have been in New York for several days, you know. Now their son, Frederic C. Schiller, has joined them there at the Ambassador Hotel.

DOWN at Palm Beach the sun is growing more brilliant each day. One of the notable entertainments on Saturday night was the dinner the Thomas L. Chadbournes gave in the Bath and Tennis Club for Princess Aspasia, of Greece, Lady Fielding, and Mrs. James Horlick, of London, guests of the Chadbournes at Whitehall. Among the guests seen at this dinner, one of the largest of the season, were the Cyrus Millers, of Sewickley, the James Francis Burkes, and of course Mrs. Henry R. Rea, who is seen at all the important social events at Palm Beach.

The Frank Scott Willocks and their daughters Virginia, who comes out this year, and Ruth, who will not make her bow for several seasons, I understand, will be back from Ormond Beach, Fla., early in March, we've learned.

TWO of the debbies of next year, Margaret and Anne Rose, daughters of the Don Roses, of Sewickley, are busy these days being entertained and entertaining. They gave a tea recently in the country club at Pinehurst, North Carolina, in honor of their guest, Jessamine Goddard, of New York.

BERMUDA has attracted an unusually large number of Pittsburgh folks this year. Now I hear that Mrs. Charles William Brown and her daughters, Miss Agate and Miss Alice Brown, of Sewickley, and Mrs. Ducan Anderson will sail February 23 for Bermuda. They expect to be there a month.

THE marriage of Miss Ellen Mary Reeve, granddaughter of F. M. Stark, of Coraopolis, and Howard Hill Hobaugh, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Hobaugh, of Butler, was solemnized Saturday at 7:30 o'clock in the Coraopolis Methodist Episcopal Church, by the Rev. C. A. Hartung. The bride wore French ivory satin made with a long bodice and draped skirt, and her tulle veil was caught with orange blossoms. She carried calla lilies, white gardenias and orchids. Mrs. Robert Scott Newton was matron of honor, appearing in peach moire and tulle with a bow of apple green moire and she carried pink roses. The bridesmaid, Miss Ruth Anderson, of Beaver, wore apple green moire and tulle with a bow of peach moire, and the flower girls, Marjorie and Carol Stark, of Erie, wore frocks of peach crepe. Harold W. Diebler, of Apollo, was best man, and the ushers included Robert Scott Newton, John Waddell, of Beaver; Frederick J. Reeve and Dr. J. D. Stark, of Erie. Mrs. J. D. Stark sang, accompanied by Miss Marion Stone. A reception in the Montour Heights Country Club followed the ceremony, and later Mr. and Mrs. Hobaugh left for a southern trip. They will be at home in Butler after March 1.

ANNOUNCEMENT is made of the marriage of Miss Twila Frances Dugan, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. W. E. Dugan, of San Francisco, and John Leary Peltret, of New York, which was solemnized Saturday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock in the home of the bride's aunts, Miss Isabel and Miss Etta Dugan, in Monticello street, by the Rev. T. Van Dyke Dugan, of Butler, uncle of the bride. John E. Dugan gave his niece in marriage, and Miss Etta Dugan was maid of honor. Mr. and Mrs. Peltret have left for New York, where they will make their home.

MR. AND MRS. FRANK GRISWOLD HALL of Fifth avenue, New York, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Lucie Lee Hall, to Henry T. Skelding, of New York, formerly of Pittsburgh, son of Mrs. Francis H. Skelding and the late Francis H. Skelding, who was a banker here. He is a grandson of the late Jacob S. Paul, of Oakmont. Miss Hall was graduated from St. Mary's School, Peekskill, and later attended the Fontaine School in Cannes, France. She and her sister, Norma, were introduced to New York society at a dinner dance at Pierre's in December, 1927. Mr. Skelding is a Princeton man, class of 1922. An early spring wedding is planned.

B'NAI ISRAEL SISTERHOOD will hold a card party tomorrow afternoon in Kaufmann's, with Mrs. Theodore Rothman as general chairman. She is assisted by Mrs. I. A. Melnick, Mrs. I. L. Scheinman, Mrs. L. Reth and Mrs. L. Bart. Mrs. S. Schein and Mrs. L. Robins are in charge of tickets, and the sale of candy will be in charge of Mrs. D. Reichman. Mrs. S. Deaktor is chairman of cards and Mrs. J. Pickholtz, tallies.

THE class of 1925 of the Margaret Morrison Carnegie School will hold its first reunion with a tea on Saturday from 3:30 to 6 o'clock in Recreation Hall. The committee in charge includes Miss Helen Gillespie, Miss Ida Finkel, Miss Rosemary McCambridge, Miss Nora Henderson and Miss Mary Carey.

* * *

THE Social Club of Brilliant Star Chapter No. 403, O. E. S., will hold a chop suey dinner and card party Wednesday in Orange Hall, Penn avenue. Dinner will be served from 5 to 8 o'clock followed by cards. Miss Mary E. Haas is general chairman.

THE drama department of the Carnegie Institute of Technology is planning to hold a tea Friday afternoon in honor of Miss Minna Gombell, who is appearing this week at the Nixon Theater.

THE Arnold School will hold a dance Friday night at the school, South Braddock avenue, the proceeds to be applied to the athletic contingency fund.

"VERONICA'S VEIL" will be presented Tuesday night, February 26, by St. Michael's Players in St. Michael's auditorium, South Side, for the benefit of St. Joseph's Hospital.

Federation Plans Home Religious Work

DEVELOPMENT of the spiritual aspects of home life constitutes the next step in the program of the department of the American home, General Federation of Women's Clubs, of which Mrs. John D. Sherman is chairman. The ultimate purpose of the urban and rural home equipment survey and home equipment campaign based upon the findings of the survey, which has had the spotlight of the federation during the last four years, was to relieve the homemaker from needless waste of woman energy in order that she might have more time, strength and inspiration to devote to the soul of the home, the training of her children and her responsibilities as a citizen. Religious training in the home is the obvious next step.

The assistance of the clergy of the country is being sought by Mrs. Sherman, who recently asked several hundred prominent clergymen of the country to give her their views on these questions:

How best can religious training be given by mothers and fathers to children in the home? What can be done in our homes to make religion real and vital and individually important? Would special training of mothers and fathers be feasible so that they might in turn teach religion to their children? Do you believe that religious instruction during school hours can be given by the churches, co-operating with the school systems, the parents designating the church they wish their children to attend, with beneficial results?

Early answers show a significant eagerness to co-operate on the part of clergymen, many of whom are announcing the project from their pulpits and some of whom already have made the matter a subject for pulpit discourse.

Special Showing of Bemberg Hosiery at $1.00 a Pair

VERNER 249 FIFTH AVENUE

THINC WHEN THINKING OF BEAUTY

BOGGS & BUHL

the final full week of the furniture sale

—a sale which has surpassed all previous similar events—the result of outstanding advantages of the B & B sale, obvious to everyone investigating

A FEW FACTS we would like to impress—firmly and insistently:

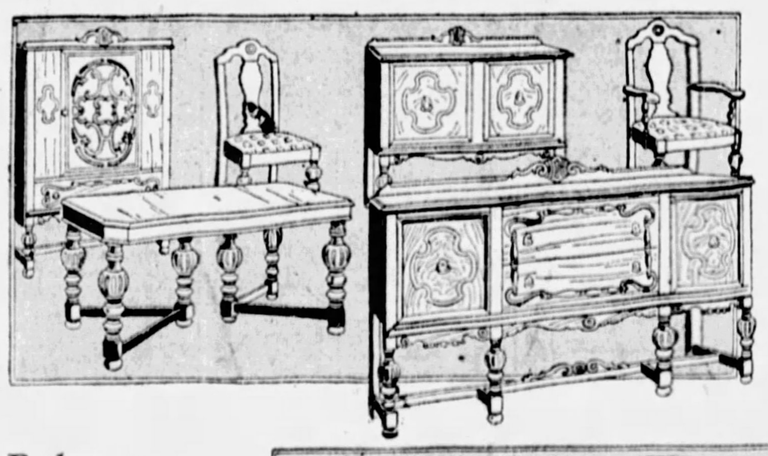
The "commonplace" finds no place in this stock. "bulk buying" is not resorted to get mass production prices, the lower operating costs of this store take care of B & B values without that.

Ever increasing sales volume permits deeper and broader investment in the unusual and more exceptional pieces.

The whole stock is included — your selection in enjoying the sales prices is not limited to a few segregated groups.

The showing in the popular priced suites and pieces is especially complete.

Deferred payment terms, a plan of comfortably distributed payments, is often a great convenience.



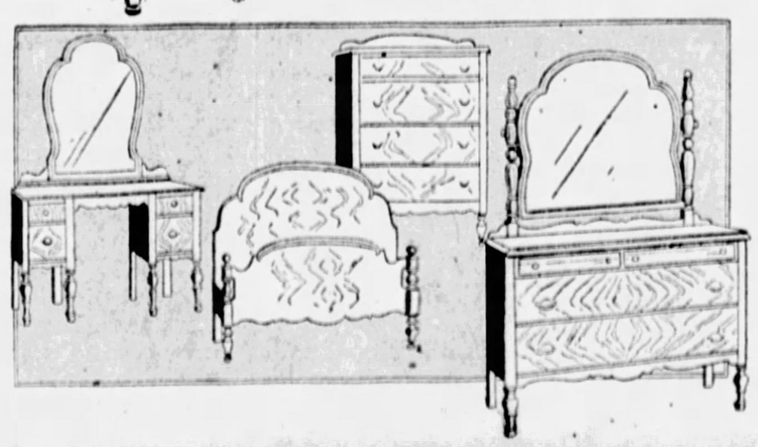
Dining Suite
$175

Full ten-piece suite—a neat, well set-up, suite at a most moderate price. Burled walnut panel and drawer fronts with straight grain walnut veneer. As low as we believe you can pay without impairment of quality. Complete $175 9 pieces —$165. 8 pieces $135.

Bedroom Suite
$175

A smart little suite in walnut and gumwood—at B & B's low limit price. Figured walnut grain top. 48-inch Dresser, 4-Drawer Vanity, Chest and full size bed. Just ten suites to sell.

Special $175.



ENGLAND SEES ARMS MEET "PREDICTION" AS BLUNDER

LONDON, Feb. 18.—(A.P.)—England is inclined to wonder just what the new disarmament discussion with the United States is all about.

The entire incident—anonymous predictions of early renewal of disarmament efforts, statement of Sir Esme Howard, ambassador at Washington, that such was in early prospect, and Saturday's disclaimer by the foreign office—has received an expansive airing in the metropolitan press.

Esme Howard

Reliable sources informed the Associated Press that no repudiation to Sir Esme was intended in the foreign office statement of Saturday. The foreign office, it was said, merely declared that the time had not yet arrived for an official announcement regarding the next move contemplated.

Confused reports of the ambassador's intimation of prospective disarmament action made the communique necessary, it was said. It also being intended to forestall criticism in the House of Commons.

In Washington Sir Esme has said that his last week's intimation of early resumption of disarmament efforts was made entirely on his own initiative and was not on behalf of his government.

The Sunday Times diplomatic correspondent says it is obvious from a comparison of the statement of Sir Esme Howard and the Foreign Office communique that somebody blundered. And he says it is understood communications have been sent to Sir Esme about the matter.

Editorially the paper says, "an ill fate seems to hang over the efforts of this country and the United States to reach an agreement on naval disarmament—it means that once again somebody has blundered. Premature announcements of this sort can hardly fail to prejudice a situation which in any event is extremely delicate.

The Daily News refers to the Foreign Office statement as "severe snub" for Sir Esme.

Three Erie Slayers Granted Respites

HARRISBURG, Feb. 18.—Respites were granted today by Governor Fisher postponing the execution of three Erie County murderers who had been scheduled to go to the chair next Monday. The three men are Raymond and James Parker and John S. Wilson.

Delay in the execution was caused by postponing the session of the Pardon Board until next week. All three men have applied for commutation. The new date fixed is March 4.

MUSIC

Yost String Quartet

Schenley Ball Room

PROGRAM.

Quartet ..... John Alden Carpenter (First time in Pittsburgh).
Serenade ..... Hayden-Pochon
Irish Cradle Song ..... Alfred Pochon
Rondo ..... Mozart
Piano Quintet ..... Cesar Franck

The Yost String Quartet gave another of its pleasant chamber music recitals in Schenley Ballroom yesterday afternoon. The attendance is most satisfactory always, and quite reassuring to propagandists of that class of music.

The Carpenter Quartet and the Cesar Franck Quintet were the pillars of the program, but it took a little Mozart Rondo to show moderns how far they have wandered from the technique of string quartet writing, how little they have adhered to the sparkling clarity of tone and the elegance of design, which make such works of joy forever. Carpenter's writing is toppling over with musical ideas. It is fresh, well-timed, more clear than most essays in this field of modern music, and treats syncopated rhythms without over emphasis or affection.

The Franck Quintet can be immediately identified by anyone who has ever heard his sonata or his symphony. The first movement is the most eloquent, allowing the piano some fine recitatives in contrast to equally fine responses from the other instruments. The slow movement is a little obvious, without much invention, and the last is interesting technically. Dallmeyer Russell assisted the quartet in the latter number, and proved to be the finest choice of artist in all their quintets. His strong rhythmic sense never permitted any straying from the ensemble, nor did he ever attempt to outplay nor lead the strings. It was a very musical performance.

The group of miniatures proved, as usual, delightfully entertaining.

Tells Dyspeptics What to Eat

Strict Diets Often Unnecessary

It is a well-known fact that some foods have a strong tendency to produce excessive stomach acidity and consequent indigestion. By omitting from daily meals those foods that experience proves do not agree and limiting the diet to certain tasteless unappetizing foods, stomach troubles may in many instances be slowly overcome. Nine times in ten, however, indigestion, gas, etc., are due to excessive acidity and the premature souring of food in the stomach. Keep the stomach clean and sweet by freeing it of this extra acid and then sufferers can eat the foods they like best and as much as they want in reason and have no stomach trouble at all. Thousands of people do this daily by merely taking after every meal a little Bisurated Magnesia, which can be had at any good drug store in either powder or tablet form. Bisurated Magnesia instantly neutralizes stomach acids, stops food fermentation and meals digest as naturally and painlessly as in the stomach of a healthy child. Stomach comfort means a lot and most folks like good things to eat. Enjoy them both by making Bisurated Magnesia your daily after-eating protection.

BLOOMFIELD TROLLEY SERVICE SCORED

Not Afraid of Fat, But Co-Eds Are Refused Candy at Noonday

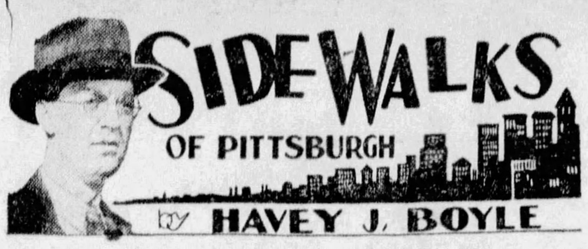
MARIE BROCKMAN — BETTY WAGNER — JEAN SHOUP

Pitt co-eds at lunchtime must buy milk and crackers from the campus refreshment stand, tended by Miss Shoup, if they're going to buy anything. Candy isn't sold during the noon hour, not because it's fattening but because the school physician ruled it out.

FLORENCE BAILEY — VIRGINIA KING

These two co-eds eat their crackers and milk, which, says the school doctor, is nutritious, the reason why he wants them to have it rather than candy, sold the rest of the day.

SIDEWALKS OF PITTSBURGH



by HAVEY J. BOYLE

JUDGE JAMES B. DREW, of the Quarter Sessions Court, was sentencing a colored man. The colored boy was near the counsel table. "Stand up," said the court. "I am standing," replied the colored man, who was not more than five feet in height. Judge Drew, incidentally, stands a couple of inches higher than six feet.

In a recent issue of the Saturday Evening Post an aviator told how the airplane was first pressed into service by the newspapers. He went on to say that at the Dempsey-Willard fight in Toledo several newspapers arranged to have pictures delivered by 'plane.

He could have added that Ed Sykes, a Pittsburgh reporter, on the staff of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, and Joe Mackrell, present register of wills, who were then employed by the Chronicle Telegraph, had something to do with this innovation. Mr. Sykes, assisted by Mr. Mackrell, laid plans for quick delivery through the air. Motorcycles, trains and an airplane figured in the delivery of the pictures to Pittsburgh.

I REMEMBER the occasion as I had a talk with one of the aviators approached. His name was Locklear. His specialty was stunts. He amused the crowds in those days by stepping from one plane to another high in the air. He was dubious about a Pittsburgh landing at that time, although he was a young man with iron nerve. He was later killed in one of his stunts.

That was a good trip for Mr. Mackrell, by the way. He picked Willard to win the fight, a prophecy perhaps that prompted him to enter politics, first, and then later score a real achievement—study law and in his middle forties pass the stiff examination to qualify.

IT IS the duty of a milk truck driver to make an early morning trip from Butler to Pittsburgh and return. Or possibly it is vice versa. At any rate, while the medical men advise the victim of insomnia to count mythical sheep jumping over a more mythical fence to woo Morpheus, this milkman with some success has tried a system not altogether dissimiar for another purpose—to keep awake. He counts the telegraph poles. The surprising thing about this is that he has never reached the same total twice in succession. It is not his arithmetic that is at fault, he avers, but the discrepancies come from the fact that every day or so the telephone company sneaks up on him and plants a new pole.

(The telephone company, of course, does not indulge in a whim simply to confuse a perplexed milkman. The poles newly planted are used to hold up telephone wires.—Editor's note.)

People who pass over the same route daily play many games similar to the milkman's. I know a man who walks to work every day and can recite the names of every business establishment from South Twenty-second street to the Tenth Street Bridge.

ANOTHER friend imbued with the benefits of a daily walk tries to walk from his home near Amberson avenue to the downtown—along Fifth avenue. He has never been successful. Nearly always a kind motorist, sometimes a stranger, sometimes a friend, stops and invites the would-be pedestrian into his car for a ride. The walker is now looking for a street on which he may temporarily hide behind telegraph poles so he can complete his walk.

Speaking of motorists, I hope the driver who glared because I didn't do a six-foot jump when he pressed his horn the other day will forgive me. How did I know it was his street?

CARRICK HIGH SCHOOL BOY HAS 5 PAINTINGS IN EXHIBIT

At an age when youth for the most part is spending his spare time playing baseball and football, John Kucera, 16, of 410 Parallel street, Carrick, has distinguished himself as a painter.

The three distinguished artists who decided what pictures should go in, and what should stay out of the Associated Artists' exhibit in Carnegie Galleries, gave young John a perfect record—admitting five out of six that he submitted, and turning the last out because it was under the regulation size.

The youthful artist, a sophomore in Carrick High School, spent two years in Moscow, Russia, where he studied under Nicholas Chodotaiff and H. Rerberg, two of the distinguished painters of the Soviet Republic. Although a native of Pittsburgh, he lived there with his father, an engineer commissioned to construct governmental factories. He returned to Pittsburgh last October.

Although the Soviet regime makes it difficult for artists to live, Moscow still has its share, he believes, and the majority of the painters are not modernistic, although it is nearly all such work that is exhibited in Europe and this country. The only means painters have to live on their art is by government purchase. All who do not succeed in selling their works this way must live by other means, for the people are too poor to buy, he added.

The five paintings by Kucera in the local exhibit, now open, are "Mid-day," "A Sunny Corner," and three still life subjects. He is one of little more than half a dozen artists who have that number in the exhibit.

CANDY LUNCHES BANNED AT PITT

Candy bars—the college girls' nickel lunch—have been ordered to the rear during lunch hours at the University of Pittsburgh.

The order, and not a particularly favorable one, was handed down by the Pitt board, because too few co-eds were drinking milk and eating crackers, and too many were just eating candy.

The order becomes effective at 11:30 in the several little lunch rooms scattered throughout the school buildings. Here may be bought bottles of milk, plain or chocolate, and boxes of crackers.

It was explained that there was no discrimination against candy as a food of value by the Pitt physicians, but that too many girls were eating nothing else.

Crescent Club Plans Evening At Cards

A card party has been arranged by the Crescent Social Club to be held Thursday night in the home of Mrs. Margaret Cline, 818 Holland avenue, Wilkinsburg. Smoke in Kitchen Brings Out Firemen

Mrs. John McGovern, 231 Ruxton street, Mt. Washington, was surprised yesterday when she came into the kitchen of her home and found firemen "meddling" around her dinner, cooking on the stove. Smoke from a pot of grease attracted the attention of a passerby, who turned in the alarm. Mt. Washington fire companies responded, and reported no damage.

AUTHOR TO GIVE TRINITY TALKS

Trinity Cathedral will be the place of evening worship for all denominations during the week of February 24, it was announced today by Dean Percy G. Kammerer. Beginning Sunday and continuing each evening until Friday, inclusive, a series of interdenominational meetings will be addressed by the Rev. Dr. E. Stanley Jones, author and widely known evangelistic missionary. Prominent ministers of other denominations will speak during the series of meetings.

A member of the board of foreign missions of the Methodist Episcopal Church, Dr. Jones served many years in India, preaching among high-caste Hindus. He has held evangelistic meetings in Malaysia, China, Japan and Korea, and last year made an evangelistic tour of the South American republics. In India he counts among his personal friends Dr. Rabbindrath Tagore and Mahatma Gandhi. He is the author of "The Christ of the India Road," and "Christ at the Round Table."

During his stay in Pittsburgh Dr. Jones will deliver noon addresses before civic organizations and women's groups and the students of local educational institutions.

CIVIC CLUB WILL CARRY PROTEST TO COUNCIL

Asking better trolley car service in its community, the Bloomfield Civic Club, recently organized, at its regular meeting adopted resolutions appealing to City Council to take steps to remedy the situation. A committee was appointed to go before Council this week and formally present the request.

It was brought out at the meeting that the service now being given by the Railways Company is inadequate to the needs of the community and the resolution asks for more cars on the East Liberty express line.

Robert Garland, member of City Council was present on invitation and told the organization what City Council was doing to better conditions in the City of Pittsburgh. W. E. Rodgers accompanied by Mrs. A. W. Rodgers, rendered a number of vocal selections and the Lehrian Orchestra, an organization of boys of that district, pleased with a number of selections.

The club appeals to the residents of the community to co-operate with it in its efforts for better conditions in that district.

RELIC EXHIBIT PLANNED

Relics and antiques are to be exhibited February 22 at the Ross Avenue (Wilkinsburg) M. E. Church under the auspices of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society of the church. Members of the organization have scoured the district for objects of interest and have secured many curios.

A literary and musical program also has been arranged for both the afternoon and evening. Refreshments will be served in a specially constructed Japanese tea room and the ladies in attendance will be dressed in the costumes of various eras of American history.

The exhibit will include war relics, dishes, quilts, books, native and Oriental furniture and rare curios. Mrs. D. M. Paul and Mrs. F. C. Mumma are arranging the exhibition. No fee will be charged, but an offering will be accepted.

C. E. Society to Present Playlets

"How a Woman Keeps a Secret" and "A Bachelor's Dream" will be presented tomorrow night in the Brighton Road Presbyterian Church by members of the Christian Endeavor Society.

Will Rogers Says

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.

There has been quite an argument over whose budget will pay for the new cruisers just voted. Coolidge has offered to split the cost 50-50. He will pay for the blueprints if Hoover will pay for the cruisers.

Greece owed us $17,850,000 on a war debt, so Saturday Congress passed a bill to loan 'em $12,150,000 so it would make it an even 30 million. We don't like to be bothered with being owed small, uneven sums.

Truth comes out mighty slow. Florida wants the federal government to pay all the expenses of putting a windbreak around Lake Okeechobee, so the water won't all blow out. Religion didn't drive that state Republican.

Yours, WILL.

Golf at Naval Academy

GOLF is now a compulsory subject in the American Naval Academy at Annapolis. Midshipmen must take a course of 10 lessons and pass a test in proficiency.

Dick Finds Love at First Sight on His Trip To Reno

it of amusement at his blunder and something else—a sort of eagerness that he felt rather than saw. Lord! She was pretty.

"I did the same thing yesterday," she told him, "only you weren't there to see me." And then, suddenly, as though loneliness forced the words from her, "Won't you sit down?"

Her voice trembled slightly. For all her poise, she impressed him as a little girl trying to be brave in a bewildering situation.

He sat tensely upon the seat opposite her. He hadn't the right to make friends. The girl, he thought, obviously had led a very sheltered life, a life protected from the slightest taint of ugliness or notoriety. Just a nice kid—that's what she was. While he—a prospective Reno-ite! Front page material! When the Richard Sevesants are divorced, it is news—sensationalism. A loser in the game of marriage, he could be on equality, for the time at least, three ugly months—only with other divorce seekers. No one to sit talking with a girl like this.

Her voice broke in upon the awkward silence:

"I looked at your things—your steamer and hotel labels . . . and things. We've stayed at so many of these places.

He picked up the cue she gave him and gradually they became at ease. They talked impersonally of places both had visited, of books, of plays, yet there was an undercurrent of excitement, a sense of drawing together.

Her name, she told him, was Felicia Brett. She was going to San Francisco to join her father, she said; they might make their home there.

At the end of an hour Dick rose. His spirits, which had unaccountably lightened, fell as he said, "I'll tell you good-by now, for I probably won't see you again. I'm getting off now."

"How soon?" she demanded, almost sharply.

Dick flushed. "Why—ah—Sacramento," he stammered. He was not a good liar.

Back in his compartment, he basked in the memory of the meeting. The quick changes in her face, the bright beauty of her smile! There was a girl!

That night Dick, having bribed the porter to get his luggage off quietly from the far end of the train, hurried from the Reno station like a thief so that Felicia should not know. They had his reservation, the clerk at the hotel told him, but a friend of his, a Mr. John Berkeley, had heard of his coming and wished him to share his suite.

Mr. Berkeley, the clerk said, had gone to meet the train, odd they should have missed each other. Dick smiled grimly as he thought of his furtive departure from the station.

But what was John Berkeley—good old J. B.—doing in Reno? Bachelor and sport, cynic and what an older generation had called libertine—surely Reno offered nothing that he could want!

Within the door, Dick felt he could have known without being told that these were J. B.'s rooms. Cocktail shaker and glasses, photographs of pretty women—To Darling Johnny . . . To Good Old J. B. . . . To Don Juan Berkeley—all the props were here, with the thoroughness of a Belasco setting, even to a lace-trimmed handkerchief and a small white glove upon a table.

Dick had known J. B. since he was a boy, when the older man's bachelor parties in the big cabin across the lake from the Stuyvesant summer home had scandalized the community. Known him and, as he grew older, hated much about him, yet loved him through their mutual passion for animals and the great outdoors about which J. B. knew nearly as much as any man alive. If only, Dick reflected, J. B. could feel toward humanity a quarter of the kindly sympathy he felt for one mongrel pup, what a good man he would be!

The door burst open. J. B., in a hair-striped suit and a bright necktie—the sort no man ever buys for himself, the sort to which J. B.'s perpetual philandering sentenced him for life—seized Dick by the arm and swung him around. "Well, youngster, welcome to our city. So you've made the jump at last!"

"What are you doing here?" Dick countered, trying to sound cheerful. "I didn't get any wedding announcement!"

J. B. chuckled. "Sit down and have a drink and I'll tell you about it."

He mixed the drinks and lifted his glass. An amiable grin lighted his rugged face.

"To Reno—where women are free and the only bonds are those that bear coupons." The grin became rueful. "I'm not in your class, Dick. You know that. I'm not a master of a fortune and independent. In fact, right now, I'm quite dependent." He paused, drained his glass and put it down.

"Of course," he continued, "one wouldn't marry lovely lady simply for her money. But if one should find a lady who was truly charming and who at the same time did happen to have money, well — Reno's headquarters, after all. And you know, Dicky, I've a feeling that as a husband I'll be a conspicuous success. Reformed rake—you know."

Dick's lips tightened and J. B. stopped apologetically. "Sorry, my boy. Tell me your troubles. What happened?"

Dick thought a moment before he answered carefully:

"Nothing really happened. That is—nothing special. There's no scandal. We didn't throw things at each other, or anything like that. We just seem to have reached a point where we cannot live contentedly, or even complacently, together. And I decided divorce offered the only clean and honest way out the only decent solution to our problem."

"Are you still in love with Constance?" asked J. B. Dick shook his head. He couldn't tell J. B., or anyone else, that Constance was neurotic, that everything natural to him seemed repugnant to her. He went on slowly:

"It isn't that. But I feel that coming here, getting a divorce, is the admission that I have been lacking in some indefinable, essential something that could have prevented the wreck."

J. B. nodded; he could see that. Then he grinned.

"Well, now that you're here, forget it, boy. This town's no place for brooding. I'll show you some things tomorrow. Why—" his tone was exultant—"there are eight women here to every man; every man's his own King Solomon. Tomorrow we'll go out and collect you a harem! But let's turn in now, you must be tired."

A little later, wakefully listening to the noise of parties in nearby rooms, Dick wondered if, after all, J. B.'s philosophy might not be right.

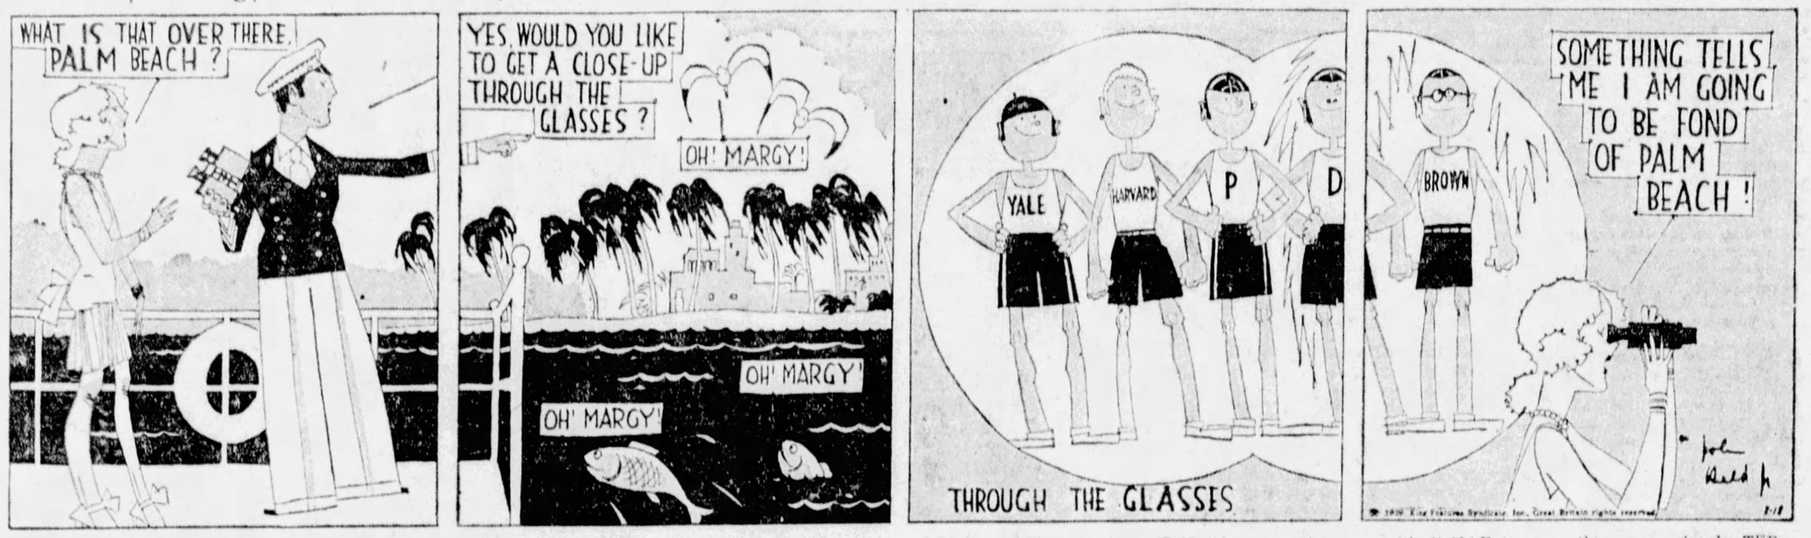
Pleasure was always possible and it was foolish to attempt to establish a relations with women on anything but a material basis. If it didn't last, all right, swing on to the next experience. And the next. And the next. There were all sorts of women. Suddenly he thought of the girl in the train. She was different—steadfast, he was sure of it. And as long as he could remember that there were good women in the world, women like her, clear-eyed, honest, he would cling to his ideals. J. B. and his cynicism were not for him.

He fell asleep at last under the soothing influence of a cooling breeze—a breeze which, fortunately, could not tell him it had just fanned Felicia, lying troubled and wakeful, not in the train on the way to San Francisco, but in the house of a friend not half a mile away in the city of divorce.

Follow this fascinating story of life as it is lived at Reno in this newspaper tomorrow.

Merely Margy, An Awfully Sweet Girl

Story by Lloyd Mayer — By John Held, Jr.



"Well, my dear, I was ACtually TOO impRESSED when this Palm BEACH place sort of SUDdenly arose on the hoRIzon effect because it was HONestly perfectly diVINE-looking with all these strange PALMS kind of STAG'ring vaguely along the SHORE and these TERribly cute VILlas and things sprawling CASurally across the LANDscape and all, do you know what I mean? Well, ANYways, my dear, it was simply SCREAMing because Mr. WEALTHington and I were PROWLing INtimately about together on DECK when we SIGHTed it, and he asked me if I wanted to get a CLOSE-up with the GLASSes, and, my dear, I was THRILLED to DEATH at that point because you could see EV'rything in the most inTRIguing DEtail with these odd biNOCular things and what SLEW me was the SUDden VISion of these TERribly attractive YOUTHS standing VAGUELy round on the BEACH throwing their CHESTS out, sort of, because they were all the collEGiate type, my dear, and I had VISions of having a perfect WHIRL if I once got TEARing ROUND and whatnot with these YALE and HARvard boys only MOTHer and DADdy were PRACTically ready to ROLL over and BUTter themselves with disMAY because they were simply TERrified it was going to be FRIGHTfully exPENsive if we stayed at one of these DOGgy HOTELS and ANYways everybody says MOST of the PALMS at Palm BEACH are OUTstretched—can you cope with it? But ANYways, my dear, the way things turned OUT was too perfectly SWISS and I'm conSUMED with a MAD desire to TELL you about it toMORrow, my dear—I mean I ACtually AM!"

NANCY DEANE By Roy L. Foley

CHAPTER XXXVII.

NANCY didn't even think where Wescott was taking her—it didn't seem to matter—she was living in a beautiful dream—and then before he reached the door of the little room where she had lain and dreamed of him so often—a harsh voice shattered the silence—a voice from the world of things as they are—insistent, clamoring, the telephone bell jangled.

Nancy started—struggled out of Wescott's encircling arms; got to her feet, noticed how flushed his face was, saw a flash of anger fill his eyes, a look such as she had seen several times before when he had been aroused.

"Who's that?" she stammered, "who can it be at this time of night?"

Wescott clenched his hands as she started for the telephone.

With a hand that shook so she could hardly hold the receiver, Nancy heard Muddy O'Day's lovely voice. "Is it you, darlin'? I seen the paper this evenin'—you seen it, too—you remember the letter I sint ye—don't be waitin', darlin', don't be waitin' till it's too late."

That was all—Muddy's "good-by", sounded almost like a wail. She turned puzzled perplexed—the paper—what was in the paper? There it was on the table folded just as she had left it—she rushed to it, opened it—and staggered back—

And all the while Wescott was watching her with the furious look in his eyes of one who had been balked by Fate—

Yes, yes, it was plain enough what Muddy meant now—her eyes read the flaring headline—

"Montgomery Deane, banker, stricken, near death."

The paper in her hands, she sank to the couch. "My grandfather," she murmured, "my grandfather."

She forgot that Wescott was in the room.

She was swept with hot waves of regret that she had waited until now to go to that grandfather and to identify herself and tell the things he own father had told her to tell.

She would go to the Deanes now. Yes, she would go this very night, late as it was. If Montgomery Deane was dying he had a right to know what she knew.

She looked up and saw Wescott coming toward her. "What is it, dear?" he asked.

She held out the paper—pointed to the black headline with the startling news.

His eyes followed her finger. He read the headline without bending over.

"Montgomery Deane. Good God!" he exclaimed.

He picked up the paper and glanced over the story.

When he had finished he asked brusquely, "Well, what of it—he's an old man, isn't he?"

"He's my grandfather. My father was Montgomery Deane, Jr."

Howard Wescott didn't move a muscle, didn't even raise his eyes from the paper as Nancy went on:

"My father was the son he banished so many years ago. Mr. Deane is dying now. I wonder if he remembers the words he said to my father when he drove him from the house with his bride. He said he never wanted to see my father again unless he was in his coffin. He—"

Wescott's black eyes were riveted on Nancy now.

"Do you know what you're saying. You're not—not making up some kind of a wild story are you?"

"No, I am not making up a wild story. It's the truth. Don't you remember I once told you my mother was in the circus and my father was the son of a Pittsburgh family, that they lived on the very street your father's home is on?"

Wescott was searching her face. "I thought that was a game you were playing," he said, harshly, "I didn't quite believe that. How could I?"

"I am going over to the Deanes now," Nancy went on, disregarding his question. "I'm going to tell them who I am. I must. Can't you see I must?"

"Well, don't say anything about me. Don't mention my name."

Wescott uttered the words quickly, with a look of sudden concern in his dark eyes. His voice was jerky and there was a tone in it new to Nancy.

"Don't say a word about me. I, I, well—I don't want to get mixed up in anything. You see, our family knows the Deanes well. You understand, of course. It wouldn't look right if people discovered I'd been coming up here like this."

For the first time in the months she had known him, there was a cowardly look in his eyes. For the first time since she met him he was nervous, unequal to a situation.

He started walking back and forth, across the small room. A footstool that stood in front of the one large chair was in his path, and he pushed it aside with his foot. It tumbled over, its legs sticking up ridiculously.

"Why didn't you tell me this before I—before I got to know you so well?"

He turned on her like a tiger; an excited, almost ugly look on his face.

"Why in h— didn't you say you were old Montgomery Deane's granddaughter and I'd have let you alone. This whole thing is liable to get babbled all over town now."

Had Nancy been lashed with a whip she couldn't have smarted more than she did under the lashes of his words. Was this the man of half an hour ago? Then he hadn't meant it—he wasn't in love with her—he had meant all the time first to—to—

So Ginger and Vic were right. In their own slangy, expressive way, they had branded Howard as a "big bum" because they suspected him of being a cad, a rotter.

Nancy's glorious, rose colored, singing world crumbled about her. Her eyes followed Wescott as he walked. So this was the man she had been so infatuated with, who always seemed to blot out the things her heart were telling her of John Blair.

He was talking again: He was sorry that he got "mixed up" with her.

"Howard" she cried, still almost unbelieving. "Howard!"

She clapped her hands over her mouth. She couldn't speak. Her tongue was dry. Her throat hurt.

The doorbell rang. Wescott stopped his pacing and stood still. He looked around the room, his eyes searching for a place to hide.

Nancy read the look in his face. She nodded toward her bedroom and was sorry the instant she had done so. He picked up his hat and coat and tiptoed across its threshold.

All the color had gone from her face. She was looking down and when he passed her she did not raise her eyes.

"The big bum! The big bum!" Ginger's scornful name for him echoed through her brain.

The bell rang again; Nancy opened the door to see Maybelle Montague and a rather coarse looking man at her side.

"Lo Nancy," chirped Maybelle. "This is Mr. Dugan. We've come to pay a little friendly call. Where's your boy friend?"

Maybelle walked to a mirror and nonchalantly began to give twists and pulls and pats to the ends of her iron burned blonde hair that peeked out from beneath her hat.

Nancy couldn't believe what she was hearing. She could feel herself trembling.

"Why, Maybelle, I, I—"

"Oh, well," Maybelle went on, "so he's gone, has he?"

She settled herself back in a chair.

"Why don't you ask Mr. Dugan to have a seat?" she said to Nancy.

Before she could answer, Nancy knew Maybelle wasn't interested in an answer.

"Just stepped in to say hello," she continued, her voice was bold now, her eyes fixed on the bedroom. "Here we've been livin' next door and never even paid a friendly call. Ain't that just how it is in a place like this? You can be livin' on the other side of the wall from a person and you don't never get to visit them. I just came in to congratulate your boy friend on his marriage—"

She spoke the words quickly, but casually. Nancy heard with frightened eyes on Maybelle's face.

"Wasn't it cute of him to elope with Peggy Hayden down to Wellsburg? But say, is a marriage like that legal? Don't a person have to be divorced a year anyways before they can marry again?

"Anyways that's what Judd here was sayin'. Judd's up on all that stuff, ain't you, Judd?"

She turned to the man sitting across from her, who shifted in his chair and said: "Oh, a little."

"The way I knew he was married was that Judd here and me was married the same day by the same justice. We came just after him to the justice's house, and seen the papers with the name on. I said to the justice—say, I know that man, and he says, do you, and I says, let me see that record of yours, and he did. Say, you could a-knocked me down with a feather. But I never blabbed to a soul till now."

She paused, looking at Nancy, who had gone white. "What's the matter?" she said, "didn't you know your boy friend was a married man? Say—"

"Maybelle!"

Nancy uttered her name, and then she couldn't say another word.

"Say, I'm sorry if I've blabbed too much," Maybelle continued. "I could have told you all this when I saw you on the avenue, but I thought I'd keep it mum, maybe I've been talkin' out of school. But say, I thought—"

Nancy interrupted: "Oh, so you've learned of Mr. Wescott's marriage. And I thought I was one of the few people who knew of it. Howard's wife is coming here any minute now. She, they—"

Nancy didn't know what she was saying. She only knew she had to lie, to tell anything rather than let Maybelle get the better of her.

"Well, in that case, if you're expectin' company, we'd better be goin'. Come on, Judd," she said, with a venomous look at the bedroom.

The door closed behind them.

With a steadiness at which she herself marveled, Nancy went to the door Maybelle had part closed and slowly opened it.

She stood there while Wescott came out of his hiding place. His own face was like chalk. He tried to look at the clear eyed girl with the golden hair, but his own eyes fell.

"Listen," he stammered.

But she didn't listen—there was nothing she cared to hear—nothing he could say—

She shut the door as he passed out. All her courage was gone now. She got down on her knees and wept. "Oh, John, John," her heart was crying.

And if it hadn't been for Muddy O'Day—and the telephone — she buried her shamed face in her hands.

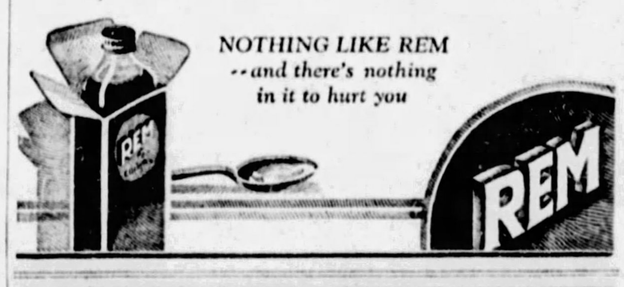
(To be Continued Tomorrow.)

Mr. Roy A. Siegelsen of 2912 35th Ave., S. Minneapolis, is proprietor of a fuel and transfer company. Exposure to winter weather led to a cough. Then his wife told him about REM -- and here's his story:

"and now I'm as strong a booster for REM as she is"

"A man in my business is subject to frequent colds and coughs," says Mr. Siegelsen. "Our winter is long and cold and I deliver fuel all over the city. I had a bad cough a couple of winters ago and couldn't seem to get relief. My wife suggested REM and it helped at once. A friend had given her REM when she had a bad cough and it had given her such quick relief that she bought a bottle at Bentson's Pharmacy at Lake St. & S. 36th Avenue. Since I've used it, I'm just as strong a booster for REM as she is."

So here's another case of grateful users recommending REM. They know--they've used it themselves!



NOTHING LIKE REM --and there's nothing in it to hurt you

PHILADELPHIA'S MAYOR TO OPEN EAGLES' DRIVE

Mayor Harry A. Mackey, of Philadelphia, will be the principal speaker at the first annual banquet of Regional District No. 2, Fraternal Order of Eagles, on Monday night, February 25, in the William Penn Hotel, according to announcement by Attorney J. Howard Devlin, secretary of the general committee.

District No. 2 embraces all Western Pennsylvania counties which contain 62 aeries of the Eagles.

The local banquet is coincident with similar affairs to be held in the 10 other regional districts as part of a state-wide campaign to increase membership in the Eagles in Pennsylvania from 100,000 to 150,000 by June 1.

Senator Frank J. Harris, chairman of the general committee, will outline the Eagles' activities in promoting legislation for old age pensions and for relieving the unemployment situation.

Kelvinator Dealers In Convention Here

Kelvinator dealers from the Pittsburgh district opened a two-day convention at Webster Hall Hotel today and in 21 other important cities throughout the country similar gatherings are being held. The purpose of the meetings is to discuss merchandising plans for the coming year and to introduce the 1929 Kelvinator models, according to F. J. Natwick, of the Kelvinator-Leonard Corporation, Pittsburgh distributors.

Executives and sales representatives will speak at the meeting here. Among those scheduled to appear at the various conventions are: George W. Mason, president and general manager; H. W. Burritt, vice president in charge of sales; H. A. Sieck, vice president in charge of commercial sales; J. A. Corcoran, director of advertising and sales promotion; J. S. 2 Husbands Charge Wives Deserted Them

Charging that his wife deserted him, Ray Graybile, of 202 Oregon street, has filed suit for divorce in Common Pleas Court against Mrs. Minnie C. Graybile, now of Milroy, Mifflin County. They were married May 1, 1924, and separated February 26, 1928.

Conrad C. Lutz, of Oakdale, making a similar charge against his wife, Emily H. Lutz, Noblestown road, says she deserted him November 2, 1925, after five years of marriage.

Meditations of a Wife

BY HELEN ROWLAND

With a Dash of Paprika

THE man who claims to know all about women must keep awfully busy changing his mind these days.

The honeymoon is not over until the bride begins to think wistfully of all the things she could do with the alimony he could afford.

With ping-pong back in fashion, there is now the bright hope that we may revive some of the other graceful old games, like chivalry, flirtation and coquetry, which made life so much more fun, and love so much more colorful in the pre-Freudian days.

"Just what is today's outstanding problem?" asks a paragrapher. Well—the most outstanding problem we can think of is that straggly little whisp of hair just beginning to "grow out" at the back of a girl's neck.

Many a modern man travels so fast in the pursuit of love, that he whizzes right past it, and ends by either plunging head-first into the arms of the wrong woman, or skidding into a legal entanglement.

When a woman talks darkly of "ending it all," it is usually a sign that some man has just gone out of her life. When a man begins talking like that, it is a sign that there is one woman too many in his life.

When we speak of a man of forty-eight, as "going on fifty," and of a woman the same age as "over forty"—that's chivalry!

Under all a modern girl's audacity there is an instinctive feminine delicacy, which she often deliberately outrages in her attempt to appear "broad-minded," sophisticated and fashionably hard boiled.

* * *

A woman's instinct never fails her. It is only when some mean man tells her to "try to use a little REASON," that she gets her signals all mixed and takes the wrong turn.

An Ill Wind -:- By Madge Geyer

THE old adage certainly holds good in these blustery days. And it certainly brings a lot of good along with it. For the ill wind that takes Miss Charmant's hat and blows it straight into the hands of one who has been longing for just such an opportunity, isn't such an ill wind after all. It's just mischievious and certainly must be guided by Dan Cupid.

Oh, yes, that young man takes advantage of everything. All the winds are his friends; all the stars and the moon and the sun and everything in Nature comes running at his call. For they all want to see Love enthroned and whenever they have a chance to help, they do so willingly. And in this case—isn't it the truth that "It's an ill wind that blows no good?"

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Too Much Food Bane of This Modern Age

IT is a great pity that people do not eat according to the work they perform. The office worker does not require the same kind of a meal a farm-hand must have in order to do his work. It is a pity that too many brain workers eat meals of the farm worker type.

DR. COPELAND

The average office man should be taken by the hand at mealtime and led to the right sort of a place to eat. Then he should be given a lecture on the choice of foods. The most important sentence in the lecture should be, "Eat half as much as you usually do."

Almost everybody overeats. I am not sure that the average man eats twice as much as he actually requires, but he certainly eats more than he needs for his highest good.

There is no economy in the selection of cheap food. Everybody should buy what might be called guaranteed food—food of high quality which has been protected against contamination, and which is known to be pure and wholesome. Then the food must be properly cooked and placed upon the table in such form as to appeal to the appetite.

It is safe to assume that three-quarters of the cases of indigestion are due to wrong eating. One of the lessons which should be taught in every household is how to choose a balanced meal.

Good sense should prevail in the eating of foods which appeal to the palate. Too much of any sort of food is bad for you. Just because you like a thing is no reason why you should confine your eating to that particular thing.

Indigestion should always be a warning that your eating habits require a survey. You should find out what change is necessary in order to protect your poor stomach against the outrageous treatment you have been giving it.

One of the crimes of modern life is the enormous consumption of denatured foods, foods from which the mineral elements have been taken, predigested foods, soft and mushy foods. All these take away from the teeth and from the digestive tract activities which are necessary to the health of the teeth and of the digestive tract. Unless your teeth are used for cutting and grinding, and unless your intestinal tract is given some rough and coarse food to stimulate its activities, digestion will not go on as it should.

You cannot afford to overlook indigestion if it is an everyday affair. It is a sign you are not living right. You are eating the wrong things. You are exercising too little. You are working your brain too much and your feet not enough.

If you are suffering from indigestion, make a study of your table habits and see if you are not responsible for your own uncomfortable symptoms.

Answers to Health Queries

A. N. Q.—Is it possible to rebuild a spinal nerve, presumably cut while undergoing an operation?

A.—No, but an operation to incorporate the cut end of the nerve into another nerve will help to make the injured nerve do some work.

Y. H. Q.—Is there anything that will stop snoring?

A.—Perhaps the party in question is troubled with some obstruction of the nasal passage. A nose specialist should be consulted.

G. S. Q.—What do you advise for catarrh?

A.—Try using a good spray in the nose and throat.

G. W. Q.—I am 18 years of age and my hair is turning gray. I have had two attacks of pneumonia during my life and I am troubled with bronchitis. Would this cause gray hair?

A.—This may be due to heredity, shock or severe illness. Perhaps your early illness is the cause. There is really nothing to do. However, a stimulating ointment might help to keep the scalp in a good condition.

L. S. Q.—What causes the whites of the eyes to be yellow and streaked?

A.—Probably due to some disturbance of the liver. Consult your physician for the necessary treatment.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Tuesday, February 19.

CONFLICTING astral conditions may react with peculiar or even spectacular force upon mundane and humar affairs on this day. Although the powers prevailing are not of first magnitude in effect, yet it would be well to be cautious in all ventures and to safeguard the person and property from disaster. Purely personal affairs may be pleasant and agreeable.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year calling for patience, coolness and general discretion. Postpone change and be on guard as to personal and property safety. Personal matters may be agreeable and active.

A child born on this day may be energetic enough, but may be rash and headstrong, rushing into difficulties and dangers. Rigid training may subdue stultifying tendencies.

Dicky and Harry Insist on Leaving During Brixton Visit

I BREATHED a silent anathema against masculine stupidity as Harry Underwood turned to Marion with his jest concerning the futility of trying to argue with a trained nurse. Could he not see that the girl was fiercely resentful not only of his masterful air when he announced his intention of taking breakfast to Lillian, but of his yielding to Katherine's authority when he already had flouted her own dictum on the subject? I knew that he had not meant to be arrogant in his reply to Marion's protest—he simply had adopted the usual manner of a masterful man in speaking to a child. If he had dreamed that he was wounding her, he never would have spoken as he had.

But the mischief was done now, and I waited tensely for the explosion which I feared would follow Mr. Underwood's untimely jest. That Marion's jealousy and temper had rasped her nerves to rawness, I was sure. It was only a question of how much self-control she possessed.

From some depth of pride, however, she armed herself with composure, and she even achieved an icy little smile as she answered with a slight inclination of her head toward Katherine:

"I've always been brought up to believe that Aunt Katherine's other name is 'She Who Must Be Obeyed,'" she said, returning to her melon with an air of dismissal of the subject which her mother could not have bettered. But I saw that while pretending to eat, she, in reality, scarcely touched Katie's delicious breakfast, and when after a little she quietly asked to be excused on the plea of having books to pack for sending ahead to school, I guessed that she really was hurrying to her room that she might give vent to the emotional storm which she was too proud to let her see.

"You see!" Katherine whispered to me when breakfast was over. "That's what I mean by his raising blisters. The child's probably crying her eyes out, and he hasn't the faintest idea that he's said anything out of the way."

"Well," I hedged with a sense of justice stirring within me, "he really didn't, you know, if she weren't so sensitive on that point."

"If, if, if," Katherine repeated. "What a wrecker that rock is. Of course the man means all right—men all do, bless 'em, but their ideas in fact—almost equal those of women," she finished with a grin. "But, Madge, if you love me, or Lillian, do ease the leviathan over on another track and curb him a bit."

"I'll do my best, I promised hastily, for Dicky was pacing up and down the veranda, casting impatient glances in my direction, and I knew he wanted to talk to me.

"Sit down," my husband commanded when I joined him on the veranda, deserted at this hour. "I've got several things to talk over with you. First, of course you know that Harry and I are absolutely out of this Brixton vis. it. We're going to be conspicuous for our absence."

"I understood that," I said quietly—a bit frigidly in fact, for something in his didactic manner jarred upon me.

"That's save a lot," he answered with a provoking grin. "The next thing is that I've got to go up to the city tomorrow for several days. Edi's simply swamped with the magazine work and now that Harry has his new bus here, you won't need my car. I'd like to take it with me. Your own is in pretty fair shape, isn't it?"

"Fair enough," I answered quickly, although I knew that I was not being entirely truthful, for my car really needed a through overhauling. But not for worlds would I have raised any objection to Dicky's taking his car to the city, because there had leaned within me the jealous conviction that he wanted it so that he could take Edith Fairfax driving in the wonderful autumn evenings which are the climatic pride of New York and Long Island.

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

Funeral Customs

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:
Is it permissible for a widow to omit the mourning veil when funeral services are just conducted at the home?
READER.

YES.

Married Attendants

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:
I am 25 years old and I am to be married soon. I would like to have my older married sister attend me. Friends tell me that they never heard of a married woman being an attendant at a wedding. Wouldn't this be all right? I would rather have my sister than a girl friend.
L. M.

BY ALL means have your older married sister as your attendant. Nowadays it is just as customary to have married attendants as it is to have unmarried attendants. No distinction is made. I cannot understand how anyone living today cannot "have heard of a married woman being an attendant at a wedding."

Seating Arrangements

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:
Would you be so kind as to help me? I am to attend a dinner and theater with a girl friend and two young men. I am to be the guest of honor (if I may call myself that)—would it be proper for my escort to enter the row of seats first, I next, my girl friend next, and then her friend? The two girls seated next each other?
J. B.

IT depends on which man is the host. If your escort is, then he would indicate to the other man that he enter the row first, then your girl friend, then you, and last the host.

Introduce Her

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:
When attending an informal dinner dance (where there are about 12 guests seated at one table) isn't it proper for a gentleman to introduce his partner to the people with whom she is not already acquainted?
E. S.

YES.

In Bad Form

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:
Is it proper for a boy and girl of 16 to walk arm-in-arm?
Y.

NO, it is not in good form.

Insist on Proper Name

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:
What have you to say about A's manners? He insists upon calling me (a mature person of good judgment) by Christian name given me at birth, after I have received legal advice, changed my name accordingly and sent him a written notice of the change?
OFFENDED.

A'S manners are exceedingly poor. In this case, Can nothing be done to make him see that one of the basic elements of good manners is respect for the rights of others? And it is an inalienable right for us to be called what we wish to be called—at least "within the law." It is difficult to imagine anyone so pig-headed as to insist on not using the name that you have asked him to use.

BUCS OFF FOR COAST CAMP TONIGHT

SPORT COMMENT by JAMES J. LONG

New Icers Won't Stay. To Be Traded Again. Comiskey's Flag Hopes. | Brassil Likely Referee. Home Boys Among Bucs. Chagnon Only Stranger.

BLUE LARKSPUR IS DERBY FAVORITE

LOCAL hockey fans should not be too quick to condemn some of the new material obtained by the Pittsburgh club as being unsuited to the purpose of building up the Pirate team into a winning combination for next season. Not all of the incoming timber appears to be of championship quality, it is true, but it does not follow that the management is not proceeding in the right direction to produce an improved sextet in the end.

Eddie Bouchard

For hockey trades, like baseball swaps, sometimes mean more than is evident on the surface. One deal may be only a stepping stone to another, and the talent acquired in a certain dicker may have been sought merely with the object of shipping it further along in a later transaction in exchange for something better.

Don't be surprised if, in the light of future developments, that is found to apply to the latest deal put through by the Buccaneer bosses, in which Tex White was traded to the New York Americans for Eddie Bouchard, left winger, and Jesse Spring, defense man, the last-named a Pirate discard of two years ago.

FROM a reliable source it is learned that this was only the first step in a double dicker. In other words, Pittsburgh obtained Bouchard and Spring, just before the trading time-limit expired, mainly for the purpose of trading them again after the ending of the present race. Neither Bouchard nor Spring will be on the Pirate team next season, it is understood, but will be used in other deals for material more suited to the needs of the home sextet.

For one thing, the Newark club insists upon being given certain playing material as well as cash for Spiff Wasnie, the crack young player who is soon to join the Rovers. And for another thing, it is said that the Pittsburgh club plans to make a determined effort to get for next season two of the best forwards in the league, one at present connected with a Canadian outfit and the other playing for an Eastern American team. Bouchard and Spring are to figure in these dickers and will be supplanted in the Pirate lineup next fall by men who will add greater strength to the team.

BASEBALL clubs managed or owned by Charles A. Comiskey have won nine major league pennants. The St. Louis Browns finished first in the old American Association in 1885-6-7-8, and the Chicago White Sox captured the American League flag in 1900-01-06-17-19.

Comiskey would like to make it 10 before he closes his baseball career. He is the oldest active man now in the big leagues—he will reach his seventieth milestone next August 15—and hopes to land a tenth flag before he quits.

Charles A. Comiskey

"JUST one more pennant and I will be content," said the president of the White Sox. "I'd love to win another pennant and another world series and have the two flags floating over the South Side park in Chicago. Perhaps it will be this year. No one can tell what may develop after my youngsters get into practice. Baseball is like any other business. If you have the material and can develop it, your enterprise is on a sound basis. I have a premonition that my youngsters will develop into ball players of a quality that will strengthen our weak spots. If they do, we'll be headed right for that flag."

FROM a discussion of his present recruits and the major league stars of today, Comiskey drifted into talking about the old timers, and singled out for special praise Fred Pfeffer, who was second baseman for the original Chicago White Stockings in the National League when Commy was manager of the St. Louis Browns in the American Association, the only club except the New York Giants that ever won four big league pennants in succession.

"I believe that Pfeffer was the greatest second baseman that ever put on a pair of baseball shoes," said the White Sox owner. "In those days there were many great players, and Pfeffer stood out on a remarkable team that had Anson at first base, Kelly as catcher, Clarkson as pitcher, Williamson at shortstop and Burns at third base. Pfeffer is the only one of the players I have named who is still living."

JACK SHARKEY'S contract for his fight with Young Stribling at Miami Beach on February 27 provides that if the boxers do not agree upon a referee by next Wednesday the selection of that official shall be left to the Massachusetts State Boxing Commission.

Johnny Brassil

Inside word from the front is that Sharkey and his manager, Johnny Buckley, are going to stand on that contract; that they are playing along with Pa Stribling in repeated arguments over a referee merely for the purpose of ballyhoo and that they mean to see that the selecting is done by the Massachusettes Commission, with the Striblings not having a vote.

WHEN the matter is finally put up to the Massachusetts board, the choice in all probability will be Johnny Brassil, of Boston. It is considered practically certain that the Bay State solons will argue that they must choose a referee whom they know to be capable, thus eliminating outsiders, and that Brassil will then get the appointment. Brassil has been a commission referee in Boston ever since the board was created, and in all that time has never done anything to incur the displeasure of the boxing rulers. And in Boston, when a referee pulls anything wrong, he is laid off for long periods, or perhaps never given another assignment. Brassil also was a referee of amateur shows long before he broke into the professional game. It is said that the Sharkey side may appease Stribling by allowing him to name the alternate referee it is planned to appoint on the chance that the first man chosen should for any reason be unable to serve on the day of the fight.

THE home district will be unusually well represented on the advance guard of the Pittsburgh baseball club that is scheduled to leave this city at 9:30 o'clock tonight for the training grounds at Paso Robles, Cal.

Of the players who will be included in the party headed by Manager Donie Bush and Treasurer Sam Dreyfuss, four reside in or near Pittsburgh, which is more home stuff than the average big league club presents on a battery squad.

FIRST there is a native son in the person of Pitcher Steve Swetonic, of the North Side, and then there is Catcher Johnny O'Connell, a Verona boy. In addition, Pitcher Joe Dawson, who will join the vanguard at Chicago tomorrow morning, is an adopted son, having spent the winter around local aviation fields, and finally Catcher Ralston Hemsley resides in Syracuse, O., and has been employed here for two months.

The only stranger or brand-new acquisition in the group will be Leon Chagnon, a big right-hand pitcher who starred for the Lynn (Mass.) club of the New England League last year, and who comes to the Pirates well recommended.

W. & J.-TECH IN BIG FOUR TILT TONIGHT

By JESS CARVER

There is so dog-gone much doing this week in the college basketball racket that it is extremely difficult to figure just where to start in telling about it all. Big Four and Conference battles abound on the week's schedule. I guess the most evident thing is that Bethany can just about clinch the old Conference championship by winning a couple of its games.

At any rate, Carnegie Tech and Wash-Jeff will start proceeding tonight, hooking up in a Big Four contest at Washington. They'll meet again here Wednesday. Neither has on a Big Four game this year, in fact, the Presidents have yet to break into the win column at all, and Tech's lone victory out of 10 starts was scored at the expense of Ken Loeffler's Geneva Covenanters early in the campaign.

Tech and W. & J. may very well split their two-game series this week. It will be the logical happening. The Presidents figure to win on their own floor tonight and Carnegie can well return and win here Wednesday.

BISONS NEAR TITLE

This Bethany outfit has a fine chance to go places and do things in the Conference. Tomorrow night, the Bisons will be here for a game with the Dukes. They handled the locals very well at Bethany a couple of weeks ago. Last Friday night they took Westminster over. Tonight, with the weak and victoryless Thiel team on their home court, they figure to win another and on Friday, they will catch the Waynesburg Yellow Jackets at home.

The best part of it all for the Bisons is that their two hottest rivals, Geneva and Westminster, will be cutting each other down at New Wilmington Thursday. Two wins for Bethany this week and a victory for Westminster over Geneva and the old flag is about "in" for Nuss. Geneva has to play Bethany at Bethany next week, and inasmuch as the Bisons were able to beat Geneva at Beaver Falls, they figure to repeat at home.

The Panthers play only once this week. Bob Thorn will bring his Grove City team here for a game in the Pavilion Wednesday evening. Unless the Crimson shows better than it has at any time so far, all the boys will get will be the ride.

COLUMBIA AFTER HOLLERAN

Dr. T. V. Holleran, former Pitt quarterback star and more recently head coach of football at Thiel, where with a minimum of material he produced the maximum of results, is in line for a very good coaching job in the effete East.

Dr. Tommy, according to my information, is being sought by Columbia University of New York as backfield coach. Pop Warner was approached by the Columbia authorities with regards to Tommy's ability and one can well imagine the boost the Old Fox gave his favorite quarterback.

Dr. Tom expects to come to a definite arrangement with the New York institution within the next couple weeks.

Pop Warner, Jock Sutherland, Biff Jones, Sam Willaman, Wally Steffen, Bob Waddell, Charley Bowser, Andy Kerr and Elmer Layden had a great fanning bee at the Keystone Athletic Club last week on the day of the Gruber testimonial banquet. Biff and Pop got together on the officials for the Army-Stanford game on the coast next fall. Biff also sought information from Pop and Jock as to how the guards come out of the line so fast on the

RANGERS HAND BUCS 2-1 SETBACK

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—(AP.)—A team of fighting Pittsburgh Pirates gave the New York Rangers, leaders of the American section of the National Hockey League, a serious scare here last night, but the world champions came back in the last period to eke out a 2-to-1 victory.

Two penalties were the principal factors in the Pirates' defeat after Hal Darragh and Hib Milks had put them one goal ahead in the second frame.

One Pittsburgh player was in the penalty box when each of the Ranger goals were scored.

Sparky Vail took a pass from Bill Cook early in the final period to even the count, and Murry Murdoch passed out to Paul Thompson for

BILL M'KECHNIE AGAIN IRONY'S PLAYTHING

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor

A bit of irony that may have escaped some of the guests was injected into the sports writers' dinner to John H. Gruber the other night.

Seated at one of the tables was Bill McKechnie, former manager of the Pirates and Cardinals, both of which clubs he had piloted to National League pennants. The coming season will see Bill back in the minors, managing the Rochester International League club after having led his Cardinals against the Yankees in the most recent world series.

During the course of the evening, Sam Dreyfuss, treasurer of the Pirates, discussed the impending pennant race in the National League and said he figured the fight for the flag lay between the Pirates and Giants, with the Cubs the only other contender.

"Many experts appear to think the Cubs have the inside track," he said, "but my personal opinion is that the Chicago club is overrated."

A little later, Judge Walter P. Steffen, Carnegie Tech football coach, sprang to the defense of the Cubs, saying that, insofar as the Chicago fans are concerned, the Cubs already are "in" as champions.

None of the other speakers touched on the subject. At no time was the name of the Cardinals dragged into the discussion. And yet, there sat McKechnie, a major league outcast, not considered good enough to remain in the big show because his team had failed against the overwhelming forces of the Yankees last fall. Good enough to pull through to a league championship a team not even considered worthy of mention as a contender a year later, but not good enough to work around on the strength of that showing.

What does this so-called great National Pastime ask of its leaders?

None of the remarks uttered at the banquet were more pertinent to the occasion than those of E. S. Barnard, president of the American League, who paid a high tribute to Barney Dreyfuss, guiding spirit of the Pirates and of the National League. Identified for 28 years with the American League, Barnard said his circuit always had held Dreyfuss in such high esteem as one of the greatest men in baseball that it was a stock expression among his colleagues that Dreyfuss should be in the American League. No finer words could be spoken in praise of a contemporary.

Baseball, Barnard said, is just beginning to rally from a period dur-

Big, Brave Gene Soaks Camera Man at Cannes

CANNES, France, Feb. 18.—Gene Tunney, out walking on the promenade here yesterday afternoon with Mrs. Tunney, had an encounter with a French photographer which ended disastrously for the camera man. Gene was highly indignant when the photographer kept insisting on taking pictures of the famous couple during their stroll.

When he refused to heed Tunney's warning and was getting his camera in position for action, the retired world heavyweight champion gave him a wallop which knocked him down. The champion then calmly escorted Polly from the scene.

MEINE, FRENCH NEW PIRATE HOLDOUTS

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

Pirate pitchers and catchers from the Pittsburgh neighborhood and points east today gathered at the Forbes Field home of the club, preparatory to their departure tonight for the California training camp of the Freebooters.

The majority of the advance squad coming here from other cities reached the central scene this morning. Manager Donie Bush came over from his Indianapolis home during the night, all set to take charge of the squad that will be increased at various points on the long journey to Paso Robles.

Donie reported at Pirate headquarters early this morning to learn that two of his young pitchers were holdouts, having returned unsigned contracts. Henry Meine, righthander, and Larry French, southpaw, are the two dissatisfied pitchers, who, with the two Waners, give the Pirates four hurlers.

TWO MORE HOLDOUTS

Meine was purchased from the Kansas City Club of the American Association, while French came from Portland of the Pacific Coast League. Meine is a native of Luxemburg, Mo., while French resides near Paso Robles. The latter may report when the squad reaches camp.

The Pirate officials are showing no concern over the failure of the two rookies to sign. They have obtained waivers on Meine and he may be dropped from the roster.

The vanguard leaving the Pennsylvania Station tonight will show only nine athletes, but newspapermen and others scheduled for the tour will almost double the size of the gang as it departs for Chicago, the first stopover city.

Included among the pitchers reporting here is Leon Chagnon, big righthander of the New England Club of the New England League, who makes his home in Massachusetts; while Roy Mahaffey, who has been connected with the club for two years, arrived from his South Carolina heath. Big Jess Petty was on hand after finishing up his vaudeville tour Saturday night. Steve Swetonic is another pitcher to leave.

Charley Hargreaves, veteran catcher of the team, made the trip to Pittsburgh from his New Jersey home. The other two catchers departing from here are Rolly Hemsley, Syracuse, O., boy, and John O'Connell, of Verona.

BUSH IN CHARGE

The advance squad will be in charge of Manager Bush and Treasurer Sam Dreyfuss. Dr. William L. Marks, of the Carnegie Institute of Technology, who has been connected with the club for some time, again will go along on the springtime jaunt in the interest of the health of the players. George Asten, one of the club's trainers, is ready to jeer with the athletes.

Burleigh Grimes, Joe Traynor, Walter Tauscher and James Stroner, new infielder will hook up with the squad in Chicago tomorrow morning. The third-base recruit thus will have a week's jump on the other infielders and outfielders, this plan being approved by Manager Bush and Owner Dreyfuss. Pilot Donie wishes to study the youngster with a view of correcting early flaws that might develop in his fielding.

Stroner is one of the most sensational graduates of the year. He comes to the Pirates from the Wichita club of the Western League with a remarkable record, especially on the offensive. It is the idea of Bush to groom him for the hot corner in the event of his success at this position. Donie would have Capt. Traynor to play the big hole left by the departure of Spread-Eagle Wright.

Orien Sprout, little righthander, who pitched last year for Columbus, once a Pittsburgh string, will also join the Pirate party in Chicago, as will Ralph Judd, Towson.

Most of tomorrow will be spent in making the long jap to Kansas City, where another stopover will allow an increase to the squad. Coach Jewel Ens and several others will be taken on at the mid-Western city.

CHILLY SAUCE

A sure sign of the coming spring is brought forcibly to anyone who walks into John Cicero's Oakland Barber Shop. If you don't get hit on the head with a line drive before you get to Tony's chair it's a sure indication that you're light on your feet.

Now there is more than one Tony in John's emporium, but there is only one Tony who purchases his entry into Forbes Field every afternoon during the season for the privilege of watching the Pirates, and eating peanuts. Tony goes so far as to lay off on Saturday afternoon, and that action on the part of a barber is the height of loyalty so far as the home team is concerned.

Jim Carroll used to see his people play baseball. When they'd leave one of their outfielders in the field Phil Becker generally leaves them flat with much discussion written over his Italian face.

With an M. D. and two trainers on the ground, the condition of the Bucco for the next campaign should be much better than it was last year, when the club made a terrible start, largely on account of lack of physical fitness. Dr. William L. Marks, of the Carnegie Institute of Technology; Mike Chambers, former trainer of Ohio State University athletic teams, who recently was secured by Dreyfuss and Bush, and George Asten will look after the physical wants of the players.

The [illegible] is a spring institution at Greenfield throughout the season, as often as not, and it is important. Last year the Pirates were [illegible] Pittsburgh's selection of [illegible] hopes.

Carroll gave quite a few of the Freebooters reflex while they sojourned at the Golden Gate. Coast League players run to him like children ex for Castoria. And the Seals win more than their share of pennants in the far-off circuit.

Olympic Boxer Turns Pro to Get Degree

BOSTON, Feb. 18.—(AP)—The desire for a college education has forced young Johnny Daley, of Waltham, a member of the American Olympic boxing team at Amsterdam last summer, to enter the professional ring. Daley will make his first cash bow against Freddie Moore, a Boston featherweight, here tonight in one of the preliminaries to the Flynn-Forgione bout at the Arena.

Wisconsin's Coach Talks Here Tonight

The Duquesne Lafayettes, winners of the Allegheny County League championship for two successive years, will endeavor to make it three in a row tonight when they meet the Goldensons of the South Side in the only league contest on the program. The game is scheduled at Duquesne High School but likely will draw a capacity crowd, as both teams have been rivals for the top position all season.

The Lafayettes at present are showing the way to all rivals as a result of defeating the Goldensons last week. As they have the first half championship of the loop already cowed up another victory over the Goldensons will assure the Duquesne outfit of a possible ending in a tie, which means a playoff series at the close of the season.

TWO GAMES TONIGHT

The Goldensons will make an effort to cop the Monongahela Valley end of the championship race when they meet the Fidelers at Jeannette. It is one of the two games on the loop tonight, the other being at the Mt. Kessport alleys, where the Champs will attempt to take the measure of the Mt. Kessport outfit. Both games are of one-half game importance, the Champs in the fight for first place and a victory for them tonight will enable them to tie the leaders.

LEAGUE GAME OFF

Because of the death of the mother of one of its players, the M. Marian club has postponed its scheduled game with Greenfield Alumni in the Junior League tonight.

REFEREES NAMED

BOSTON, Feb. 18.—The Massachusetts Boxing Commission today announced that it had wired Promoter Jack Dempsey it has selected Johnny Brassil and John Sheehan as referees for the Jack Sharkey-Young Stribling bout at Miami Beach, Fla., next week. Both will be sent there, one in the role of an alternate.

BRAVES BEGIN TODAY

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Feb. 18.—(AP.)—With 10 members of the Boston Braves club on hand, light workouts were scheduled to begin today. President Emil Fuchs and Johnny Evers, assistant manager, are among the arrivals.

SHARKEY MEN ON LOOKOUT FOR FOUL

By SID MERCER.
International News Service.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 18.—In the midst of painting with pride to Jack Sharkey's general condition and powerful boxing form, Johnny Buckley is now viewing with alarm the poor aim of William Lawrence Stribling in his daily batting practice at Hardis's Casino here.

Johnny thinks Stribling is rehearsing an illegal delivery that may cause the battle of Biscayne Bay to break up in a free-for-all fight.

"He better come clean with Sharkey," grimly declares Buckley, "or he will get a taste of his own medicine. Sharkey is not a foul fighter and is down here to win on his merits. He doesn't wrestle and he doesn't hit low. If there is an unsatisfactory outcome to this fight you can bet he won't be to blame. If Stribling opens up and gives Jack a real battle he won't go the limit."

PARTNERS INJURED

Stribling has been experimenting with a long left combination hook and uppercut and already has wounded two of his sparring partners several times by hitting low.

He has developed a habit of laxing back with both arms dangling at his sides, and then leaping in and bringing the left up in an awkward blow. The way he delivers it and it travels a low trajectory. Several times he has not raised it high enough and the result is a belt to the groin.

Working out yesterday at his beach camp Stribling again pumped those low lefts into Tony Fuente and didn't even stop to apologize. That was the third time Tony has been hit below the belt. None were incapacitating blows, but a strict referee easily could call them fouls.

TO ATTACK BODY

Johnny Bell, another sparring partner, has been injured twice in the same way. The Sharkey camp doesn't exactly get the drift of Stribling's punch scattering and is commenting on it with much bitterness.

The only explanation seems to be that Stribling is being coached to perfect a body attack at long range —something entirely foreign to his customary style of moving in close and hitting with one hand. Evidently the impression that Sharkey "cannot take them there" still prevails.

BILL M'KECHNIE IS VICTIM

ing which it has been sadly in need of playing talent. This lean period he attributed to the World War. The war took the minds of the youth of the nation off the playing fields for five years, he said, and robbed the major leagues of approximately the potential stars.

Not only was the lapse felt in the majors, according to the American League president, but the minors were similarly affected. Lacking new talent, they were content to drift along with the discarded veterans from the big tent, and development of young stars was virtually at a standstill. A canvass of the leading minor leagues recently revealed the fact that the average age of the players in these circuits was TWENTY-SEVEN AND ONE-HALF YEARS.

That is something to think about, and it is one of the reasons why the major leagues last year voted $50,000 to finance the American Legion's nation-wide tournament for players between the ages of 14 and 17 years, in which 122,000 boys participated, and have set aside a similar sum for the same purpose this year. Eventually, it is expected that one-half million boys will be playing in this competition annually, and from their ranks will come many of the future stars of the big leagues.

Godfrey to Box At Miami Beach

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—(INS.)—A three-ring boxing circus will be staged in Miami Beach next week if big Gawge Godfrey goes through with his plan to hold exhibition matches there. Somewhat peeved because none of the white heavies would fight him on Havana, the Philadelphia Negro hopes to pick up some change by boxing with three sparring partners in the Florida resort next week in opposition to the Sharkey and Stribling sideshows.

GOLF SHOW OPENS

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—(INS.)—Duffers and professionals alike flocked to Grand Central Palace today for the opening of the six-day session of the international golf show and country club exposition. The interest of the golf lugs was whetted by the balmy weather over the week-end, which lured many to outdoor links.

By TOM BIRKS

That the saying "No amateur soccer team in the country can defeat Heidelberg on a muddy field" has merit was emphasized again yesterday when the former National amateur champions ran roughshod over the Union Switch and Signal eleven in a replay of a National amateur cup tie. Scoring at will, Heidelberg passed into the next round of the tourney by swamping the opposition, 10 goals to 1, at Heidelberg.

It was the great Cleveland Magyar team that made the aforementioned saving two years ago, when the Green and Gold, local champions, swamped the Forest City team on a field duplicated yesterday. And, without a doubt, the saying has much truth, for outside of Morgan, no soccer team has ever defeated Heidelberg on a heavy field.

The game yesterday was a typical Heidelberg field day, where the opposition had to play defensive soccer to stop that Green and Gold tornado swirling through a mud pile. Adapting themselves to conditions, Buff Donnelli, McCosky, and Fred Donnelli played ducks and drakes with the same defense that held them helpless two weeks ago.

Johnny McCosky's head work featured, the clever inside left heading three goals into the net from corner kicks. Buff Donnelli, keeping up his reputation as Western Pennsylvania's leading scorer smashed the ball past Fontela four times, while Fred Donnelli, Alex Kusis, and Chappel each found the net once.

By way of a change, Buff Donnelli missed a penalty kick, the goalkeeper saving the shot.

The second half found Union Switch with only 10 men, Fontela, after being beaten six times in the first half, did not resume in the goal, so Dave Matthews took his place between the sticks. The lineup:

Cubs in Initial Workout at Catalina

AVALON, Santa Catalina Island, Cal., Feb. 18.—(AP.)—The first contingent of the Chicago Cubs baseball club arrived here yesterday. Pitchers and catchers, preparing for the 1929 National League race, dominated the vanguard of the Cubs' early training group.

The party, disembarking amidst music and cheers from native islanders and visitors, numbered 28. Art Nehf, Pat Malone, Charley Root and Grover Land, the new Cub coach, having joined the contingent at Wilmington, Cal.

The initial workout was held at 10 o'clock this morning. The second squad is scheduled to arrive here on February 26. It will be comprised of infielders and outfielders.

Jack Wright Tops Canadian Netmen

TORONTO, Ont., Feb. 18.—(AP.)—Jack Wright, of Montreal, again is ranked at the top of Canadian tennis players.

The 1929 ranking, announced by the Canadian Lawn Tennis Association, places Wright at the No. 1 position; Willard F. Crocker at No. 2; Gilbert Nunns of Toronto, No. 3; and Arthur W. Ham, Toronto, No. 4. Thus the first four ranking players also are members of Canada's Davis Cup team.

Behind this quartet are ranked G. Shields, of Vancouver; W. Martin, Regina and Toronto University; C. W. Leslie, Montreal; W. W. Gyles, Winnipeg; Marcel Rainville, Montreal; and T. O. Ryall, Vancouver.

MAY PLAY ABROAD

TORONTO, Ont., Feb. 18.—Jack Wright and Willard F. Crocker, of Montreal, ranked No. 1 and 2 among Canada's tennis players, may represent the dominion in the Wimbledon championships this year, and perhaps in the French hard court championships.

Ullom May Be Lost To Waynesburg

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Feb. 18.—Frank S. (Pete) Ullom, freshman varsity center on the Waynesburg College basketball team may be lost to the Yellow Jacket quintet for the remainder of the season as a result of foul trouble which kept him out of the Duquesne contest last Friday.

Basketball shoes which Ullom had been wearing rubbed abrasions on both feet and, although he has been kept out of practice sessions for the last few days by Coach Wolf, it is doubtful whether or not he will be able to start against Thiel College here on Tuesday evening.

Willis, Milwaukee Star, Takes Bride

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., Feb. 18.—Charles (Lefty) Willis, of Leetown, Jefferson County, W. Va., former pitching ace with the local Blue Ridge Baseball Club, later a member of the hurling staff of the Philadelphia Athletics and now with the Milwaukee Club of the American Association, was married Tuesday in Philadelphia to Miss Dorothy Parris, of Collingwood, N. COUGARS BEAT LEAFS

DETROIT, Feb. 18.—(AP.)—Two goals of a freak nature brought defeat to the Toronto Maple Leafs in a National League hockey game with the Detroit Cougars here last night. Larrie Aurie, who had been on the Cougar invalid list for several weeks and Bobby Connors, up and coming Cougar center, counted the only goals scored.

Aurie's goal came in the first period on a rebound and Connors' crashed the Leaf defense, carrying the puck into the net with him a minute after the second period started. Eleven penalties were assessed during the game. The lineup:

LABARBA VS. GRIME

MELBOURNE, Australia, Feb. 18.—(AP.)—Fidel La Barba, Los holder of the world flyweight title, has been matched to fight Australian Billy Grime in a 15 round bout March 2.

THREE DISTRICT RING SHOWS TONIGHT

Boxing shows are scheduled for tonight at Washington, New Castle and Oil City in Western Pennsylvania.

Battling Gizzy, of Donora, meets Ray Newton, of Mansfield, O., in the windup at Washington, with Johnny Smackey, of Canonsburg, boxing Joe Ribnicky, of Donora, in the semi-final.

At New Castle, in the Jolly Bowl, the fans will see a pair of middleweights, Dick Evans, of Youngstown, and Henry Firpo, of Louisville, clashing in a more or less grudge affair, and U. S. Carpentier, of New Kensington, battling Billy Wallace, of Youngstown, and Romeo Pacelli, of New Castle, meeting Mickey Dugan, of Cleveland, in the feature preliminaries.

Rudy Ceder, of Tarentum, and Johnny Pial, of Oil City, furnish the main event at Oil City.

BASS VS. STEVE SMITH

Four 10-round bouts are offered at the Arena in Philadelphia tonight. Benny Bass boxes Steve Smith in the main event, and, in the other battles, Tiger Snowden will meet Vincent Guidici, Ritchie King will battle Frankie Hayes and Vince Dundee will engage Billy Angelo.

Other bouts listed tonight include Rene DeVos vs. Bobby Brown and Dan Bilicki vs. Oscar Goodman, New York; Tommy Freeman vs. Joe Simonich, Chicago, and Pittsburgh Division, Pennsylvania Railroad eliminations, at the Wilmerding Y. M. C. A.

Although Johnny Dunn clearly defeated Jackie Rodgers in their 10-round main bout in the Moose Temple last Friday night, Promoter Francis Flynn is contemplating rematching the pair for next week as a result of the storm of criticism of the judges' correct decision. He has Cuddy DeMarco and Rudy Ceder paired in a return bout as his windup next Friday night. Hugh Fetzer, of the North Side, will be one of the principals in the semi-final.

McTIERNAN BOXES SOLMEN

Buck McTiernan, of Swissvale, who showed so much class in stopping Freddie Shaffer, of McKeesport, in the first round at the Moose Temple last Friday night, will have keener competition when he meets Mickey Solmen, of New Castle, in the semi-final to the Willie Davies-Howard Mayberry battle at McKeesport next Thursday night.

His bout with Sammy Mandell, the lightweight champion, at Saginaw, Mich., next Thursday night, having been canceled by Mandell, Tommy Crawley, of the South Side, has signed to meet Eddie Ruttman at Wheeling next Monday night.

Joey LaGrey, former Johnstown welterweight, scored a notable victory Saturday night, when he defeated Tony Vacarelli in a 10-round bout in New York.

BRADDON CASTING CHAMP

ORLANDO, Fla., Feb. 18.—(INS.)—Eddie Braddon, of Cleveland, is the proud possessor of a silver cup, awarded in recognition of his feat in winning the southern states all-round bait and fly casting championship here yesterday.

Boxer Exonerated In Death of Opponent

KEWANEE, Ill., Feb. 18.—(AP.)—A coroner's jury has obsolved Lou Denny, Aurora (Ill.) boxer, from all blame in connection with the death of Eddie Chandler, of Moline, Ill., who died during their ring battle here last Friday night.

The jury decided that while Chandler came to his death as a result of concussion of the brain, it was accidental.

BARBUTI FACES TOUGH RACE TONIGHT

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—(AP.)—Ray Barbuti, Olympic 400-meter champion, makes his first competitive start of the season in the New York A. C. games tonight at Madison Square Garden.

The big sprinter, developed by Tom Keaney, at Syracuse University, is entered in the Buermeyer 500 yards, classic feature of the games.

Possibly the greatest competitive runner of the day, Barbuti will need to be in something approaching his best form to outrun a field that is to include Joe Tierney, of the New York A. C., twice returned a winner in the Buermeyer 500; Jimmy Ball, of Canada, runner-up to Barbuti in the thrilling 400-meter final at Amsterdam; Frank Cuhel, of Iowa, runner-up to David Lord Burghley in the Olympic 400-meter hurdles, and Bernie McCafferty, Holy Cross freshman, who is unbeaten at any distance under 600 yards this season.

REAL RACE EXPECTED

Advance calculations indicate the battle will be between Barbuti, Tierney and McCafferty. Tierney has the most at stake. Victor in the 1924 and 1928 renewals of the race, he can win permanent possession of the trophy by leading home the field. Incidentally, Tierney set the present world record of :55 seconds when he won the trophy the first time.

Fresh from a world record breaking performance at the Metropolitan A. A. U. championships, Percy Williams, the Olympic double sprint winner from Vancouver, B. C., will run in a sprint special at 60 yards against such stars as Karl Widermuh, of Georgetown; Jimmy Quinn, of the New York A. C., who won the event last year; Frank Hussey, Jimmy Daley, Jimmy Pappas and Jack Elder, of Notre Dame.

NURMI IS SPECIAL

Williams clipped one-fifth of a second off the world record for 60 meters at the metropolitan championships, covering the distance in 6 4-5 seconds.

A third feature will be the Baxter mile, in which Leo Lermond, of the Boston A. A., and Willie Gooodwin, of the New York A. C., among others are to start.

Paavo Nurmi, the Finnish star, will run in a special two-mile handicap.

GAME TONIGHT.

Blawnox vs. Shady Side Academy, 7:30.

Duquesne Garden was crowded with about 5,000 enthusiastic hockey fans yesterday afternoon as two West Penn Amateur Hockey League games were staged for their approval.

Philadelphia Company's six advanced to the league-leading position when it blanked the Garden Hornets by 5 goals to 0.

Another whitewashing was handed DeMolay Alumni, which fell before Blawnox, 2 goals to 0.

The Yellow Jackets have forfeited their last three games to Philadelphia Company, Blawnox and DeMolay, so it appears Dinny Manners and his crew stand a fine chance of copping the bunting.

Another Penn loop contest is on the books tonight when Blawnox tackles Shady Side Academy on the same ice. The lineups:

Philadelphia—5.		Hornets—0.
Brooks	G	Inelle
McGovern	D	McCutcheon
D. Manners	D	Campbell
R. Manners	C	T. Coulter
Cooper	W	J. Coulter
McCrimmon	W	Malone

Philadelphia Company spares—Adams, Kilrea, Quinn. Hornet spares—Martin Cohen, Sullivan, Meuseau, Saunders Brown. Referees—MacKay and McCormick. First period scoring—D. Manners (Cooper), 8:35. Penalty—Bushell, tripping. Second period scoring—R. Manners (Kilrea), 3:45; R. Manners (Kilrea), 6:25. Penalties—None. Third period scoring—Kilrea, 7:46; Adams, 14:26. Penalties—Quinn, roughing; T. Coulter, roughing; Cooper, roughing.

Blawnox—2.		DeMolay—0.
Frazier	G	Ross
Ferraro	D	Norton
Schaedle	D	Weitz
Kelly	C	Beebout
Tyson	W	Stanley
Davies	W	Cohen

Blawnox spares—Ake, Bowser, Cohen Schumm, Summers. DeMolay spares—Karn, Whalen, Burke, Briggs, McGregor Ruder. Referee—MacKay. First period scoring—Kelly, 7:46. Penalty—Dayley, tripping. Second period scoring—None. Penalty—Schumm, tripping. Third period scoring—Summers, 3:20. Penalties—Davies, Summers, Ferraro, roughing.

A. A. U. DEMANDS MAY PREVENT W. & J. MEETS

WASHINGTON, Pa., Feb. 18.—A controversy between Washington and Jefferson College athletic authorities and the Amateur Athletic Union, which jeopardizes four swimming events on the W. & J. schedule, has developed through notice served on the college manager by Secretary John T. Taylor, of the Allegheny Mountain division of the "simon pure" body that the Presidents could not engage in competition with the teams of the Pittsburgh Athletic Association and the Downtown Y. M. C. A. of Pittsburgh except under certain conditions.

Recently Graduate Manager W. G. Theurer, of Wash-Jeff, announced meets with the Pittsburgh "Y" in Washington on February 26 and at Pittsburgh on March 12 and with P. A. A. at Pittsburgh on March 30 and in the local pool on April 12. Taylor taking cognizance of the schedule wrote Theurer to the effect that the meets could not proceed unless W. & J. registered and paid its fee with the A. A. U.; that each individual W. & J. contestant register and pay a registration fee and that he must give his personal sanction for the meets.

Theurer has taken the position, after consultation with the Wash-Jeff authorities, that inasmuch as the local institution is affiliated with the National Collegiate Athletic Association and is governed in the determination of the amateur standing of its athletes by the rules of this association, which he claims are as rigid as those of the A. A. U., it is an impossition to be forced to pay out registration fees to the amateur athletic body.

The Wash-Jeff manager in refusing to accede to Taylor's demands followed the lead of Western Conference authorities who "broke" with the A. A. U. following a similar controversy over a swimming meet between Northwestern University and the Chicago A. A. Inasmuch as the Allegheny Mountain Division is merely following out general A. A. U. rules, it is believed that the swim meets with the two Pittsburgh clubs will not go through.

Mention is made here of a move suggested by the Tri-State "Big Four" comprising W. & J., West Virginia, Carnegie Tech and Pitt, to take the same action as the "Big Ten."

W. & J. MEETS TECH TONIGHT

Pitt reverse plays, and on the best way to stop 'em.

I hesitate to tell you the answers he received.

FROTH

The A. M. A. swimming meet Saturday afternoon was a success. . . . Not one spectator escaped without being thoroughly soaked. . . . With water, of course. . . . Pete Bowen set two records at Pitt last week. . . . Bought all his books for the second semester and attended all his classes all week. . . . Alex Fox, Able Parkinson, Jess Crissinger and Toby Unsa paid their respects to self and wife at Pittstate game. . . . Now I'm in another jam. . . . Among those nursing headaches over the week-end. . . . Razz Quailey, Dex Yerry, Heinie Boll, Murphy Fishman, Joe Weaver. . . . Carl Shatto, Johnny J. Freund. . . . Dutch Hermann, Ted Weir, Johnny Kilgore. . . . All the rest of the boys at the 466 reception. . . . Yours Truly has been in a fog for a week. . . . Speaking of Able Fox, he got a fine break last week. . . . His girl got sick in time to miss the Junior Prom. . . . A tenner saved is a tenner earned.

Chicago Booters Beat St. Louis, 3-1

CHICAGO, Feb. 18.—(AP.)—The Chicago Bricklayers advanced to the third round of the National Soccer cup competition by defeating the St. Louis Tablers, 3 to 1.

St. Louis protested the game, however, because the referee chased its star center, Jim McCarthy, from the field in the second period when the player disputed a decision, which the St. Louis team regarded as unjust.

McHenry scored St. Louis' goal, while Quinn, Walker and Coutts tallied for Chicago.

Johnny Beckman Goes to Cleveland

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Feb. 18.—Tired and worn from strenuous basketball activity of 22 successive seasons, Johnny Beckman will hit the trail again today to join the Cleveland club of the American Basketball League. Johnny's sale by the Rochester team has been announced by Johnny Murphy, owner of the Centrals, but Murphy did not announce the terms, other than that Cleveland had been the high bidder for the former Celtic's services.

Sports Comment

By JAMES J. LONG

among the foremost prospects in the blue ribbon event of the American turf. For some time it was figured that Marshall Field's High Strung, winner of the Futurity Stakes at Belmont Park and Pimlico last fall, would be first choice in the 1929 running of the Kentucky Derby, scheduled for May 18 at Churchill Downs, but now such prominent turf operators as Emil Herz and Tom Shaw announce that they will install as favorite in their winter books, at odds of probably 6 to 1, E. R. Bradley's crack colt, Blue Larkspur. They expect to quote odds of 10 to 1 against High Strung, 15 to 1 against Roguish Eye and Twinh, and longer prices against Chestnut Oak, Neddie, Dr. Freeland and Clyde Van Dusen. It is said that Herz and Shaw were influenced by Bradley's recent offer to bet $25,000 at even money on Larkspur to beat any other Derby starter, with the provision that both face the barrier and one or the other finish fourth or better. Bradley's offer, incidentally, has not yet been covered.

RADIO VERITABLE ALADDIN'S LAMP FOR FANS TONIGHT

PROGRAMS TO COVER WIDE RANGE OF ENTERTAINMENT

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor.

ALADDIN was a pretty smart fellow with his magic lamp, but he had nothing on listeners of tonight, who may transport themselves into any environment merely by twisting a few dials.

If ever the "Arabian Nights" were to live again, tonight is the night.

It's no myth when we tell you that jazz, comedy, classical, bands, speakers—all above par—are yours for the patience of tuning in.

The boom-boom of the brass band—probably inherited from circus days—has lived with us always and it is probably for this reason that we pick the Conway Band, WCAE at 9:30, as the best thing on the air.

Oh, boy, we can see the Twenty-eighth and the Eightieth marching down Fifth avenue with that opening number—"Stars and Stripes Forever." Many a fan will smile with delight when he hears how his loudspeaker takes the bass notes of the combined band and marimba orchestra under the direction of Pat Conway himself.

Then a tango, "Cigarette," and the "Parade of the Wooden Soldiers," both by Joe Green's Marimba Orchestra. What could be more appropriate for a closing number than Elgar's "Pomp and Circumstance No. 1?"

HERBERT TUNES ON KDKA

KDKA is right in there at 8:30 with a Victor Herbert medley; at 9 with the second Edison program, featuring favorite songs of Charles Evans Hughes; and 9:30 with the Old Fiddlers' contest at Tompkins Corners.

There is not a chance for a breathing spell at WJAS, but the best bets to us appear to be Henry Burbig's burlesque on Kipling's "Boots" at 8:30, Grace LaRue, actress, at 9:30 and a new feature, "Panatella Pageant" at 10 o'clock.

We have written quite a bit and yet failed to mention one of the very best things—the Davis Jubilee from WCAE at 11 p. m., offering Art Landry and his orchestra; Cullen Landis, the movie star; Ann Codee, French comedienne, and Lottice Howell, late of the "My Maryland" Company.

A picture of romantic Spain will be conjured by Franklyn Baur, tenor, when he sings "La Paloma" through WCAE at 8 o'clock. He will also do "Song of Love" and "At Dawning." Lovers of the classics will have their taste gratified by the orchestra's rendition of Chopin's "Polonaise in A Major."

OUT-OF-TOWN

Here are a few of the good things from stations outside Pittsburgh:

WBAL will broadcast a concert by the combined musical clubs of Johns Hopkins University at 7 p. m.

"Is the Republic Safe in Germany?" is the title of a 7:30 o'clock talk by James G. McDonald over WEAF.

KOA will offer the Second U. S. Engineers Band, 8 p. m.

An attempt will be made to broadcast the Northwestern-Wisconsin basketball game by WTMJ, 8:30 o'clock.

A Philharmonic Symphony will entertain at 9 from CFCA and the Fireside Hour at WIP at the same time will offer Russian Melodies.

Last, but far from least, that excellent Variety program of three hours duration from WENR, beginning at midnight.

Bridgeman, Ex-Chief Of British Navy, Dies

NASSAU, Bahama, Feb. 18.—(AP.)—Admiral Sir Francis Bridgeman, 81, vice admiral of the United Kingdom and former first sea lord of the admiralty, died here last night.

The admiral, who had spent many of his winters here, was seated in the hotel lounge and was listening to the orchestra play a number he had requested when he was stricken.

Doctor, 99, Dies Denying He Stole Horse

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Feb. 18.—(AP.)—Dr. Edwin Pye Turner Osbaldeston, 99-year-old veteran of the Crimean War, who became front page news three years ago when a gray-bearded deputy sheriff arrested him on a half-century-old charge of horse stealing, was found a suicide today.

The old physician was found lying on the floor of his two-room shack by a patrolman. A revolver was in his hand and bullet wounds were found through his neck and side.

To the day of his death the doctor stoutly denied he ever had committed an act of wrongdoing, and held that a half-brother, who bore the same name and a striking resemblance to him, was the "Edwin Turner" who appeared on the records as the horse thief and jail breaker in Binghamton, N. Y., in 1880.

RACKET PROBE TO RESUME

More indictments in the county drive against racketeering were expected to be returned by the grand jury which convenes today for the February term of court.

These indictments, with the principal chapter involving lottery heads, will be leftovers from the investigation carried on by District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner in the closing months of the last year. Witnesses who testified before the special grand jury in that investigation have been recalled to appear before the February body.

Gardner announced he would ask true bills against three men in the inquiry into sale of liquor privileges on the North Side, and against two for similar operations on the South Side.

EVENING SUN-TELEGRAPH MARKETS

Why Reserve Board Should Now Pause, Waiting Events.

By B. C. FORBES

A BATTLE royal having broken out among the highest financial powers in the land, nervousness and fainting security markets are legion. Unless financial statesmanship prevails, not only all classes of securities but all classes of people, including wage earners, may suffer.

The predominant aim should be to avoid such a catastrophe.

THE facts appear to be that the Federal Reserve Board, smarting under the blows dealt its prestige last year by powerful speculators, is determined to put an emphatic stop to the latters' ongo-ings, regardless of whatever consequence a collapse in stock quotations might bring.

But the veteran head of the Treasury Department, accustomed to taking a long and broad view of things, apparently is opposing more drastic measures than those already taken. That the Federal reserve rediscount rates were not raised last week doubtless was due mainly to Secretary Mellon.

What, exactly, is the position at this moment?

THE Federal Reserve Board has succeeded in obtaining wholehearted indorsement of its course by the Federal advisory council, a representative body composed of one leading banker from each of the 12 Federal reserve districts. Indeed, the council has taken the further step of urging that "all the member banks in each district be asked directly by the Federal Reserve Bank of the district to co-operate in order to attain the end desired," namely, prevention of "the diversion of Federal reserve funds for the purchase of carrying loans based on securities."

Were this recommendation sweepingly followed, the effect upon stock speculation would be infinitely greater than any ordinary increase in the rediscount rate.

Such increase proved futile last year. But if banks all over the country were to throw out loans based on securities, there is no telling what would happen—except that, unless the banks exercised "the rule of reason" (made famous by the Supreme Court) trouble, probably of unimagined severity, would be precipitated.

THE writer suggested a week ago that the New York Federal Reserve Bank directors delay raising the rediscount rate until the effect of the reserve board's admonition could be measured.

I again urge a similar course.

Why?

Briefly, because the stock market is already going down at a pace which should satisfy even those of us who clearly foresaw the dangers courted by the speculative mania and warned the unwary to beware of them.

SINCE Monday the market has declined on each business day. On Friday the industrial list, which has been most flagrantly overboomed, fell back more than five points. On Saturday something resembling demoralization broke out and the week closed extremely nervous, with the average price for industrials down more than $25 from the peak reached at the beginning of the month.

Meanwhile, money rates have gone strongly against the stock market. Call money shot up to 10 per cent at the week end; time loans cost 7¾ per cent; bankers' acceptance rates rose to 5¼ for the shortest and to 5⅛ for the longest maturities, charges not equaled since the troublesome days of 1920, and, of course, distinctly above the current 5 per cent official rediscount rate in New York. Moreover, the reserve system has been throwing securities on the market from its portfolios.

UNDER all these circumstances, why be in feverish haste to take further action? Why not watch and wait to see if further restrictive measures prove necessary?

It hardly seems probable that the manipulators will prove able to restore rampant bullishness and to force stocks to still higher and higher heights. If, unexpectedly, they should contrive to do so by finding borrowable funds outside of banking jurisdiction, the reserve board could again address itself vigorously to the situation and institute corrective measures.

There is one other important additional reason why the Federal reserve authorities should act circumspectly and not lay itself legitimately open to the charge that it precipitated needless alarm and losses. Political and public sentiment throughout many parts of the country is none too friendly to the whole reserve banking system, and should, unhappily, conditions be caused in the stock market which led to business depression and unemployment, harmful legislation would be demanded. It is extremely important that this be avoided.

WHILE these stock market squalls and these squabbles are raging, it is gratifying to reflect that industry and business are doing well. Improvement is the rule rather than the exception in both our domestic and our foreign trade, notwithstanding that we are in the midst of the winter season. Employment and wages also are distinctly better than normal.

EVENING SUN-TELEGRAPH MARKETS

Stocks Get Support — Local List Narrow

STOCK MARKET GIVEN STRONG SUPPORT

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—(AP.)—Strong buying support came into the stock market over the week-end, giving opening prices today a firm undertone. International Combustion opened 2½ points higher, American Smelting 2 and Wright Aeronautical, Westinghouse Electric and Warner Bros. Pictures showed initial gains of a point or more. General Railway Signal opened a point lower.

Last week's drastic shakeup apparently had strengthened the technical position of the market which had been weakened by the wild speculation in many of the high-priced specialties, coppers and public utilities. The demand for stocks in the "loan crowd" also indicated the presence of a large short interest. While there was still considerable difference of opinion as to the future course of the market, several of the week-end commission house advices suggested that the market was entitled to a little breathing spell after the heavy liquidation of last week.

Radio quickly ran up 7 points and United Electric Coal, which broke 20¼ points last week, snapped back 5. Recoveries of 2 to 5 points also took place in Johns Manville, International Telephone, U. S. Steel Common, American & Foreign Power, A. H. Byers and Allied Chemical. Several others, including Montgomery-Ward, Sears Roebuck, Anaconda and Columbia Graphophone, rallied a point or more in the early outburst of buying.

Foreign exchanges opened steady, with Sterling cables 1-16 of a cent higher at $4.85 11-32.

The call money renewal rate of 8 per cent was received with mixed effect on prices and a marked falling off in business. Some issues lost all their early gains on realizing, notably Johns Manville, which was up 4½ points. Other shares continued to rise spiritedly, particularly the coppers and public utilities. A few high priced stocks took a sharp drop. Case Threshing Machine yielded 15 points and Peoples Gas and Jewel Tea, 5.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—Cotton opened steady today at an advance of 2 to 6 points. Active months soon showed net gains of 4 to 9 points on covering, which was believed to be combined with a little trade buying and seems resulting by recent events.

May sold up to 20.13c and the new October contract to 19.37c. Demand was promoted by relatively steady cables and reports that sales of cotton goods in some houses last week had exceeded production. The advance met a little southern selling and realizing, however, and prices were 4 points or two off from the best at the end of the first half hour. Trading was quiet at the start but became moderately active after the call.

Liverpool cables reported trade calling as confined to liquidation in a quiet market and said that business in cotton cloths and yarns was limited, with spinners and manufacturers buying sparingly.

The early advance was checked by realizing. The market was rather irregular later in the morning with considerable March liquidation in evidence. This sent the price off to 19.99, or 3 points net lower and about 9 points under May, which held 2 points above Saturday's closing.

General business was quiet. The market was fairly steady at midday, with active months about net unchanged to 3 points higher.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—(AP.)—Stocks fluctuated in extremely nervous fashion on the curb market today, with Goldman Sachs Trading again in the limelight, dropping about 30 points to 196½ in the initial sales, but rallying above 200 later.

The uncertainty pervading the credit outlook still kept the market unsettled. Call money renewed at 8 per cent, but sagged to 7½, which steadied sentiment slightly. Time money displayed a firmer undertone. The meeting of the New York Federal Reserve Bank's executive committee this afternoon caused some apprehension.

The utilities followed divergent courses. American Light and Traction advanced more than 4 points, while American Super Power "B" dropped about 6. Electric Bond and Share shot up at the opening, but soon reacted.

Deere, which dropped 40 points on Saturday, rallied 30 points today. Newton Steel moved up 2 points. Motors were irregular, Ford of Canada mounting 8 points, Auburn losing 2. Fox Theaters "A" was a weak spot, recording a new low for the movement at 28.

Oils were quiet but also irregular. International Petroleum, Standard of Indiana, and Cities Service eased, while Imperial, Reiter Foster, and Missouri Kansas Pipe Line attracted fair support in the mines, Noranada was heavy.

Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded (00 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list:)

RESERVE BOARD PUTS CHECK ON LOANS

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

THE Federal Reserve Board's warnings showed definite signs of taking effect last week. It is still too soon to tell, however, whether the calling of loans was a temporary scare or whether it will be followed by further reductions in speculative credit.

THE reduction of $101,000,000 during the week in loans on stocks and bonds to brokers and dealers by Federal Reserve member banks in New York City barely scratched the surface. The total loans of $5,568,000,000 on February 13 were exceeded only by the amount a week before.

THE probability of a further cut in the next statement was indicated by the calling of $60,000,000 in loans on Friday and the rapid advance in call money from an opening rate of 6½ per cent to a high of 20 per cent late in the afternoon.

OUT-OF-TOWN banks seem to have paid the greatest attention to the warning. Their loans were reduced $72,000,000 compared with only $19,000,000 for the New York banks and $9,000,000 from non-banking sources.

WIDE GAIN IN LOANS

NO one knows exactly what the Federal Reserve Board would consider a satisfactory level for brokers' loans. It has, however, been attempting to stop the increase of speculation for over a year. The extent of the increase in credit extended to the stock market can be seen by comparing the loans of a year ago of $3,813,000,000 with the last total of $5,568,000,000.

THIS rapid rate of increase has been merely keeping pace with the higher prices of stocks. The Cleveland Trust Company points to the fact that brokers' loans have remained within 10 per cent of the value of all listed stocks for the last three years.

THE fact that the rediscount rate was not raised last week was not particularly surprising. Such a step has proved futile as a brake to growing speculation in the past. In addition to this, the Federal Reserve Board is understood to have been co-operating with the Bank of England in stopping the movement of gold to this country. An increase in the rediscount rate here would have tended to nullify the effects of the recent advance in the rediscount rate there which raised the English rate from 4½ to 5½ per cent or ¾ per cent more than in New York.

RATE RAISE FUTILE

AN increase in the rediscount rate would also have penalized the same people the Board is trying to help by its present policy. It would have further increased the cost of money for commercial purposes while not necessarily stopping the flow of credit to speculation.

SOME of the balance sheets of leading corporations published in the last few weeks offer an interesting study from the standpoint of the rapid increase in the brokers' loans reported made "for others."

THE statements very frequently show that large amounts of surplus cash are being loaned on call by firms which never were known to engage in operations of this type in the past. But the most surprising disclosure has been the fact that some companies appear to have been borrowing money at the same time that they are loaning money on call. They have been taking advantage of the spread that has been existing between the interest rate on commercial loans and that obtainable from brokers.

Ship Races Against Ice to Byrd Base

WELLINGTON, New Zealand, Feb. 18.—(AP)—The steamer Elsner Bolling, supply ship of the Byrd Antarctic expedition, left Dunedin today on her third trip to the Bay of Whales, where the Byrd base, "Little America," is located.

The ship made full speed out of the harbor with its last load of equipment in order to avoid being imprisoned in the ice with the approach of the Antarctic winter before it should reach Commander Byrd and his men.

Heavy weather was experienced in the trip which brought the Elsner Bolling to Dunedin.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—(AP.)—Trading in the early bond market today was practically at a standstill, following last week's reactions. The general tone was firm, but some weakness cropped out in scattered sections of the list. Traders seemed to be marking time until there is a clearing in the credit situation.

Anaconda Copper issues resumed their leadership of the market. The 7s advanced 1¾ points, while the 6s rallied firm at Saturday's closing level. Dodge Bros. 6s and International Match 5s yielded to selling pressure.

Utilities were firm. International Telephone convertible 4½s improving fractionally on a fairly active demand.

Oils were steady at Saturday's closing prices.

Guyana Republic 7s were active and higher in the improved foreign list.

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—(AP.)—Transactions in the most active bonds on the New York Stock Exchange today were as follows, 000 omitted in sales column (United States bonds in dollars and thirty-seconds of dollars.):

"STARTLING ABUSES" HIT IN MARRIAGE LAW SURVEY

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—(AP.)—Nine recommendations designed to correct what were termed "startling abuses" of marriage laws and practices have been made by the Russell Sage Foundation.

Statement by the foundation said that while the recommendations do not refer to divorce, the adoption of the steps would "avoid many of the tragic results which courts of domestic relations and divorce courts record."

In urging proper enforcement of the present statutes and closer scrutiny of the candidates for marriage, the foundation recommended the establishment of a marriage supervision bureau; a five-day notice of intention to marry before the license is issued; that the candidate obtain the license where the woman lives, and abolition of the fee system for payment of persons who issue licenses.

The foundation also urged that states now permitting girls of 12 to marry with their parents' consent, raise the minimum age to 16. The abandonment of publicity as a means of establishing qualifications to marry was recommended with the suggestion that proof be obtained by testimony of reliable witnesses.

Complete records of marriages and better civil solemnization by requiring commissioned justices, limited in number, to turn marriage fees over to the city or county, was believed advisable, the foundation report said, together with the establishment of marriage chapels or courts to avoid "unseemly competition near license offices."

The clergy were asked to "develop the standards for religious solemnization through their ministerial associations and as individuals and through instruction in theological seminaries."

Taylor Works 2 Yrs. On Opera, Discards It

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—(AP.)—Deems Taylor has discarded the theme of his much discussed second American opera on which he has been working for two years and is starting with an entirely new theme, according to the New York Times. The first opera, "The King's Henchman," started its third season at the Metropolitan Opera House Saturday.

Mr. Taylor is quoted as saying he had quit the work because "I got stuck with too much thought. You can't have too much thought in an opera. It goes by emotion."

Tunneys to Revisit Scene of Marriage

ROME, Feb. 18.—(AP.)—Mr. and Mrs. Gene Tunney are returning to Rome from the Riviera for a week's stay at the Hotel Russie, where they were married last October. They have been at Cannes, France, to escape the cold wave. They were preceded here today by Dr. John Oliver Lagorce, author and editor, of Scranton, Pa., and Mrs. Lagorce, with whom they spent some time at Cannes.

Sargent Refuses Parole for Kirby

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—(INS.)—The recommendation of the Atlanta Prison Parole Board that Josiah Kirby, of Cleveland, convicted of using the mails to defraud and conspiracy to influence jurors, be paroled, was disapproved by Attorney General Sargent today. Kirby was sentenced to seven and one-half years and fined $9,000 in 1926.

BORROW FROM "HOUSEHOLD" SAVE Almost One-Third

Loans $10 to $300

This old established organization by reason of large volume efficient management and ample capital is now making a substantial reduction in the cost of loans up to $300 by lowering the interest rate from the lawful maximum of 3½ per cent a month on unpaid principal balance to 2½ per cent.

FOR EXAMPLE ON LOANS Payable in 20 Equal Monthly Payments. You Save as Follows:

$ 50 Loan—You Save $ 5.25
100 Loan—You Save 10.50
200 Loan—You Save 21.00
300 Loan—You Save 31.50

THE SAME PROPORTIONATE SAVING ON OTHER AMOUNTS.

Loans may be paid in full at any time and you will only be charged for the actual time you keep the money. You get the full amount in cash—no deductions of any kind. We do not notify your employer; neither do we make inquiry of your friends, relatives nor tradespeople. If it is not convenient to call personally phone Atlantic 1198 or Atlantic 0535 and we will send a representative to your home.

NO INDORSERS—NO PUBLICITY. QUICK SERVICE.

DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC SAFETY.
Pittsburgh, Pa., February 16, 1929.

SEPARATE AND SEALED PROPOSALS will be received at the office of the City Controller, First floor, City County Building, until 10 o'clock A. M., March 1, 1929, and will be publicly opened and read one-half hour later in the City Council Chamber, for

The construction and erection of a building for No. 53 Engine House at Damas and Homer streets, N. S., Pittsburgh, Pa.

Including separate proposals for the Plumbing, Heating and Electric work.

Specifications, plans and blank proposals can be obtained at the City Architect's Office, North Side Municipal Building, Ohio and Federal streets. Contractors will be required to leave a deposit of $2 for each set of plans and specifications, which money will be refunded upon the return of same to the City Architect's office.

Each proposal must be accompanied by a bond in the sum of 50 per cent of the estimated cost of the work, with two sureties, freeholders in Allegheny County, executed by the City Clerk, or the bond of such surety company which has complied with the City Ordinance with reference to furnishing bonds for contracts. Bidders attention is directed to a provision of the contract requiring a separate bond indemnifying labor and material liability which shall be given by the successful bidder when contract is executed.

The Mayor and the Director of the Department of Public Safety reserve the right to reject any or all bids submitted or accept any proposal if they deem it to be for the interest of the City of Pittsburgh.

CHARLES H. KLINE, Mayor,
James M. Clark, Director.

WASHINGTON—Mister Frisby swung into the home stretch of his non-stop walking expedition today behind a spirited horse. He negotiated the loan of a carriage for his triumphant finish. Frisby promised to tap dance continuously on the dashboard. The Congressman seems remarkably well-preserved. He suffers occasional lapses of memory, sometimes saying he has walked two weeks, day and night. Other times he insists he started two months ago. The Congressional Record has agreed to compromise and split the difference—thus establishing five weeks as the official time.

Defense of Jury System Points to Its Merit

Judge Frank P. Patterson, in telling 200 jurors, being discharged after two weeks' duty, that the jury system is essential to the functioning of our courts, said, in the language of the day, "a mouthful."

Judge Patterson's defense of the jury system is timely in view of the growing belief that trial by a jury is a joke. Very often it is, but, as the speaker pointed out, the failures of the system, compared to the proper outcome of jury trials as a whole, are negligible.

We should not look lightly upon one of our safeguards against tyranny. We should remember that the jury is a safeguard wrested from tyrants after ages of struggle against oppression under systems that made lives and liberties of the people matters of caprice of kings and the judges whom they controlled.

The jury system, as Judge Patterson said, is essential. But it needs to be guarded against corruption. If a jury has been corrupted abuses that prevailed under tyrants are in effect. One way to guard against that is to keep corruptible persons off juries, which is not always possible. A way to offset that evil is for upright people who are called for jury service to serve willingly and not seek to be excused.

Campaign for Church Attendance Is Worthy

It ought to be easy for Christian men and women to enter into the spirit of the "Go-to-Church Campaign," begun yesterday by 36 churches of 13 denominations in the East End.

Most of us are of some faith, Judaistic or Christian, and are ready to defend our belief in words that frequently are contrary to our practice. Faith involves more than the mere testimony that is implied in membership in a religious organization. It calls for worship and sacrifice. If special effort be necessary to enable us to attend a service of worship on Sunday few of us, perhaps, would dignify that effort by terming it a sacrifice, but the Divinity to which we humbly bow has His own way of looking at things.

So it ought to be easy for Christian men and women attending the 36 churches to resolve to go to at least one service on 11 successive Sundays unless reasonably prevented, which is the object of the campaign.

Faith predicates a duty that is not wholly fulfilled unless we go to church on Sunday.

Gratification of United States Is Voiced After Portes Gil's Escape

In felicitating President Portes Gil and Gen. Joaquin Amaro, his brave and loyal Minister of War, upon their fortunate escape when their train was wrecked recently by a bomb near Escobedo, the government and people of Mexico may rest assured that President Coolidge and Ambassador Morrow voiced the profound gratification of the government and people of the United States.

This country was shocked last July by the assassination of Gen. Alvaro Obregon, who had a short time before been elected President of the Mexican republic. He was sitting at a banquet in his honor—a defenseless one-armed man, when a poor, misguided fanatic, pretending to show the general a drawing of himself, shot the President-elect dead with seven bullets fired at close range.

In the wake of that crime, first under the leadership of President Calles and latterly under the leadership of President Portes Gil, the people of Mexico let the law take its course. They have shown a patience, a self-restraint, and a power of moderation that have deeply impressed not only their next-door neighbors on this side of the Rio Grande, but the people of the whole civilized world.

Gen. Obregon's murderer was not taken out and shot without his day in court. On the contrary he was given a trial. He was provided with counsel to defend him. He was subjected to an examination by experts to determine his sanity. He was allowed to appeal to the supreme tribunal of his country. And in his last hours he was permitted to receive the ministrations of his spiritual advisers. This obedience to the law augurs well for the future of Mexico.

It is fortunate alike for Mexico and for the whole family of free nations that the recent attempt upon the lives of President Portes Gil and Gen. Amaro has failed. And their government is protecting government everywhere in sparing no effort to apprehend and punish those responsible for that outrage. For the crime of assassination, instead of solving any problem that fronts Mexico today, can only aggravate her problems and make their solution more difficult.

Not only is President Portes Gil keenly aware of this fact, but he appears to be also deeply sensible of his obligation in these trying times, to Mexico and to orderly government there and elsewhere. He is not the man to be deterred from discharging that obligation even by an attempt upon his life.

And the example of personal bravery and calmness in the face of danger, given by Mexico's President, and his firm resolve to go forward with his program of preparation for the coming election of his successor for the six-year term, ought to be highly reassuring to the Mexican people as well as to their neighbors and their friends throughout this hemisphere.

Under President Portes Gil Mexico is making good progress toward the solution of her problems. Mexico can be certain that the United States looks forward with sympathy and hopefulness toward the continuance of that progress. For these two sovereign nations, living side by side, have too many aspirations in common for either people to be indifferent to the welfare of the other.

Tales That Are Told

A Poor Shot

THE village hadn't even a cinema, and when a fifth-rate theatrical company came there it was an event. Tonight they were playing "The Madness of Mabel Mudgard," but the intervals were long and the audience was impatient.

To keep them quiet a versatile member of the cast, who had been on the music halls, undertook to do a knife-throwing turn.

He threw knife after knife, slowly but surely pinning his pretty assistant between two rows of gleaming blades. Sometimes the knives missed her by only a hair's breadth.

The audience watched the exhibition in stolid silence for some time. Then a disgusted voice at the back of the hall remarked, audibly:

"Bill, let's clear out. The old fool's missed 'er again."

So Simple!

SHE had only been married a month when her friend called to see how she was getting on.

"We're getting on splendidly," exclaimed the young wife, with enthusiasm. "We have a joint account at the bank; it's such fun to pay bills by check."

"What do you mean by joint account?" asked the visitor. "Do you put in equal sums?"

"Oh, I don't put in anything," was the explanation. "Percy puts it in, and I draw it out."

Distant Relations

IT was dinner-time at the boarding-house.

"Well," said the brainy-looking boarder to his neighbor, "we have at this meal the representatives of two widely-separated generations."

"How's that?" asked the other.

"Why, the hen we have been trying to eat was in all probability the great-great-grandmother of this omelete!"

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS

I RECKON kids don't often get critical at Sunday school, but when they do they sometimes upset a lot of plans. They have such a queer habit of asking the kind of questions that there ain't any sensible answer to.

So a Sunday school teacher was telling the children about a little lamb that was mean and wouldn't mind his ma. When his ma told him to stay right there in the corner the rest of the night, what does the dumb little lamb do but go out to have a look at the stars, and gets eat up by a bear.

"Now, the lamb was eaten by a bear because he wouldn't mind his ma, you see," says the teacher. "But if he had been a good little lamb and did as he was told, what then?"

"He would have been eat by people," says Bobby. And was Bobby dumb?

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

IT is a rainy day, and I have a toothache, and my corn hurts, and the furnace is busted, and my Boy Friend has gone away, and I owe a lot of bills, and on top of that I've just had a call from one of those doggoned Optimists—

A Professional Beamer who will not admit that any apple has worms.

Each problem that was mentioned got the glad hand and the glowing gullet from that boy.

In vain did I try to drag in my glooms—

He wouldn't have 'em — he gloamed 'em away.

Everything was for the best, he assured me, patting my peevish shoulder with a large, moist paw.

Every cloud was silver lined—

I should count my blessings—

To-roo-lee and to-roo-la!

So, for an hour, he sunshined all over the place.

And now I'm supposed to be all pepped up—a Regular Glad Girl.

Well, I'm NOT!

I'm so mad I could go right out and bite a floor-walker — than which I can imagine no greater sign of dementia.

If there's anything that rouses the demon in me it's one of these Little Sunbeams who won't let me gloom while the glooming is good.

Generally speaking, I have a fairish disposition and take things as they come without putting up too much of a yell. But I do NOT believe in being glad all the time, nor do I believe that this world is just chuck full of things to be glad for.

I do NOT believe that every cloud has a silver lining nor that everything is for the best.

I think that a great many things are decidedly for the worst and that it behooves every intelligent citizen to know about them and do his darndest to right matters.

I refuse to admit that this is the best of all possible worlds. I think that human beings and their institutions are gummed up with a lot of stupidity, intolerance, cowardice, selfishness, greed, malice and cruelty, and I don't believe in sitting down and putting wreaths on our brows and pretending we aren't. Rather I believe in broadcasting the bad news until we're so sick of hearing it, and so ashamed of ourselves that we snap out of it.

Glad all the time?

Anyone who can be glad all the time in the face of this world's misery has the psychology of a marshmallow.

Not that I advocate giving away gobs of grief every time we think of life—though even a good, noisy griever is preferable to a Little Ray of Sunshine.

But snappy action—that's the stuff!

LOOK AT THINGS AS THEY ARE AND DON'T TRY TO KISS THEM OFF OR PASS THE BUCK. Be a man! Assume your share of the responsibility. Roll up your sleeves, spit on the good old whams and GET MAD!

GET SO MAD YOU DO SOMETHING.

That's my philosophy. And I hereby issue it as a grim warning to anyone who's counting on making me and my office glad!

WE ARE WAVES

By Garrett P. Serviss

PROF. SHELDON, of New York University, has not put the up-to-date guess of science concerning the ultimate nature of all things too strongly in saying, as he recently did in a lecture, that the further we delve into the structure of matter the more obvious it becomes that nothing exists except in wave form. "Electrons, long thought to be the ultimate particles of which all matter was formed, have now been shown rather conclusively to have a reality only as a wave form, and an atom consists of a bundle of such waves."

Goodby, then, to that beautiful picture, which, until a little while ago, was drawn in innumerable discourses, treatises and books of science, of the "planetary atom," consisting of a restraining nucleus like a central sun, with obedient, though somewhat capricious electrons revolving around it in orbits like planets, yet unlike planets, jumping from orbit to orbit, and starting a wave of light with every leap. Instead we are shown the atom as composed of a "bundle" of electrons in the shape of waves. This does not please the imagination as much as the fancied electron-planets did for one can hardly make a good picture of it, but doubtless it is an advance toward the real truth.

Thus the triumph of the atomic over the undulatory theory appears as rather a Pyrrhic victory. The "quanta" that were supposed to be "bullets of energy" discharged with machine-gun copiousness from light-giving bodies, have got entangled somehow with wave motions of some kind, in something, and a reconstruction of theories looms ahead. The "vast emptiness" of the atom seems to be pretty well filled after all. This is the affair of "pure science," and the gayety of nations need not be disturbed by it.

But although he may not altogether comprehend it, the ordinary human cannot but feel a thrilling interest in the announcement that science now regards him, or is on the point of regarding him, as nothing but a wave or a "bundle" of waves.

As Prof. Sheldon put it:

"We as individuals undoubtedly have no existence in reality other than as waves—multitudinous and complicated knots, perhaps, in what we call the ether. We are analogous in a sense to the sounds which issue from a grand piano when a chord is struck, or when a symphony orchestra plays."

Surely, the poetry of science!

Another feature of this wave theory of humanity of more practical interest is thus stated: "The effect of outside radiations on us is just beginning to be understood. Ultra-violet light is coming rapidly into therapeutic use; X-rays can produce mutation of species; radium is used to control cancer. May we not look forward to the increasing use of radiation in medical treatment when we find that we ourselves are wave phenomena?"

These things, as I have said, are up-to-date, but at bottom, the conceptions on which they rest are not new. They are very old fundamental ideas viewed in the light of new discoveries in detail. You can trace their first glimmerings in the minds of ancient thinkers and philosophers. That does not, however, make them less startling even to those who recognize their long descent. They are a sudden outburst of flowers from long-dried stems, rooted in the soil of antique thought which modern research has broken up and fertilized.

Bible Passages

Delilah and Samson

(Judges 16: 6-20)

AND Delilah said to Samson, tell me, I pray thee, wherein thy great strength lieth, and wherewith thou mightest be bound to afflict thee.

And Samson said unto her, If they bind me with seven green withs that were never dried, then shall I be weak, and be as another man.

Then the lords of the Philistines brought up to her seven green withs which had not been dried, and she bound him with them.

Now there were men lying in wait, abiding with her in the chamber. And she said unto him, The Philistines be upon thee, Samson. And he brake the withs, as a thread of tow is broken when it toucheth the fire. So his strength was not known.

And Delilah said unto Samson, Behold, thou hast mocked me, and told me lies: now tell me, I pray thee, wherewith thou mightest be bound.

And he said unto her, If they bind me fast with new ropes that never were occupied, then shall I be weak, and be as another man.

Delilah therefore took new ropes, and bound him therewith, and said unto him, The Philistines be upon thee, Samson. And there were liers in wait abiding in the chamber. And he brake them from off his arms like a thread.

And Delilah said unto Samson, Hitherto thou hast mocked me, and told me lies: tell me wherewith thou mightest be bound. And he said unto her, If thou weavest the seven locks of my head with the web.

And she fastened it with the pin, and said unto him, The Philistines be upon thee, Samson. And he awaked out of his sleep, and went away with the pin of the beam, and with the web.

And she said unto him, How canst thou say, I love thee, when thine heart is not with me? thou hast mocked me these three times, and hast not told me wherein thy great strength lieth.

And it came to pass, when she pressed him daily with her words, and urged him, so that his soul was vexed unto death;

That he told her all his heart, and said unto her, There hath not come a razor upon mine head; for I be shaven, then my strength will go from me, and I shall become weak, and be like any other man.

And when Delilah saw that he had told her all his heart, she sent and called for the lords of the Philistines, saying, Come up this once, for he hath shewed me all his heart. Then the lords of the Philistines came up unto her, and brought money in their hand.

And she made him sleep upon her knees; and she called for a man, and she caused him to shave off the seven locks of his head; and she began to afflict him, and his strength went from him.

And she said, The Philistines be upon thee, Samson. And he awoke out of his sleep, and said, I will go out as at other times before, and shake myself. And he wist not that the Lord was departed from him.

Wall Street Serves Roast Beef

By Herbert Kaufman

THE world's champion barbecue took place on February 7. Almost all the lambs were sheared of their nice golden fleece and done to a turn. And the bears gorged to heart's content on roast beef.

The Federal Reserve's suddenly announced decision anent speculative loans caught the bull movement off guard and precipitated a near panic.

An incredible total of paper profits vanished faster than surprised tickers could groan their agony. And even the water squeezed out of recent markets hasn't yet quenched the backfire from Washington.

The continent is littered with wrecked air castles. Many an imagination, which fondled dreams of Rolls-Royces and Florida villas, is shuddering at the nightmares of bankruptcy and dispossession.

The little pitchers, as usual, went too often to the well—and some big ones, too, are rather badly cracked.

But America has been joy-riding at such a dizzy speed that it will take a number of like thank-you-marms to jolt investment to its brake pedals. Months will probably elapse before sanity and caution are again in fiscal control.

Juicy call rates may indefinitely conspire with loose capital and thwart restraining forces.

Many corporations, enticed by record rentals offered for ready money, are still furnishing war sinews to the gamblers. And this, despite the example of U. S. Steel, duPont interests, General Electric and the telephone companies, whose boards consider the practice both unethical and perilous to business stability.

Merchants and manufacturers cannot afford to bid for credit at the auction block on Broad and Wall. And the continued diversion of loanable cash into the frantic crap game raging there menaces prosperity the land over.

Some authorities figure a security inflation as high as 15 billions. Which represents the difference between the realizable assets behind stock issues and their listed worth.

If only half, the disparity advises prompt attention to "stop-look-and-listen" signs.

Experts have held that cheap rediscount will put a check-rein in the hands of finance, and enable the banks to undersell lay competition, and drive its reckless influence from the call field.

Tattle-birds begin to whisper that Reserve opinion now inclines to that remedy.

Yet, so many false prophets have appointed days of doom for the bulls that experience warns prediction against fixing the hour of slaughter.

But any dollar with the least common sense must see that the herds in the "long green" pasture will soon be losing a lot of their fat.

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—Diary of a modern Pepys: Up and mightily pleased to be home again and reading my mail, there being several correspondents who seem to think they will never get their money. With my wife to call on Mrs. Keats Speed, who was on crutches from a broken ankle.

So home and found an autographed copy of Charles Hanson Towne's brave poems and a compliment, too, from Irene Castle for something in my column. All the afternoon trying to insert a ribbon in a typewriter, and as ink-stained as a printer's devil, and as mad as everything.

In the evening with others to a crystal gazer's who divined our futures, and I have no faith in his abracadabra but, like a ninny, paid a pound for his fakery. Then to a sandwich bazar filled with people whose sole aim in life is to be seen. To bed.

Society seems to be caroling a swan song for its butterflies. The idling gadabout of pre-war days has gone to work. Young fashionables are taking a place in business, the professions and the arts, instead of flourishing at bridge and cotillions. To be "in trade" once received a sniff. Architects employ society women to pass on plans for smart houses. Motion picture moguls employ them to look over studio settings. They have become store buyers, dress designers, contributors to magazines and—just a second to give your imagination a stretch—one is at Palm Beach with a hefty expense account to mingle among nabobs and casually mention a big department store's wares.

It is axiomatic among ship news reporters the easiest persons to interview are the prominent who have really achieved. They may have nothing hot to quote, but are invariably pleasant. The most difficult are those who try to simulate importance by building up reportorial barriers. A short time ago one of these hoity-toity questionables arrived. After much fuss and furry, the scribes were admitted to his cabin. The spokesman—a certain Mr. Harry Acton of Flushing—said: "We hope you had a pleasant trip." All bowed gravely and passed on without asking a single question, the old marine meanies.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

YOU have some disagreeable habits which cause discord in your home.

To abstain or refrain from them would not take from you any important privileges.

You might have to be more careful and thoughtful of others.

That is where you fail—you selfishly consider only your own comfort.

You want to do as you please regardless of others.

So long as those in your home do exactly as you wish, you are good natured.

But when they follow their own inclinations you become cross.

Is this giving your family a square deal?

Why should you be supreme in your home?

Your irritating habits are not of much importance to you.

It is just that you want to have the first and last say about things.

You don't want to give in to another's wishes.

You might cultivate the spirit of fairness and then you would realize that you have no right to be a czar in your home.

These mean little habits may be as annoying to your friends outside.

Defer to the family wishes and make yourself agreeable all around.

You will find that you will get pleasure out of adding to the comfort and joy of others.
